McKinley Bill Perhaps the Best That Can Be Devised.

IDAHO BILL COMES UP TO-DAY

House Passes the Fortifications Bill—Death of Representative Wilber, of New York—Washington District Court Terms

WASHINGTON, April 1.—[OREGONIAN office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—Chairman McKinley, of the ways and means committee is not alarmed over the protests that have been made by men from the Northeast and West over the tariff bill his committee has framed. The indications are that there will be a very general attempt on the part of the republicans to amend the bill when it reaches the house, so as to make it conform with their home interests. There will probably be a caucus held on the measure in due time but members who believe it would be political death to them to vote against the interests of their districts will insist upon the right to propose amendments. The committee will have to accede to this but they are confident that they can bring matters to such an understanding that the members after proposing their amendments and probably having them voted down will vote for the bill practically as it is. Before the matter settles down there will be a great deal of kicking and hauling in the house, but republicans generally express the opinion that the bill in some form will become a law.

The men who want free sugar will make a hard fight to have all the duty taken off. The committee will meet them with the statement that the revenue will not stand so heavy a cut that the bill as it stands will make a reduction of $60,000,000, and the government cannot stand a greater reduction at this time. This reduction is possible only by ceasing to pay in millions to the sinking fund. The sugar men will insist on having a higher duty on sugar than the bill gives, and will make a stubborn fight for it. The committee will meet their attack with the statement that the duty proposed in this bill deeply cut as it is, is extraordinarily high and some significant remarks will be made about the trust.

By knocking out the squads of opposition in detail and preventing combinations, the committee hope to preserve the integrity of their bill and get it through the house. They cannot calculate on what may happen to it in the senate, but they expect the Western influence which is strong in that body to hold the bill in shape. The attack on the hide duty is very savage, and there may be a possibility of its being knocked from the bill in the house but this is not expected. The committee believe that these attacks on the bill from various sections demanding a reduction in one place and higher duties in another will equalize themselves and in the end the republicans will get together, believing that it is the best bill that could be framed on protection principles and pass.

McKinley has expected disappointments and protests and so have the leaders on the republican side but they feel sure that party ties will be strong enough to hold the majority together. It is even said that the bluster in the East against the hides duty and the clamor for free raw material is made to affect the demand for free sugar and greater reduction on certain articles consumed in the West.

The democratic members of the ways and means committee are now working on a minority report which will be offered in the shape of amendments to various items in the hope that enough republicans will vote for them to carry them through and entirely remodel the bill. Senator Squire to-day had a consultation with revenue officials with a view of stopping opium smuggling into the far Northwest. The immediate topic of discussion was the two steam launches which he wants for the coast service. The bill which he introduced some days ago appropriating $15 000 for this purpose has been referred by the committee on commerce to the revenue bureau for advice. The revenue department undoubtedly favors the general plan of Mr. Squire's bill, but had about decided to recommend sailing craft instead of those propelled by steam. Senator Squire urged the need of swift vessels if they were to give adequate protection against opium smuggling and to enforce the provisions of the Chinese restriction bill as intended.

The people interested in the Montana case were out in force at the capitol to-day, as it was given out that the Montana case would come up. Colonel Sanders, T. C. Power and his brother John Power, and A. J. Seligman, chairman of the republican committee of Montana were on hand early and expected to see the merry war. Martin Maginnis and W. A. Clark were also on hand and were busily engaged in priming the democratic senators who were going to defend the democratic report. Clark and Senator Gray were closeted for an hour or more, the former going over the speech which had been prepared for the opening on the democratic side but Edmunds prevented any consideration by moving an executive session. The Montana republicans have no doubt of favorable action when the vote is finally reached.

Representative Turner to-day introduced a preamble and joint resolution for the better protection of human life on the Atlantic ocean. He called attention to the recent accident to the City of Paris and said that the rivalry between the competing lines of steamships was so keen that considerations of safety and even humanity were often lost sight of. He held that better protection to human life and property can be afforded by a system of ocean patrol than by any other means. Such a system of ocean patrol must necessarily be maintained by different nations, and the resolution instructs the president to communicate with the foreign powers interested in Atlantic travel, with a view to securing their co-operation in the establishment of an effective system of ocean patrol.

Perkins, from the committee on Indian affairs to-day reported to the house the bill providing that all purchasers of lands in the Pawnee Indian reservation Nebraska who may be in default of payment under the provisions of the act of April 10 1876 shall be required to make full payment therefor within two years from the passage of this act and any person in default sixty days thereafter shall forfeit the right to the lands purchased and any and all payments.

The senate bill establishing terms and places of holding United States court in the state of Washington passed the senate to-day without a dissenting vote. The entire list of counties were read for the first time in the house, and the manner in which the clerk stumbled over the names was amazing to those who knew how they should be pronounced. The list of names nearly paralyzed the clerk and puzzled the members. They were glad to pass the bill and hear no more about it.

Senator Stewart has introduced a bill regulating the manufacture sale and importation of lager beer. Beer containing anything except hops malt and water is designated as adulterated beer. The bill imposes taxes upon brewers and dealers in adulterated lager beer, with heavy penalties for failure to take out license. All packages containing the impure beverage are to be branded "adulterated."

Senator Mitchell reported favorably to-day his bill for the relief of the Oregon Paving & Contract Company. This company had a contract for furnishing stone for the Columbia jetties, but were unable to complete the contract on account of the failure of the quarry from which the stone was to be obtained. The company is still held upon the bond, and the present bill releases them.

The National Ticket Brokers' Association to-day presented to the house committee on commerce a vigorous protest against passage of Baker's amendments to the interstate act forbidding the sale or transfer by any person except a regularly appointed ticket agent of railroad tickets. They held that the proposition would result in higher railroad rates to the public.

A sub-committee has reported to the house judiciary committee a general bill which will be perfected in details and reported to the house. The intention is to relieve United States supreme and circuit courts in a measure. It proposes to increase the circuit courts by the addition of one judge in each circuit.

Frank Grigiar, of Minneapolis, a special agent of the treasury department, has been ordered to Alaska to supervise the erection of public buildings at various points in the territory.

IN THE HOUSE.

Fortifications Appropriation Bill Passed—Days Set for the Idaho Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—In the house the committee on judiciary reported a resolution reciting that it is alleged by the attorney general that in many district courts the practice of suspending sentence on criminal cases prevails without warrant of law, and that in some parts of the country United States district attorneys, marshals and deputies and United States commissioners have been guilty of maladministration and corruption in office, and directing the committee on judiciary to inquire into the extent, cause and effect of such illegal practices, adopted.

The house went into committee of the whole on the fortifications appropriation bill. On motion of Cheadle, and after some argument an amendment was adopted providing that the board created to inquire into the facilities for producing steel forgings for high power guns shall also extend its inquiries to the Indianapolis arsenal.

The committee then rose and the bill was passed without discussion, the amount appropriated being $4 521 678.

The national zoological park bill, providing a park in the District of Columbia, passed.

The naval appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar.

A resolution was passed that the Idaho admission bill be made a special order for to-morrow and Thursday and the previous question be ordered at 3 o'clock Thursday.

The death of Representative Wilber was then announced and the house adjourned.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—In the senate the house bill authorizing the Mississippi river commission to purchase or hire such boats as are immediately necessary to rescue the inhabitants of the overflowed districts was laid before the senate and passed immediately.

Among the bills reported and placed on the calendar were: The senate bill directing the secretary of agriculture to cause to be made all the necessary field examinations, surveys and experiments in reference to irrigation by overflow waters between 97 degrees west longitude and the foothills of the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains, and the house bill to amend the census law in relation to Chinese residents.

Then the senate proceeded to executive business and when the doors were reopened adjourned.

The senate disposed of the nominations of Judge Swaine and Attorney Stripling, of the Northern district of Florida, to-day. After an executive session of five and a half hours they were confirmed by a strict party vote. The nomination of Mizell, to be marshal is still before the judiciary committee.

Congressman Wilber is Dead.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 1.—Congressman David Wilber, of the twenty fourth district, died at Oneonta this morning.

David Wilber was born in Schenectady county, New York, October 5, 1820. He received a common school education. His first political office was supervisor of the town of Milford, in which he served from 1858 to 1866. He was engaged in the hop business for over thirty years and accumulated a handsome fortune, and during his career was president of two banking institutions. Entering the field of politics he was elected, as a republican to the Forty third and Forty sixth congresses. He was a delegate to the republican national convention at Chicago in 1880. He was a member of the Fiftieth and Fifty first congresses.

Helena Land Office Incompetency.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Secretary Noble to-day reversed the decision of the general land office and of the land office at Helena involving a valuable claim of John C. Hauck, in the Helena district. The claim was rejected on the ground that the lines of survey must be amended to run either with a corner of a surveyed township or to a mineral monument. The secretary found on looking at the plats that the survey was accurate, and without discussing the case at all reminds the land office officials that they did not evidently understand the law in the case, and reverses their decision, giving Hauck his claim.

The Chicago Plumbers Winning.

CHICAGO, April 1.—To-night five shops had conceded to the demands of the strikers. The Master Plumbers' Association however, still holds out. The master carpenters are looking for a strike in a few days.

NEWS OF TWO STATES.

Rejected Suitor Murders a Schoolgirl Near Dayton.

HE THEN SHOOTS HIMSELF DEAD

Pacific County, Wash., the Headquarters of a League of Murderers.

THE MEMBERS EAGER TO CONFESS

City Election at Spokane Falls—Dwelling House at Dayton, Wash., Burned—Salem Unanimous on the Bridge.

DAYTON, Wash., April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Yesterday afternoon Henry Sanders, a young man 19 years of age, living on the mountain eight miles from Dayton, shot and instantly killed Della Eddington aged 17, and committed suicide shooting himself in the center of the forehead. The crime was due to jealousy. He had threatened to kill her if she refused his attentions and meeting her near her home as she was returning from school fired the fatal shots.

Their bodies were discovered a short time afterward by Mrs. Eddington, who heard the firing and went out to investigate. The murdered girl was a general favorite and her parents are highly respected in the community.

THE BENDER FAMILY OUTDONE.

Leagued Murderers in Pacific County—Mysterious Disappearances Explained.

ASTORIA, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The confession of George Rose cannot be obtained from the state's attorney or sheriff, but it implicates four men who will undoubtedly hang, and another one will probably reach the gallows. The murder proves to have been a triple one as Mrs. Frederickson would have been a mother by this time if alive. She was a beautiful and well-educated Danish girl with a fine voice, and was very popular here and at Bruceport where she resided some time before going on the claim with her husband. The bodies were buried side by side at Bay Center, Sunday. In addition to John B. Rose and Jack Edwards the confession implicates Edward Gibbons, a man who was boarding at Rose's some time before the murder, and Jones the barber. Both are in jail at Oysterville. The murder was committed about the 28th of January, and proof has been found that Jones went to South Bend about the 27th. The confession also throws light on previous mysterious disappearances in Pacific county, and the case promises to develope quite as much interest and sensationalism as the famous Bender tragedy. Jack Edwards broke down completely yesterday and offered a full confession but his attorney interposed and induced him to postpone it. State's Attorney Hardesty expects to secure his confession to-morrow, or before the opening of the preliminary examination Thursday sure, and thinks it will prove more valuable than young Rose's. Hardesty says he has strong evidence indicating a widespread conspiracy in connection with the murders, but cannot publish it now.

Union Pacific Extension to the Sound.

TACOMA, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Union Pacific officials including Vice President Holcomb, Chief Engineer Bogue, Chief Constructing Engineer Cameron, General Manager Smith and Principal Assistant Engineer Kennedy arrived here last night and went to Victoria to-day. Engineer Cameron stated that the Union Pacific intends extending its line of railroads to Puget sound as fast as possible. He thinks that the Northern Pacific's tracks will be paralleled. The Union Pacific officials will remain down the Sound for several days. They are quietly studying the situation and upon their report made to the headquarters of the company depends much as to the company's final action regarding building to the Sound. The Northern Pacific officials are watching them closely notwithstanding that they refuse to say much concerning the situation.

News From Astoria.

ASTORIA, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The Kitty arrived yesterday, seventy days from Hong Kong with 1260 tons of freight. Rough weather on the eastward voyage carried away the foretopgallant mast. Mchebrenth Sukeaki Kieho Favo, a Jap seaman, fell from the topgallant yard to the deck and was killed and was instantly buried at sea.

At Ilwaco, yesterday Lee Winter, a young Russian pulled a revolver out of a valise, with the muzzle toward him. The weapon was discharged. The ball passed into the right thigh ranging downward. The wound is painful but not serious. The ball was extracted.

The fare to Ilwaco on the Gen. Canby has been reduced from 50 to 25 cents.

A Dayton, Wash., Residence Burned.

DAYTON, Wash., April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The dwelling house of J. H. Hosler, in Dayton was discovered on fire at 9 o'clock last night and was almost consumed before the fire could be controlled. No one was in the building at the time and the origin is unknown. Loss, $2500, partially insured.

While Ed Deyoe was unloading grain at the elevator yesterday his team valued at $300 became frightened by a pistol shot and ran away, wrecking the wagon, killing one horse and badly injuring the other.

News From Salem.

SALEM, April 3.—[Special Telegram.]—Miss Lulu Thomson, the 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thomson, died this morning at her home in this city, of diphtheria.

At a regular meeting of the city council the result of Monday's special election was canvassed and but thirty one votes found against the proposition to vote $20 000 bonds for the steel bridge.

Oregon and Washington Presbytery.

ALBANY, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The annual meeting of the Presbytery of the United Presbyterian church for Oregon and Washington met in this city this evening. A sermon was preached by Rev. W. Logan, of Portland. A number of ministers were present from different portions of the Northwest. A regular business session will be held to-morrow.

Spokane Politics.

SPOKANE, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—A citizens' mass convention to-night nominated B. B. Glasscock for mayor, Woranold, Winship, Beamer, Bassett, Ellison and Dr. W. H. Olds for councilmen, and Lon A. Conlee for city marshal.

Tacoma a Slow Baseball Town.

TACOMA, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Very slow progress is being made towards organization of a baseball club in Tacoma. All the other towns in the league have already completed their organizations and chosen their managers and signed some players, while not one of those steps has yet been taken in this city. H. H. Lucas, a veteran baseball manager from the East, is now here for the purpose of securing, if possible, the position of manager of the Tacoma club.

SPOKANE CITY ELECTION.

More Than Four Thousand Votes—A Rich Man Elected Mayor.

SPOKANE FALLS, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The city election to-day passed quickly. Few drunken men were seen upon the streets. Two tickets were in the field, people's and citizens'. The result is an overwhelming victory for the former. Charles F. Clough is elected mayor over F. E. Curtis by a majority of over 900. Curtis is a prohibitionist, and was supported by a number of agitators who tried to deliver the labor vote, but failed. Mr. Clough was formerly in the council. He is a real estate dealer and has a fortune of nearly a quarter of a million dollars. For chief of police N. G. Harbord defeats Frank Redner by 1000 majority. P. F. Quinn defeats Howard Hazeltine for city attorney by an even larger vote. One councilman was elected from each of the four wards, and in each case the ticket headed by Clough was successful.

The total vote will be over 4000, the largest by far ever polled in any election. At the last municipal contest it was 2200. This is a remarkably good showing, when it is considered that thousands of residents have not acquired the right to vote, and that the city limits do not include any of the suburbs.

Supreme Court of Oregon.

SALEM, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—In the supreme court:

Daniel Durbin, app., vs. C. C. Kinney and R. W. Sayre, resps.; appeal from Marion, argued and submitted.

Benjamin Windsor, app., vs. Hiram Simpkins, resp.; appeal from Polk county; argued and submitted.

Sound Steamboat Trust Raises Rates.

TACOMA, April 1.—The Puget Sound steamboat companies have combined on an advance of about 30 per cent. in freight and passenger rates, beginning April 5. Tacoma and Seattle are made common points for all Sound ports.

CALIFORNIA NEWS ITEMS.

Interesting California Land Decision.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—In 1862 the owners of the Mexican grant El Sobrante, in Contra Costa county, sold a portion of the grant, 510 acres, of which, after several changes, the ownership came into the possession of James Taylor, and afterward his widow, Annette. The Taylors lived on the land from 1864 to 1882, when they rented it to W. L. Yates. A survey then made showed that that Taylor's land really lay outside the grant, and belonged to the government. Yates set up a squatter title to the land, refusing to recognize any rights of Mrs. Taylor. The department of the interior decided in his favor, but the secretary has just reversed the decision. Mrs. Taylor now has sixty days to buy the land from the government, the law giving her prior right of purchase.

Killed by a Terrible Fall.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—John Hall, about 20 years old, was killed by a fall this afternoon at the Union Iron Works. He was an overhead crane man, and his duty was to adjust the gearing at the top of the high shears used for hoisting heavy machinery. He was continually at work, therefore, at a hight of at least sixty feet above the ground. While preparing for some hoisting he lost his balance and fell to the ground. When picked up he was still alive. Outwardly he bore no signs of the frightful fall. He died in about an hour.

California United Workmen.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1—[Special Telegram]—The thirteenth annual session of the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen began here to-day. Grand Master Workman, Young presided and 300 representatives of about 200 lodges were in attendance. In his report the Grand Master states that the present membership of the order was 18,769; cash balance on hand $2,842; estimated revenue for the current year, $19,475. The lodge continues in session three days.

Highbinder's Employer Charged With Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—An inquest in the case of Gy Ah Wy, a Chinese highbinder buried yesterday, was held to-day. Hoy Ching was positively identified as the man who did the killing, but Chung Chuck was declared to be the principal who offered him $400 to commit the murder. The jury charged Chuck with the murder, and Ching with being an accessory before the fact.

Transcontinental Committee Meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—The freight committee of the Transcontinental association held a long session at the Palace hotel to-day, but nothing but routine business was transacted, and from the present outlook the session will continue a week longer. A number of applications from merchants for reductions in freight rates were discussed, but no definite action taken regarding them.

Sale of a Schooner.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Captain Thompson, of the schooner Challenger, sold the vessel to-day to Captain Lauretsen. The terms of sale are private. The Challenger arrived here Sunday last. Captain Thompson has made no reports of the desertion of two of the crew of the vessel after it had got out several hundred miles to sea from Samoa, March 9.

San Francisco Ship Broker Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Captain Charles Wilson, who has been for some years a ship broker and marine surveyor in this city, died suddenly to-day. Captain Wilson was appointed port warden by Governor Waterman about two years ago, but owing to a severe attack of illness resigned. He never entirely recovered from the malady.

Oregon & California Road Improving.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—J. Fillmore, general superintendent of the Southern Pacific road, has returned from his visit to Cow creek canyon and other points on the Oregon line. He says that in two weeks the road will be in first-class shape again and a return to the old-time schedule will be made.

San Francisco Doctor Kills Himself.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Dr. James P. Webb, a well-known physician, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself. He had been despondent for some weeks. He left a note asking that his body be given to the medical department of the University of California.

Strike of California Quarrymen.

SACRAMENTO, April 1.—Over 200 men in the quarries at Rocklin went out on strike this morning. The strike does not affect the stonecutters yet. The men demand that nine hours constitute a day's work, and demand the same wages as heretofore paid.

Umatilla's Quick Trip From Portland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—The steamer Umatilla arrived to-night, fifty-five and one-half hours from Portland. This is the quickest trip that has been made. On the voyage down the sister of the storekeeper died from consumption.

Racing at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—After being used for a farm about ten years, the old Bennings racetrack was revived to-day by the newly organized Washington Jockey Club, with favorable prospects for continuance and prosperity. The weather to-day was clear, but so cold that the 2000 spectators were chilled through. The track was slow and heavy, but in remarkably good condition, considering the heavy snow and rainstorm which prevailed throughout yesterday and most of last night.

Five furlongs—Village Maid won, Onward second, Beck third; time, 1:06.

Three-year-olds and upwards, six furlongs—Shotover won, Manhattan second, Cornelia third; time, 1:19.

Two-year-old colts, half mile—Captain Wawener won, Cornelius second, Eston third; time, :52¾.

Handicap, 3-year-olds and upward, one and one-sixteenth miles—Ike H. Rather won, Vandergrift second, Bess third; time, 1:56½.

Three-year-olds and upward, mile, over five hurdles—Jim Murphy won, Bassanco second, Elphine third; no time taken.

WATER FAMINE PERHAPS AVERTED

List of the Dead, So Far as Officially Recorded—Mississippians' Roosting in Trees and on Housetops.

LOUISVILLE, April 1.—The sun came out bright this morning and has been shining all day. The ruins dried off rapidly and the work of repairing the damage by the tornado has gone forward energetically. Walls are going up and roofs reappearing on every hand. The work of relief is now proceeding systematically. The clearing of the streets entirely of wreckage was begun today.

Temporary mechanism has been constructed by which it is hoped the water reservoir can be repaired. The health officers fear a great increase of disease as a result of the lack of water to flush out sewer connections in case there should be a water famine.

Out of about eighty houses destroyed by the tornado in Jeffersonville the owners of four-fifths of them are poor people, whose little homes were their only possessions. The homeless ones have been given shelter, but the situation over there is much under estimated, and help there is needed. In the block between Market, Front, Mulberry and Fort streets nearly every home was ruined and most of the inmates lost all except the clothing they wore. Subscriptions for Jeffersonville are coming in slowly.

FREAKS OF THE WIND.

There are hundreds of the most interesting and miraculous incidents connected with the tornado, showing queer freaks of the wind. A block of iron weighing over 150 pounds was blown into the second story of the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southern railway building, near the Union depot. Nobody knows where it came from, and the nearest building from which it could have come is nearly 100 yards away. Great sheets of iron roofing were dropped upon Dr. Barry's farm near Turner's station, forty miles from the city, on the Short Line.

In the ruins of a house on West Main street a clock was found clinging to the wall. It was a large office clock, but no one in the vicinity had ever seen it before, and no one knows where it came from. It was badly broken, but the hands still pointed to 8:20 P. M. A large slab of marble was found in a residence on Fort Madison street which was never there before. It will weigh over 100 pounds.

At Baird's drug store, on Market, above Ninth, two bird cages with birds were blown in through the sky-light. The cages were not injured and the birds were as full of song as ever. When the building occupied by Brand & Bethel, the tobacco men, on Green street, went to pieces, a portion of the frame work dropped through the roof of a little cottage just east of the factory. It consisted of a heavy timber to which were mortised four upright pieces of timber. When this came through the cottage the family were sitting around the table in the dining room, and the four uprights simply penned them in, but did not hurt them in the least. It was one of the most wonderful escapes yet heard of.

ST. LOUIS, April 1.—Information from the part of the tornado-swept region in southern Illinois and Kentucky is to the effect that fifteen families were rendered homeless and most of them were injured. The storm literally swept growing wheat from the ground. Dwellings were wrecked, and all the barns and outhouses destroyed. Several hundred head of cattle were killed in Livingston county, Kentucky, across the Ohio river from Golconda. Many houses were wrecked. One person was killed and many injured.

GLASGOW, Ky., April 1.—News has just been received from the lower part of this and Allen counties. The tornado Thursday did immense damage. For ten miles beyond Barren river and five miles this side the storm swept everything before it in a track 500 yards to half a mile wide and did not leave a house or tree standing. Seventeen lives are said to have been lost in Allen county. Dwellings, barns, timber and fences were destroyed. Money loss is heavy.

CHATTANOOGA, April 1.—A dispatch from Fayetteville, Tenn., gives the following news of the ravages of the cyclone: The loss aggregates $250,000. Milton college, all the churches and 200 houses are in ruins, and people are homeless, destitute and suffering. Subscriptions were started to-day for the sufferers at Fayetteville, and nearly $1500 secured.

THE MISSISSIPPI OVERFLOW.

People Perched in Trees and on Housetops Chilled and Hungry.

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 1.—The situation has been very wet here the past twenty-four hours. Heavy rains last night and today made things disagreeable in addition to the encroachment of the backwater in the northern portion of the city. The water, which had not spread since last night, is now flowing over the track of the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas, thereby preventing the water from spreading much in the town. The water from the Huntington break is now passing back into the river at the Offutt break, thereby relieving the waters at our back considerably. The Easton break is, however, letting out a great quantity of water, which is fast spreading over the eastern portion of the county, and in some places it is quite deep.

To-day the mayor appointed a committee to look after and care for those in distress in the overflowed portions of the city. The cotton exchange to-day sent a report to the Associated Press, saying that the condition here is not as bad as it would seem to the outside world. Should the flood pass off in thirty days a good crop can be made, which has been the case in nearly all previous overflows.

ST. LOUIS, April 1.—Information as to the state of affairs in the flooded Laconia Circle, the section of country between Helena and Arkansas City lying between the Mississippi and White rivers, is that people have been in the tops of their houses and clinging to trees for a week. Many of them are nearly starved to death, and many of their cattle which were placed on platforms were washed away and drowned. The citizens of Helena sent the steamer Houston Coombs down Thursday to aid the people. Friday the men went over the whole circle in skiffs and transferred people from trees and roofs to ginhouses, which are generally large and substantial. All are packed with people, 200 being in some of them. The Coombs brought out 130 people and 110 head of stock, arriving at Helena yesterday. When the Coombs came out the steamer Titan, with barges, was going in. It is thought they can bring out all the remaining stock and as many people as desire to get away. Many planters are utterly ruined.

NEW YORK, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—When told that the New Orleans Board of Trade intended to ask for his resignation for prophesying the present flood there, Sergeant Dunn, of the weather bureau, said:

I think the New Orleans people are acting foolishly in the face of the present dangers. No matter what they say, they will have their hands full looking after their city. They may have my head if they want it, but I think they would better protect their people. The only portion of the report that has been misrepresented is that which states that I said the flood would be as disastrous as that at Johnstown. What I did say was that districts all through the Mississippi valley from Cairo to the gulf would be flooded. I mentioned no particular place. The flood is no respecter of cities, and I hardly see why the New Orleans people should take offense at my prophesy. These are busy times with the people of New Orleans, and they should know it."

HELENA, Ark., April 1.—Owing to the break in the levee at Austin, Miss., Helena has received some relief, the river falling slightly here. Stock saved from the flood are having a fearful time standing the attacks of the buffalo knats that swarm in myriads.

AWAY WITH THE SUPREME COURT!

Anger of the Minnesota Farmers Over the "Granger" Railroad Decision.

ST. PAUL, April 1.—The Farmers' Alliance of Minnesota met to-day, and, after considering the recent "Granger" railroad decision of the United States supreme court, adopted a set of resolutions attacking that court in an extraordinary manner. The resolutions characterize the decision as a "second Dred Scott decision," and ask whether any other race would submit to have their liberties thus wheedled away from them on technicalities by the squawk of lawyers as supreme authority above congress and the president and the people. No government on earth conferred powers on any court such as we granted our supreme court. In our anxiety to protect the rights of property we have created machinery that threatens to destroy the rights of man.

The resolutions further declare that copies shall be sent to every alliance in the country, with a request that they unite in an effort to amend the constitution so as to abolish the new slavery of the states and the nation, established by and for the benefit of corporate wealth, and to make it so plain that the people are masters that no court, however shallow or corrupt, shall ever again attempt to subject them to the domination of artificial rulings they have themselves created.

MRS. SNELL M'CREA PENITENT.

She Has Quarreled With Banker Green, and is Sorry She Eloped.

NEW YORK, April 1.—A cablegram from London says: Douglas Green and Mrs. Snell McCrea, who ran away to Europe, are at swords points, and an eruption is likely to take place place at any moment. Report says the pair are stopping at the Savoy hotel and remorse has overtaken the murdered banker's daughter., who laments her ruined life and besmirched character. Mrs. Snell, who was summoned from Chicago, is with her daughter.

Reports that Green is trying to come to some arrangement with his relatives by which he can return to this city are veryfied. A friend of the family states that if he should reach New York he would be cited to appear for examination.

Only the Parents Are Dutiable.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The collector of customs at Fort Benton, Mont., has informed the treasury department that a large number of foreign cattle strayed into the district from British America, about three years ago, and have remained ever since. He asks whether they are liable to duty. Assistant Secretary Tichenor replied that while the increase in the number of animals, which may naturally have occurred since the arrival of the herd in the United States is not liable to duty, being of domestic production, the animals which strayed across the border are properly subject to duty.

Soldiers Not Intemperate as a Class.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—At a temperance meeting in All Souls' church to-night a letter from Secretary Proctor was read, from which the following is an extract:

I heartily sympathize with the efforts of the society in behalf of temperance in the army and navy, and shall do everything in my power for the good work. I am not prepared to admit that the soldiers of our army are more intemperate than other classes of men. If a soldier is drunk his very uniform makes it noticeable, and we may do them as a class an injustice. Certainly the more I see of the soldiers of our army the greater respect I have for them.

Treasurer Archer's Crime.

ANNAPOLIS, April 1.—The special legislative committee to investigate the accounts of Treasurer Archer have drawn a paper informing Governor Jackson that there is sufficient proof that the treasurer is a defaulter. They leave the case to the governor for action against Archer for malfeasance.

Treasurer Archer's son went to the governor's office to-day and handed in his father's resignation. It was accompanied by a statement from Archer that he was personally responsible for any shortage and that no blame attaches to any of his subordinates. The governor was not at his office to-day, and it is not known what action he will take.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 1.—The grand jury this afternoon brought in twenty-four indictments against Ben Pullen, jr., ex-city register, for embezzlement of $75,763. He has disappeared. Pullen is a brother of ex-Secretary Pullen, now on trial for embezzlement and larceny of a large slice of the city's funds.

TUCSON, April 1.—There are now six indictments against ex-Receiver Fred Smith. Bench warrants are out for his arrest, but his whereabouts has not been discovered.

Billiard-Table Maker Collender Dead.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Hugh W. Collender, of the Brunswick-Collender Billiard Table Manufacturing Company, died this morning.

WOMEN AT THE POLLS.

Humors of Municipal Elections in Red-Nosed Kansas.

DEMOCRATIC SWEEP IN CHICAGO

Catholics and Democrats Elect "Humorist" Peck Mayor of Milwaukee—Missouri Likes the Australian System.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 1.—Elections were held in Kansas to-day in sixty cities of the first, second and third class for councilmen and members of school board. In nearly all the cities the battles were fought on purely local issues. The chief interest attaching to the elections was the exercise of suffrage by the women. At Manhatten, two years ago, they captured all the city offices, and they had a ticket in the field today. The prospects are that it was elected over three other tickets. They had control of all the election machinery, having appointed women judges and clerks of election at all the precincts.

At Leavenworth the women nominated candidates for the council and three for the school board on the republican ticket. Something over 600 women were registered, and but half of them went to the polls. The democrats ran a straight male ticket and it was elected, with the exception of one councilman. All the women were defeated.

At Emporia the women were worked up to the highest pitch of political excitement over the candidacy of Mrs. Jackson for re-election as a member of the school board. The issue was on the proposition of the opposition to Mrs. Jackson to reduce the salaries of school teachers. Mrs. Jackson's platform was "Good salaries for good teachers." The returns to-night indicate her re-election.

At Topeka about 750 women were registered, but little over half of them voted. They had no candidates in the field, and were not interested in the election.

The women of Atchison, who had three candidates in the field on the democratic ticket, were unsuccessful and the straight republican ticket was victorious, including one lady candidate. The registration of women throughout in cities of the second and third classes generally was smaller than usual, owing to lack of issues.

CATHOLICS WIN IN MILWAUKEE.

George W. Peck, the Alleged Humorist, Probably Elected Mayor.

MILWAUKEE, April 1.—A hot contest was made over the city election. Three tickets were in the field—republican, democratic and citizens'. Lutherans and Catholics forced the Bennett compulsory education law into the campaign. They demanded its repeal, and would vote for no candidate who did not agree with them. This aroused the American and Protestant elements, and they turned out en masse.

Indications are that George W. Peck, the democratic editor of Peck's Sun, has been elected over Mayor Brown, renominated by the republicans. There was also a third ticket in the field, headed by N. S. Murphy, labor and citizens' candidate. Many democrats denounced the position of their party on the educational law, but voted for the party candidate on the ground that the law was not an issue in municipal politics. The Lutheran and Catholic clergy were very active in supporting the democratic candidates, who were pledged to repeal of the Bennett law.

LATER.—The democrats elect Peck mayor, and the entire ticket by 5000 majority.

Democratic Gains in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 1.—The democrats made a clean sweep of all the offices in the principal township elections to-day. The republicans previously had the north and south town offices. In the recently annexed towns the republicans maintained their lead. The result of the aldermanic contest seems to have left the city council practically unchanged, the republicans having a majority of three or four.

LATER.—The democrats made decided gains among the aldermen. The new city council will stand 44 democrats, 31 republicans, 2 independents and 1 independent republican.

Australian System a Success in Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—Elections were held in many cities throughout Missouri to-day for members of city councils and school boards. Dispatches from various cities state that the Australian system worked to the satisfaction of the voters.

At Salina, Kan., the female suffragists nominated a woman candidate for the school board. A colored woman was run by the anti-suffragists. The suffragists were defeated and the colored woman elected by an overwhelming majority.

Three Killed at a Negro Dance.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 1.—A general row occurred here among a lot of negro miners at Caperton, while at a dance early this morning. Howard Earnest, Wm. G. Lee and Wm. Dargeo were killed and others injured. Several arrests were made.

ANOTHER NEGRO HONORED.

The Pelican Club Offers George Dixon a Purse to Fight.

NEW YORK, April 2.—A cable dispatch from London says: At a meeting of the Pelican club it was decided that if George Dixon agrees to fight Wallace for the featherweight championship of the world, the club will offer a purse of £400 for Dixon and Wallace to fight, and allow Dixon £100 for expenses.

JOHN L. TO SPAR WITH CORBETT.

A Four Round Glove Contest to Come Off This Month.

NEW YORK, April 1.—A local paper says it is practically settled that John L. Sullivan and Jim Corbett, of San Francisco, will meet in a four round glove contest in about three weeks.

An American Ejected From Austria.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Stephen Zaro, a naturalized American citizen, who resided several years with an older brother, the keeper of a restaurant, in Santa Cruz, visited his old home in Dalmatia, Austria, in 1888, when his father died. The father left an estate of $20,000, and the mother, being old and feeble, asked Stephen to assume charge of the estate until it could be disposed of without a sacrifice. He remained until recently, when, according to a story in the World, the governor of Dalmatia gave him three days to leave the country. He had citizen's papers and a passport. He claims that neither the American consul at Trieste nor Minister Grant afforded him any satisfaction when he complained to them of the treatment. As soon as he reaches California he will seek legal advice, and without delay have the case officially called to the attention of Secretary Blaine.

Sheriff's Posse Holds Up a Train.

DUBUQUE, Ia., April 1.—While a passenger train on the St. Paul road was running east from Mt. Carmel, Ill., this morning, the door of a crowded coach was flung open and half a dozen men with drawn revolvers entered. The leader cried out: "Throw up your hands." The passengers were panic-stricken, fearing train robbers. The men proved to be the sheriff of Mt. Carmel and a posse, who had located a couple of notorious safe-blowers in the car. The men were seized and handcuffed and taken back to Mt. Carmel.

Death of an Indiana Millionaire.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Hon. John Reynolds, of Olive township, this county, died last night from a gastric ulcer. He was 76 years of age, was a millionaire and owned a controlling interest in the First National bank of South Bend, and the First National of Michigan City. He was also president of Buchanan's Michigan bank and a large stockholder in the Union National bank, Chicago. He was an ex-member of the legislature, and widely known in financial circles.

Trunk Line Rates Unchanged.

NEW YORK, April 1.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The trunk lines' executive committee to-day decided to maintain last year's West-bound rates for the coming season. No action was taken on East-bound rates. The matter of advancing rates from the seaboard to St. Paul was postponed until after the Western freight meeting at Chicago, to-morrow. Corn rates were discussed without action. No successor to Commissioner Tuttle, of the passenger committee was named.

Dedication of the Garfield Memorial.

CLEVELAND, April 1.—Ex-President Hayes and Hon. Amos Townsend, president and secretary of the Garfield Memorial Association, have issued an address, stating that the memorial structure, in this city, will be dedicated May 30 next, and inviting all organized bodies in the United States, military, Masonic and civic, and ex-soldiers and citizens generally to participate in the ceremonies. Arrangements are being effected with railroad companies for reduced rates of fare.

Northern Pacific Office Abolished.

ST. PAUL, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The resignation of Major A. G. Postelthwaite as general land agent of the Northern Pacific was announced to-day. It is effective May 1. On and after that date the office will be consolidated with the general land department, and the duties of the position relinquished by Postlethwaite performed by Assistant Land Commissioner George W. Hoard.

El Rio Rey Nursed for a Sore Throat.

NASHVILLE, April 1.—It is reported here that El Rio Rey is suffering from lung fever at the West Side park track. A reliable turfman states that El Rio Rey, blowing hard after work on Saturday, was wrapped up in neck cloths. The colt was led to his stable and treated for throat troubles.

Merchant Suicides—He Married a Widow.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Morris Marks, a commission merchant and silk inspector, committed suicide to-day. He married Etta Beasely, a widow with one child, last fall, and had trouble with her.

The Northern Pacific are now selling first-class limited tickets through to Chicago for $67; second-class, $39. These are the lowest rates now in effect.

Scaly Psoriasis 20 Years

A startling revelation of suffering. Entire person covered with dry scales. Every morning a dustpanful, some as large as an envelope, taken from the sheets. Tried every medicine and many doctors and hospitals. All thought he would die. Body a mass of disease, hair dead and lifeless. Suffering fearful. Cured in six weeks by the Cuticura Remedies. N. B.—This cure was made in 1879, and has remained permanent to date, Jan. 27, 1890.

Cured by Cuticura

I have been afflicted for twenty years with an obstinate skin disease, called by some M.Ds. Psoriasis, and others Leprosy, commencing on my scalp, and, in spite of all I could do, with the help of the most skillful doctors, it slowly but surely extended, until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do any labor, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there could be nearly a dustpanful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the envelope containing this letter. In the latter part of the winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, without any relief. The 12th of June I started west, in hopes I could reach the Hot Springs. I reached Detroit and was so low I thought I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr. —— treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All thought I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Cracked through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs; feet badly swollen; toe-nails came off; finger-nails dead and hard as a bone; hair dead, dry and lifeless as old straw. O, my God! how I did suffer.

My sister, Mrs. E. H. Davis, had a small part of a box of CUTICURA in the house. She wouldn't give up; said, "We will try CUTICURA." Some was applied on one hand and arm. Eureka! there was relief; stopped the terrible burning sensation from the word go. They immediately got the RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and SOAP. I commenced by taking one tablespoonful of RESOLVENT three times a day, after meals; had a bath once a day, water about blood heat; used CUTICURA SOAP freely; applied CUTICURA morning and evening. Result: returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left, and my skin as smooth as this sheet of paper.

CUTICURA REMEDIES

Words can scarcely do justice to the esteem in which these great skin cures, blood purifiers, and greatest of humor remedies are held by the thousands upon thousands who have found them the only source of immediate relief and of speedy, permanent and economical cure of skin, scalp and blood diseases which have rendered life almost unendurable.

CUTICURA, the great skin cure, instantly allays the most agonizing itching and inflammation, clears the skin and scalp of every trace of disease, heals ulcers and sores, removes crusts and scales, and restores the hair. CUTICURA SOAP, the greatest of skin purifiers and beautifiers, is indispensable in treating skin diseases and baby humors. It produces the whitest, clearest skin and softest hands, free from pimple, spot or blemish. CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood and skin purifier and greatest of humor remedies, cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the CAUSE. Hence the CUTICURA REMEDIES cure every species of agonizing, humiliating, itching, burning, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, and all humors, blotches, eruptions, sores, scales, and crusts, whether simple, scrofulous, or contagious, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston, Mass.

POLITICS IN ENGLAND.

Excitement of the Struggle for a Seat in Parliament.

BISMARCK 75 YEARS OF AGE

He Does Not Seem to Be Laid on the Shelf—The Doomed Czar Trembling Over the Latest Conspiracy.

LONDON, April 1.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—It is expected that the parliamentary election which is to be held in Windsor to-morrow will be one of the liveliest contests of late years. Both parties are working hard, the conservatives to maintain their majority of about 250, and the liberals to overcome it by the popularity of their candidate and accessions to their ranks through the increase of the total vote in the district since last election. The liberals have organized an immense parade, one of the features of which will be one of the Balfour battering rams used by the government evictors in various parts of Ireland to beat down the walls and doors of the houses whose inmates refused admission to the bailiffs and police. The conservatives have declared that they will capture this engine of destruction, and should they adhere to their resolve an exciting scene will ensue, from which may result many broken heads.

The members of the recently victorious Oxford crew are giving every possible assistance to the liberals in the contest, the Gladstonian candidate, Grenfell, being an Oxford graduate and having coached the crew to victory. Seldom has there occurred a contest into which both sides have entered with such perfect confidence of success.

BISMARCK 75 YEARS OLD.

Birthday Present and Visitors—He Is Not Out of Politics.

BERLIN, April 1.—To-day was the 75th anniversary of the birthday of Bismarck. The railway station at Friedrichsruhe was almost blocked by the enormous number of presents arriving for the prince.

During the day Bismarck received numberless congratulatory telegrams. He spent the day quietly with his family. In the evening he was serenaded.

After the procession last night Herr Woermann, in the course of conversation, expressed a hope that the prince would not be altogether a stranger to politics and that he would still take part in the debates in the reichstag. To this Bismarck made an acquiescent reply.

Twelve hundred railroad men formed a torchlight procession to-night and marched to Bismarck's residence, where the ex-chancellor was serenaded with patriotic songs. Bismarck spoke.

After thanking the visitors the prince walked the entire length of the procession and was greeted with deafening cheers. He evinced considerable emotion, and was obliged to wipe away the tears that stood in his eyes. His speech is regarded as proof of keen and unimpaired intelligence and marvelous memory.

Besides a portrait, Emperor William sent a handsome pipe and an autograph letter by an adjutant.

Reichsanzeiger announces the appointment of Baron Bieberstein as foreign secretary of state.

Lord Churchill Not a Liberal.

LONDON, April 1.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Lord Randolph Churchill has declined an invitation to address a liberal meeting on the subject of the conference of the peace commission at Berlin, a decision which meets the approval of his friends, who deprecate his making any public speeches on any subject at this time.

To Abolish the Reptile Press.

BERLIN, April 1.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Chancellor Von Caprivi has announced his intention to abandon the system of inspired journals, which he believes to be unfair to other newspapers and productive of no benefit to the inspiring authority. In future he will decline to extend favors to one paper which are denied to another, and will on the other hand aim at a wider and more equitable distribution of official news among the respectable journals without reference to their political leanings than has heretofore been the practice.

The emperor has decided that military officers on the retired list are under the jurisdiction of the civil authorities, and must in all cases be amenable to the civil laws.

Peace Between France and Germany.

LONDON, April 1.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—It is stated that Emperor William is preparing a scheme for a peaceful compromise of the existing differences between Germany and France, and will submit the terms to the French government at an early day. The plan is said to be so entirely equitable that its tender by the more aggressive of the two powers cannot fail of cordial acceptance by the other, though it may possibly be subjected to slight modification.

BERLIN, April 1.—The National Gazette's Paris correspondent telegraphs: Jules Simon, one of the French delegates to the labor conference, was surprised at the extent of Emperor William's knowledge. He said: "The emperor has greatly changed. He has been falsely represented to us for months. If the labor conference has no immediate practical result, it will be useful in spite of skeptics. It will be a signal for the new departure. Prince Bismarck introduced himself thus: 'I am Bismarck.'"

Emperor William and His Crowned Friends.

ST. PETERSBURGH, April 1.—Arrangements have been made for a meeting between Emperor William and the czar this coming summer. The emperor will attend the maneuvers of the Russian army of Krasnoe-Szelo.

PARIS, April 1.—The Figaro says Queen Victoria will visit Darmstadt and be met by Emperor William for a conference.

PARIS, April 1.—It is reported that the young Duke of Orleans will be released, but the fact of the release will not be allowed to become known until safely across the frontier.

The German Labor Revolt.

BERLIN, April 1.—The miners in two coal pits at Dartmund have joined the strike. Work is proceeding quietly in the Essen district.

Noted Hotel Men Visiting the Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Three of the leading innkeepers in America and the wealthiest hotel man in this country are registered at the Palace hotel. The party arrived to-day in a private car from Salt Lake City, and includes J. T. Kingsley, proprietor of the famous Continental hotel, Philadelphia; A. B. Darling, of the Fifth Avenue hotel, New York; G. W. Wetherbee, of the Windsor hotel, New York, and John B. Drake, of the Grand Pacific hotel, Chicago. The gentlemen are accompanied by their wives and are making a pleasure trip of the coast. They will go to Monterey next week, and from there south, returning to this city and going East by way of Portland and Tacoma.

Railway Eating-House Etiquette.

Edgar Wilson Nye.

Do not adopt the customary style of railway eating-house devastation. If your young life has been cursed by starvation, try to conceal it en route, and tell Bartholomew also to let his hunger, like a tapeworm, prey upon his inner works, rather than drown the roar of the report by his loud stertorious eating at a twenty-minute death trap. Do not become absent-minded at table. It may attract attention. In Canada, this winter, I saw an anxious man looking out the door of the dining-room nervously as he waited for his breakfast, and when he got his toast he turned the slice over critically to see if it had been properly indorsed before he would take it. He also, when his cakes were brought in, moistened his finger in his finger bowl and ran over the little pile of pancakes twice to see that the amount was correct. I afterward learned that the man's name was Silcott, formerly of Washington, D. C.

BOOKS AND READERS.

A Comparison as Between England and the United States.

O. B. Bruce in North American Review for April.

One of the most brilliant English successes in recent years is Green's "History of the English People." The English publishers announced about a year ago the sale of a hundred and thirty thousand copies. I know of nothing with us comparable to this. Higginson's "History of the United States" has had a very large sale, but the price is much lower. It is intended, moreover, for young readers, and there has been a large school consumption. I am not unmindful of the wonderful success of General Grant's "Memoirs"—a success unprecedented in literature. But look how many circumstances combined to make it so. A general, passionately loved, writing on his death-bed the history of campaigns that enlisted the profoundest patriotism of the people, insured for it at the beginning a vast circulation. Then we recall how it was carried by thousands of active agents to every house in the land. Never was a book waited for by so eager, so admiring a multitude. A book produced under circumstances so extraordinary and sold by methods so special is in no wise a test of the intellectual tastes of the people. We must compare the sale of Green's "History," not with that of Grant's "Memoirs," but rather with the sales of Bancroft, or McMaster, or Hildreth, if we would accurately judge of the comparative demand for historical literature. When the first volume of McMaster's "History of the People of the United States" appeared it was believed to have been inspired by Green, and was hailed with enthusiasm. There were many indications of a brilliant literary and popular success, and yet the sale has not been more than a twentieth that of of its great English model. This is very significant, and is enough, of itself, to dispose of the notion that we buy more books than the English do.

Potatoes Across the Continent.

Montezuma (Iowa) Republican.

The farmers in the great potato region around Monroe, Fairmount and Prairie City are in high spirits over the advance in the price of potatoes. Last fall and during the fore part of winter they only got from 10 to 12 cents per bushel and thousands of bushels were sold at this price. A great many buried their potatoes rather than sell at such low prices and they made big money by it. We were over there last week and saw train loads being shipped to California and other western markets, and the farmers were getting from 28 to 35 cents per bushel. One man sold 4000 bushels for 30 cents. It costs from 40 to 50 cents per bushel to ship them to California, so the people of that part of the country are feasting upon Iowa potatoes at from $1 50 to $2 per bushel? Last fall the farmers in the potato region named above resolved to go out of the business on account of low prices, but now they are preparing to go into the business on a larger scale than ever. The low tariff on potatoes has enabled Canada to supply the Eastern market, but the proposed bill increases the tariff to 25 cents per bushel, so it is quite certain that potatoes will continue to be a paying crop.

Tit for Tat.

Chicago Tribune.

"Mornin' paper, sir?" sang out the newsboy; "only two cents." "Here's five cents, sonny," replied the facetious customer; "keep the three cents, buy a cake of soap with it, and give your face a washing." The newsboy handed back the change with great dignity. "Keep the change yourself, sir," he said, "and use it in buying a book on decorum, sir."

WHEAT LOOKS FEEBLE.

Not a Western Grain State Will Have a Full Crop.

MICHIGAN'S PROMISE NOT BRIGHT

Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky and Ohio Send Discouraging Reports—Frost and Cold Winds.

CHICAGO, April 1.—The Farmers' Review to-morrow will say, in part: Outside of Kansas, reports from our crop correspondents relative to the condition of wheat are very discouraging. Particularly is this true of Illinois and Indiana. But six counties in Illinois—Carroll, Clay, Henderson, Kankakee, Lee and Peoria—estimate the present condition at 100 per cent. In all the other counties the reports of damage range from 10 to 60 per cent. It is safe to say that the average condition of wheat in this state, save in the favored counties named, is 30 to 40 per cent. below the usual average at this season.

The same state of affairs prevails in Indiana, only seven counties reporting the condition good.

Ohio reports make a better average, but show a great decline in the past few weeks.

Kentucky reports show a falling off of about 12 percent. in the general average.

The average for Missouri falls about 6½ per cent. lower than last report, although many counties report the condition good.

In Kansas the reports show a slight change. Fifteen counties report injury from frost and dry cold winds, but in a majority of the counties the condition is reported 100 per cent. or over.

In Michigan and Wisconsin the condition of wheat has continued to decline. But two counties in Wisconsin report the condition 100 per cent., the other counties having suffered from 10 to 50 per cent. General average percentages from reports received are summarized:

Illinois	76	Kentucky	87
Indiana	76	Kansas	82
Ohio	88	Wisconsin	72
Missouri	84	Michigan	67

THE COAST SURVEY RESUMED.

Topography of Coos Bay Channels—The Boundary of Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The season's work of the United States coast and Geodetic survey on this coast has been commenced by Assistant Rogers making a reconnoisance among the Santa Lucia mountains, south of Monterey bay. He is now fitting out a party for the triangulation of the whole region, and has laid out a plan of topography which is to be executed under his direction by C. M. Bache, who has just arrived from the East, but is at present ill. Professor Davidson has charge of the main triangulation in the Sierra Nevadas, to connect the Coast range of mountains with the mountains in Nevada, and has also charge of the triangulation in Southern California.

Mr. E. F. Dickens will start for Coos bay at the end of April to execute the hydrography of the bar, channel and bay and to finish the topography up the great Sloughs, now of importance on account of the coal mines. He will be assisted by Mr. Westdahl. Under direction of Prof. Davidson, Assistant Fremont Morse is engaged at the Astronomical station in Lafayette park observing the lunar transits in conjunction with two coast survey parties now on the Yukon and Porcupine rivers of Alaska for the determination of the 141st meridian, part of the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia.

"Two Hearts That Beat as One."

St. Louis Republic.

The Mercer County Medical Society devoted the better part of its session in Trenton, N. J., to the examination of William King, a colored citizen with two hearts. He is about 43 years of age, and the examination proved that he had a double heart like that found in some of the lower animals. He has wonderful control over these two blood-pumping organs, and, to show his powers, caused his hearts and pulse to cease beating for sixty seconds. He claims his mother discovered his double heart when he was about 6 months old. The M. D.s consider it one of the nineteenth century wonders.

Two Blighted Lives.

Chicago Tribune.

The young man's work was over for the day. He was on his way to take the train for his parental home in the suburbs. As he passed the postoffice he stopped and went in. There was a letter waiting for him. It was addressed in a neat feminine hand, and his heart beat wildly.

"I shall know my fate soon!" he said to himself as he thrust the letter in his pocket and hurried along toward his train.

Five minutes later he stepped aboard the cars just as they were moving from the station. With feverish haste he threw himself into a seat, took the letter from his pocket, and began to read. It was as follows:

Dear Harry:—Your letter of yesterday did not surprise me. Your eyes told me long ago what you have just found courage to write. You deserve to be punished for being so faint-hearted, but I have not the heart to be cruel. I will be your wife, Harry. Be happy. Your own
GERTIE.

But this was not the way the young man deciphered it. With burning eyes he read it thus:

Rash Youth: You little and presumptuous kid! You fatigue me. Your gall would be astonishing if I did not know you too well to be surprised at anything you did. I never sought your love, and you may be assured I have never been stuck on you. I am another man's GERTIE.

With a yell of despair he sunk to the floor insensible. Kind hands raised him up, and restoratives were applied. He opened his eyes and gazed wildly around. His reason had forever gone. He was a hopeless maniac.

He had made the fatal mistake of trying to read that letter by the light of a suburban railway lamp.

The Union Pacific's upper Willamette river steamer Champion was boarded by the United States local inspectors yesterday, and after a thorough inspection she was favorably reported upon and papers for another year were issued. The Champion is the biggest upper river steamer, running to Corvallis, and the day previous to the inspection came down the river with 250 tons of wheat. She was built in 1875, and rebuilt in 1889.

SODA ASH.

We Ought to Encourage Its Manufacture at Home.

Philadelphia Press.

The glass industry of this country is seriously threatened, and why? Because we are dependent upon England for soda ash. Our total supply of soda ash, amounting to nearly 300,000,000 pounds annually, is now received from Europe. In case of war, or high freight rates, or short supplies, or a strike, as at present in Liverpool, the price of this important article could be run up to high figures, such as in 1865. Owing to short shipments prices jumped from 2.93 cents to 12 cents per pound, an advance of 309½ per cent.

The condition of affairs shows in a striking manner the effect of a dependence upon a foreign country for a manufactured article which must be had at any price. The supply of soda ash is now practically shut off by the strike among the dock laborers at Liverpool, and the indications are that many of our glass manufacturers will be forced to suspend operations for want of it. This, too, at a time when the demand for glassware is as great as ever known in this country. Glass has, on this account, risen greatly in price within the past month. Thousands of workmen are likely to be thrown out of employment, and the leading firms have decided, in consequence of the stoppage of the soda ash supply, to cease making cheap goods. And yet by a slight increase of the tariff ten years ago, or even if a correct interpretation of the treasury department could have been given, there would have been a dozen soda ash manufactories in operation in this country to-day.

Even if the price of soda ash had been increased slightly it would not in all these years have worked as much injury as the present stoppage of importation has worked in a few weeks. The cost of producing glass, soap and paper would hardly be perceptibly affected, even with an increase of duty of a quarter of a cent a pound. Those articles take the principal portion of the soda ash imported. It would probably increase the cost of soda ash one-sixteenth of a cent a pound. In other words, an ordinary pane of glass, 8x10, would be increased in price only one-fortieth of a cent, soap only one twentieth of a cent a pound, and only one-eighth of a cent per pound would be added to the price of white paper.

If a duty of ¼ of 1 cent per pound had been placed upon this article we should have now been supplying our home market. We have an abundance of the crude material, abundance of fuel and plenty of labor. As shown above, we consume annually about 300,000,000 pounds of this product. There is no reason why we cannot make it at home. Salt, limestone, coal and sulphur are the principal ingredients, and should be found near each other. Time and again has this industry been tried here with the present inadequate protection and failed, because the British producers immediately made a combination, cut down prices and destroyed the American enterprise.

This is an important question for the ways and means committee to consider in the light of the existing state of affairs.

General Fremont's Retirement.

Washington Post.

The career of John C. Fremont reads like a romance, but the career of no living American has been crowned with more substantial results. His history during the best years of his life is closely inwoven with the history of his country's development. He pointed the way to the Pacific when the intervening region was a trackless and barbarous wilderness. He led the vanguard of civilization in that direction. He defeated the machinations of Mexico that at one time threatened the permanent occupation of California. It was he who, more than any other one man, saved the golden state to the American union. Nor was duty ever performed, whether in the service of the government or voluntary and self-imposed, with more loyal and unselfish purpose than Fremont rendered to the country, from his original explorations of the South Pass in 1842 to his terrible passage of the Sierras in 1848, and his final and 5th expedition across the continent several years later. Every new path that he found became in time a new highway to the advancing march of civilization, and Fremont's name is indissolubly linked with the reclamation from savagery, the opening to settlement, the growth and expansion of the trans-Mississippi domain. The services that he thus gave to the government, and those of his subsequent life, entitle him to all the recognition for which the bill now before congress provides. If it were much more, it would be none too much; but congress can honorably do no less. The honor that is sought—the retirement of this distinguished man with the rank of major general—has been nobly earned, and will well become his declining years.

Hired China in Washington.

Washington Dispatch.

There is a deal of shoddy aristocracy in Washington, and many a dress suit goes to a White house reception which has seen service on half a dozen different men in the past. There are men here who rent out dress suits and who have their regular customers. It is the same with ladies' clothes, and one of the strangest methods of doing business in ladies' dresses that I have yet heard of is the selling of them on installments. I know the daughter of one of the most noted statesmen that this country has produced who buys her dresses in this way, and who frequently has a gown half worn out before it is paid for. As to hired china, one of the big dealers on the avenue tells me that this is very common, but that white china is almost always rented. He says that cabinet officers, foreign ministers and supreme court judges hire china of him, and that you may eat out of a plate to-day at General Blank's and to-morrow find the same dish doing service at Senator Waxem's. The rule is that the hosts pay a certain percentage on the value of the china for its use, and they pay a good round price for all that is broken. White china is the only kind that is hired, for the reason that it has no marks to identify it. If figured china was used the same set would meet the eye of half a dozen people the same week in a half dozen different places, and the result would be that the guest would know it was hired.

PERSONALS.

Drs. Darrin submit the following extracts from testimonials of people cured by electricity. Further comment unnecessary:

T. L. Mills, 300 Front street, Portland—Soreness through the kidneys, liver and stomach, inflammation of the prostrate gland and catarrh of the bladder; restored to health.

A. A. Durham, Tualatin, Washington county, Or., writes that Drs. Darrin are working wonders on his kidney and bladder troubles; also rheumatism of thirty years standing.

George B. Henry, janitor, Odd Fellows' hall, 141 First street, Portland—Chronic catarrh ten years; had despaired of ever being cured; has had no symptoms of it for months.

Mrs. Mary Cline, 253 Second street, Portland, Or. (formerly of Sauvie's island, Or.)—Complication of diseases peculiar to her sex, liver and kidney trouble, rheumatism and dyspepsia; restored.

Truman Butler, The Dalles, Or.—Chronic rheumatism and contracted joints and impoverished blood, all of years' standing; given up by all treatments until Dr. Darrin cured him.

C. V. Fowler, Yakima, W. T.—Total deafness in one ear; cured in ten minutes. Also a pterygium, or fleshy growth, was removed from the eye, which had nearly rendered him blind.

Mrs. F. E. Dewey, 361 Eighteenth street, Portland.—Nervous and general debility, heart disease, dyspepsia, liver complaint and female troubles in all its various complications; permanently cured.

Mrs. S. P. McKee, 147 Water street, Portland, Or.—Catarrh eleven years, scrofulous lumps on neck and throat, paralysis of the face and optic nerve, and female troubles in their worst form.

Mrs. W. H. Austin, 101 Mill street, Portland—Confined to her room nine months with an eye affliction, called "nervous abhorence of light," accompanied with inflammation; cured.

Drs. Darrin can be consulted daily at the Washington building, corner Fourth and Washington streets, Portland, and Hotel Gandolfo, Tacoma. Hours 10 to 5; evenings, 7 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 12. All chronic diseases, irregularities of women, blood taints, loss of vital power and early indiscretions permanently cured, though no references are ever made in the press concerning such cases, owing to the delicacy of the patients. Examinations free to all, and circulars will be sent to any address. Charges for treatment according to patient's ability to pay. The poor treated free of charge from 10 to 11 daily. Toledo subscribed over $1000 to build a wagon road to Yaquina City

Telephonic communication has been established between Yaquina and Newport.

The school district of Toledo has voted an eight mill tax the income of which will be devoted to the erection of a $2000 school building, only one man voted no

A capitalist now at Athena will start a large flouring mill if the people show they want it by granting a reasonable bonus Money paid out this way always yields an excellent return

There will be a colt show in Athena on June 14. These shows should meet with all possible encouragement It is intended that such exhibitions shall occur every year A good horse is as easy to raise as a poor one and a good breed will never run out if properly kept up

The Coos Bay News says Now is a good time to go into the cattle business Hundreds of men are selling out, going to quit because they can't make a fortune in a year or two. The cattle business here in the West has been carried on in such a money making way ever since it was introduced by the ranching system, that any legitimate or reasonable profit is regarded as ruinous The time for making money in the cattle business without any expense except to look after them occasionally, is gone.

The Wood River Gleaner say Gilliam and Sherman counties each have the county seat question to settle at the coming election. Gilliam will settle the matter definitely as there are but two places—Arlington and Condon—contending for it, but Sherman is liable to have to wait another two years, as there are several other places desirous of the honor The fight will be between Grant and Wasco, but Moro and Grass Valley are likely to receive votes enough to prevent either of the others getting a majority

The Baker City Democrat states that William Harper, chief of police demanded an examination of license certificates of all persons who are required by the late license law to pay such tax Wherever the demand was not complied with offenders will be dealt with as the law requires This is in pursuance of instructions received by the chief of police from the council This action will now involve the city in several law suits, as a number of business men have signified their intention of testing the validity of the law.

The Ochoco Review says The farmers of Union county have called a convention to nominate a full county ticket They make no excuses for so doing except that the farmers want to gain control of the reins of government in that county Sometimes soreheads who cannot get office in either of the old parties formulate independent parties for the purpose of self interest and gull the voters into believing that they are imposed upon by the old parties This may be the foundation of the independent move in Union county, and if so should be looked upon with suspicion by the farmers of Union

Says the Times-Mountaineer of The Dalles Col T S Lang has gone to work in earnest, preparing his report of internal commerce of Oregon He is determined to make a full and complete report that will embrace statistics of the entire resources and characteristics of Oregon including climate, soil, timber mineral wealth, its population, churches schools railroads, navigable rivers harbors etc etc This is the first investigation of our resources ever made by the government and it is important that a full report be made, as it will be read and distributed throughout the civilized world

WASHINGTONIANA

Nearly 1000 men are employed in the coal mines at Roslyn and the daily output is from 750 to 800 tons

The people of Port Townsend are taking advantage of the pleasant weather and devoting both money and energy to the improvement of the streets.

The town of Dayton claims to need a system of waterworks According to the last assessment had there the town could bond itself for $75 000 for the purpose This sum would be sufficient to build works that would supply all present needs

Mill men of experience say that every indication points to a much larger lumber cut for Washington this year than last and it doesn't need the eye of a prophet to see this, as new mills are starting up in every direction and new machinery and better facilities for handling logs are bound to send the figures up amazingly

Work on the tunnel four miles below Ellensburg which was run into the mountain for the purpose of finding iron ore has been discontinued for the present. It is now in about 1220 feet, and is a good piece of work Parties from Pasco are now working four miles below this prospect They are doing a lot of blasting and seem determined to uncover something

The Walla Walla Union says The announcement is made that at present there are eighteen bums, lazy tramps and petty thieves boarding at the people's expense in the county jail They are sent there as a punishment, but in point of fact are not punished On the contrary, they have a much better time than the average working man who earns an honest living A whipping post or ducking stool in full swing might assist such folks to a thorough understanding of their ways Exercise in street cleaning with ball and chain attachments would be a salutary means of ridding the city of them

The Tacoma Globe says There seems little likelihood now that the reservation will be opened this season This is a crying injustice to the people of Tacoma and to the Indians themselves, who are anxious to sell some of their lands that they may improve others Our congressional representation have paid no attention to Tacoma's needs in this matter and some of our delegation from Pierce county were but cold in advocating the subject at Olympia Pierce county will have some scores of no small importance to settle with Senators Allen and Squire, but no more bitter score than that arising from their failure to secure the opening of the Puyallup reservation

THE LIFE OF A BUSY CITY.

Services to Be Held at Trinity Church During the Present Week.

Trains on Time—Chinook Salmon—New Oregon Colts—Opened Court—Remains Sent East —Other Notes.

SWITCHMEN ON A STRIKE.—The switchmen in the yards of the Union Pacific here and at Albina and the Dalles went out on a strike at 6 o'clock last evening. They asked for an increase of 10 per cent on their wages a few days since, but owing to the illness of Superintendent C. W. Johnson, no action was taken in the matter. Yesterday some of the men called to see what was going to be done, and were told that Mr. Johnson was sick and General Manager Smith out of the city, and that the matter would be attended to as soon as possible. The men appeared satisfied, but at 6 o'clock went out. The company will probably grant the increase of pay asked as the wages of switchmen range from $67 50 to $75 per month.

COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTIONS.—The complimentary resolutions, passed some time since by the directors of Industrial Fair Association, to be presented to Captain Zera L. Tanner, of the fishery commission steamer Albatross, in recognition of the interest added to the fair last fall by the presence of his ship here, have been handsomely engrossed and will be suitably framed and forwarded to the gallant captain. With the signatures of the various officials of the association and a golden seal as big as a dollar, it will form a very handsome ornament to the captain's cabin.

DEATH OF EUGENE HOEY.—The many friends of Mr. Eugene Hoey, senior member of the firm of the Hoey & Wheeler Furniture Manufacturing Company, of this city, will be pained to learn of the demise of this gentleman, which took place yesterday afternoon in San Francisco. Mr. Hoey established the business of which the Hoey & Wheeler Furniture Company is the outcome, and he stood high in the business circles of the city. It is not known just what disposition will be made of his remains, but it is probable that they will be brought to this city for interment.

IMPROVEMENTS AT OREGON CITY.—The $60,000 foundation for the new mill of the Crown Paper Co., of San Francisco, at Oregon City, is about completed and work on the main building will begin soon. The mill cost between $225,000 and $250,000 and it is expected that it will be ready for operations about October. Other improvements are under way at the falls city. The Willamette Pulp and Paper Co., is preparing to enlarge its capacity from twenty to fifty tons daily. The woolen mills company is making the excavation for another building.

ON TIME FROM SAN FRANCISCO.—The overland Southern Pacific train came in on time from San Francisco yesterday, for the first time since the blockade. The time is not the same as formerly, the trains leaving San Francisco earlier, to allow for slow running through the Cow creek canyon's new-made track. A number have recently been discharged from employment at the scene of the repairs. About 100 white men and 350 Chinamen are still at work, strengthening the roadbed. The track is said to be getting in excellent condition throughout.

SERVICES DURING THE WEEK.—The services at Trinity church during the week are: To-night, litany and lecture; on Thursday night, "the night on which he was betrayed," and on which the Lord's Supper was instituted, a celebration of the holy communion, and on Friday morning at 10 o'clock the regular Good Friday service. Strangers are invited to these services and all those who are members of the Christian church will be cordially welcomed to the celebration on Thursday evening. There will be no service on Thursday afternoon.

THREE NEW OREGON COLTS.—Mayor De Lashmutt was feeling happy yesterday, having received news of the advent of three fine colts at his Witch Hazel stock farm which he says are as fine bred animals as can be desired. One is a black filly foal from Nautilla, by Hambletonian Mambrino. Mattie B. by John Dillard has a bay filly foal by Fleetwood, he by Electioneer, dam Nutwood. The third is a horse colt, dam Sally, grand dam Sally Come Up, sired by Altamont and full brother to Altao the great three-year-old.

FROM FAR HAWAII.—Three enormous framed collections of photographs of scenes in the Hawaiian islands were unpacked yesterday in the city ticket office of the Southern Pacific railroad. There are a large number of photographs in each frame, and the frames are some 8x4 feet in size. The pictures will be hung in the office. The photographs are very comprehensive, showing many scenes in the islands, both landscape and aquatic, including one of the lava beds formed in the volcanic eruption of 1881.

ANOTHER BIG BUILDING.—Dayton & Hall begin moving this morning out of their present quarters, preparatory to the erection of a fine three-story block on the site of their store. It will be known as the "Wildwood block," 55x100 feet, to cost $20,000. It is expected to get back into their new quarters by the first of September. The move has been necessitated by the crowded condition of their present quarters. During the time the building is going on they will occupy the room at 204 Front street.

REMAINS SENT TO NOVA SCOTIA.—The body of the late Captain Bowlby, of the British ship Riverside, were embalmed, encased in a casket and sent to his family at Middleton, Nova Scotia, via the Pacific Express, on the fast train yesterday morning. Captain Bowlby had contracted a peculiar kind of disease while en route from Valparaiso on board his ship, which resulted in a fatal swelling of the glands of the neck. He died several days ago, at the Good Samaritan hospital.

SPELLED OREGON WITH AN "A."—Talk about Oregon being but little known at the East, why there are some people there who do not know how to spell Oregon. A pile of about 100 cases all the way from New York was seen on the sidewalk on First street yesterday directed to Portland, "Oregan." The fellow who stencilled on that address was probably named O'Regan, if not he belongs to the O's or Macs or else the Billywhacks, sure.

FINE CHINOOK SALMON.—The presence of several fine Chinook salmon in the market at an early hour this morning was owing to an enterprising fisherman having cast his net in the neighborhood of Morrison street bridge. He caught four fish and made a good day's work of it. There is no particular reason why lots of salmon should not be caught here, as all the thousands taken at the falls and in the Clackamas pass the city front.

ARRESTS DURING MARCH.—The police of the city made the following arrests during the month of March: Drunks, 140; disorderly conduct, 41, soliciting prostitution, 3; vagrancy, 10; burglary, 3; obtaining money by false pretenses, 4, larceny, 25; cruelty to animals, 1; adultery, 2; carrying concealed weapons, 3; deserter, 1; assault and battery, 2; threatening to kill, 1; abusive language, 4; trespass, 3, seduction, 1; begging, 2; fighting, 5.

OPENED COURT.—Judge Deady opened the United States district court yesterday morning, Marshal Barin and his new force in attendance. Lee Lung pleaded guilty to a charge of selling liquor to an Indian and was fined $5 which he paid. James Tracy pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was fined $10, which he did not pay from lack of funds. Judge Deady will open the United States circuit court on Monday morning.

DRAFTING THE AUSTRALIAN BILL.—A committee of the Ballot Reform League of Oregon is drafting an election bill on the plan of the Australian system which will be submitted at the meeting of the legislature next January. It will be issued in pamphlet form, together with contributions from representative merchants, laboring men and grangers expressive of their approval of ballot reform.

A DANGEROUS HOLE.—The attention of the superintendent of streets is called to the presence of a very dangerous chuck-hole at the corner of Front and Sheridan streets. It is very deep and several feet in extent. Front street is bad enough throughout much of its length, thanks to the honest and economical city government, but such holes as this should be fixed up without delay.

THE WEATHER.—The following is the weather report for points east of the Cascade mountains on the line of the Union Pacific: Bonneville 39 degrees, Hood River 38, The Dalles 38, Arlington 52, Umatilla 55, Wallula 55, Walla Walla 42, Pomeroy 47, Riparia 42, Spokane pleasant, Pendleton 49, Kamela 38, La Grande 40, Baker City 40, Huntington 45, Heppner 50, North Powder 50.

WORK BEEN RESUMED.—Work on Ladd's new building, corner Front and Yamhill streets, that was commenced last fall and abandoned during the cold months, has again been commenced. Masons are busy, with the aid of a large derrick, laying the heavy foundation stones, while still another force of laborers are forcing the work of making a deeper excavation.

SUBSCRIBERS' ANNUAL MEETING.—Special attention is called to the annual subscribers' meeting of the Oregon State Board of Immigration, which will be held in the board's rooms on Ash street, between Front and First, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. All subscribers are expected to be in attendance and assist in the election of commissioners for the ensuing year.

MILLINERY AT HALF PRICE.—I hereby offer an immense line of trimmed and untrimmed hats, plumes, flowers and ornaments. Exceptionally low figures will be quoted to merchants and milliners. F. R. Mellis, corner First and Taylor, over J. Selling & Co.'s.

CHOIR NOTICE.—All members of the Taylor street church choir are earnestly requested to be present at choir rehearsal this evening at 7.30 sharp.

TINNERS' TOOLS.—Persons contemplating the purchase of tinners' tools or supplies will do well to get prices of Foster & Robertson before buying.*

RECOVERING.—William Hahn, who over a week ago took sick with la grippe, is much improved and will be around in a few days.

IF YOU DESIRE good value in a spring suit, secure one of Steinbach's $10 suits, which they are selling this week only.

DON'T FAIL to see A. B. Steinbach & Co.'s $10 spring suits. They are well worth $16.

MEMBERS ELECTED.—At the stated monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Real Estate Exchange held yesterday afternoon, H. J. Corbett, A. Anderson & Co., Lewis & Dryden Printing Co. and I. A. Macrum were duly elected associate members. The exchange now numbers thirty-eight active members and fifteen associate members.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.—A meeting of the Hunt railway committee will be held at 10 o'clock A. M. to-day, in the rooms of the Oregon National bank, corner of First and Stark streets. The meeting will be an important one, and all members of the committee holding subscriptions are requested to be in attendance.

DR. BEVAN BACK.—Dr. A. D. Bevan having completed his course of lectures at Rush college, Chicago, has returned to Portland and can be found at his old office, First and Morrison. He is very glad to return to Oregon and is much astonished at the improvements made during his four months' absence.

VISITING THE CITY.—Mr. Isaac N. Perry, a prominent banker of Chicago, who is visiting this section, after examining the outlook here, was so favorably impressed with the future prospects of this city that he made a considerable investment here, and is contemplating further investments.

REMOVED.—Messrs. Klein & Day, of the Chicago Music House, have removed their large stock of pianos, organs and musical instruments to No. 106 First street, formerly occupied by G. Shindler & Co.

CALL TO-DAY at 9 Stark street and the Clinton & McCoy Co. will show you some extra fine bargains in town lots and acreage near the city. Good lots for $5 down and $5 per month.

BEST BEDDING PLANTS and roses cheap. Send for a catalogue to Burkhardt Bros.

PROFESSOR D. E. SEWARD,

The Eminent Scientific Optician, of New York,

Is still at the Holton house. Over 100 representative people of Portland have already taken advantage of this opportunity and are now wearing spectacles correctly adapted by Professor Seward, all of whom will highly indorse the work. A few of the names are here given. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Boynton, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Going, Messrs. J. P. Davenport, Professor T. H. Crawford, Frank Motter, Professor L. W. Pratt, Thomas Gray, J. Compton, I. Kaufman, Professor J. Burnham, W. B. Wakeman, R. S. Perkins, W. H. Dunckley, etc. There is enough work to keep Professor Seward in Portland for a year, but he must positively proceed on his trip in a few weeks. Do not delay, but call at once. Office hours, 1 to 6 P. M. Room 7, Holton house.

PORTLAND A MUSIC CENTER.—Without question there is no city of twice the population of Portland, whose people possess the musical culture and excellence of judgment as do the citizens of this growing metropolis. In fact, nothing shoddy or unrefined is patronized by its society. The very best of all things is the desideratum. And no more positive evidence of these virtues has ever been manifested than is witnessed in the unqualified praise bestowed upon the FAULTLESS HARDMAN PIANO, which challenges the world to produce its equal in elegance or finish and power and purity of tone. The public are invited to inspect these instruments at the warerooms of W. T. Shanahan, Ainsworth bank building, 69 Third street.

The Democratic County Committee Face the Situation.

Primaries to Be Held April 12—County Convention April 19 with 79 Delegates—J. V. Holman Chosen for the Vacancy.

The democratic county central committee met pursuant to the call of its chairman at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Merchant's National Bank building. Present were: Wm. Church, jr., chairman, E. D. McKee, V. K. Strode, O. H. Bellinger, J. J. Murphy, and L. E. Thompson.

First in order was the election of some one to fill the vacancy in the committee created by the death of C. C. Scott. On motion, Mr. Fred V. Holman was chosen for the place, and took his seat with the committee.

The recommendation of the state central committee was read, which mentioned the 10th of April for the primaries and the 16th of April for the county convention. After discussion, it seemed best to the committee to deviate from the recommendation and set the primaries for Saturday, April 12, and the county convention for Saturday, April 19. This, of course, throws the county convention pretty near to the state convention, which meets April 24, but as this body convenes in Portland, no trouble will be experienced in Multnomah county. The hour for the city primaries, including East Portland and Albina, will be from 4 to 8 P. M., and for the outside precincts from 2 to 8 P. M.

The county convention will consist of seventy-nine delegates, arranged on a basis of the vote for Cleveland in 1888, and apportioned as follows:

North Portland—No. 1, four votes; No. 2, five votes; No. 3, four votes; No. 4, four votes; No. 5, eight votes; No. 6, four votes; total, twenty-nine votes.

South Portland—No. 1, four votes; No. 2, four votes; No. 3, four votes; No. 4, five votes; No. 5, three votes; total, twenty votes.

East Portland—No. 1, four votes; No. 2, five votes; No. 3, four votes; total, thirteen votes.

Powell's valley, Willamette slough, Mount Tabor, Sandy, Columbia, St. John's, Rooster Rock, Multnomah, Sauvie's island and Lent's, one vote each; Albina five, and Sellwood two.

The call will be issued in a few days. The question was raised whether it would be wise to recommend that the county convention meet, choose delegates and then adjourn to a later date for making the county nominations. No action was taken, but a subsequent session of the committee will probably be held soon, at which the matter will again come up.

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2.

THE PROPORTION OF LABOR.

The state of Massachusetts has a bureau of statistics of labor. Recently it has published a pamphlet on "Relation of Wages to the Cost of Production," which is quite a remarkable performance. It is remarkable because, in estimating the proportions of the cost of labor and of the cost of materials in given products, it takes into account only the last operation of labor and sets down all preceding operations to the account of materials. By this method only about one-fourth of the cost of goods is put to the account of labor; and, as the greater part of the remaining cost is put to the account of materials, the argument is deduced that only the part in which labor is concerned should be protected and that materials should have no protection at all.

For the purposes of this argument wool, cotton, metals, leather, etc., are called raw materials, and it is assumed that no labor is required to produce them, that the cost of labor is not an element of the cost of their production, and hence that there is no labor to be protected till the factory is reached where the materials are turned into goods for the consumer. In the East the tariff question is continually presented on this narrow and false basis. Hence it is made out that there is no labor to be protected but the labor in the factories where the materials are converted into wares for the market. And yet in fact more labor is required to get wool and iron ready for the factories than to work them up into goods after they reach the factories, for nearly all the factory processes are performed by machinery, while the preceding processes are largely carried on by hand.

The assumption that no labor is performed in production of wool since wool grows on the back of the sheep; that iron is a crude product of nature, requiring no labor worth naming to convert it into pigs or bars; that as timber grows in the forest lumber is a natural and costless product, with but an inappreciable element of labor in it; that as leather is a product of hides that grow on animals, no labor worth consideration is represented either in hides or leather — this assumption is the one upon which the method of so-called tariff reform in vogue among a class of manufacturers and newspapers in the East proceeds. These philosophers refuse to admit that the production of materials requires any labor, and in all their estimates of the proportions of labor in the cost of goods they take into account only the labor employed in the final process or operation.

Abram S. Hewitt, of New York is a noted democrat and large manufacturer. When a member of the house of representatives, in the course of a discussion concerning the percentage of labor cost, he said: "The percentage of labor involved in the production of any given article depends upon where you begin to estimate the percentage. If you begin with a steel rail mill, which uses pig iron, the labor will be from 25 to 30 per cent. The actual wages paid by a wire mill will amount to about 29 per cent. of the cost. If you include labor in the blast furnace that would make it 60 per cent. But if you go on back to the ore bed, and put in everything which was paid out from the ore bed, the percentage of labor would have been about 90 per cent. I say this because the gentleman (Thomas G. Shearman, of Brooklyn,) proposes to overthrow facts within my knowledge and for which I pay. I say the amount which I pay out for labor, when I include every particle of raw material, beginning at the ground—and I am miner of both ore and coal—I have never, with all my anxiety to get it down, got it below 90 per cent. on the value of the finished product." Mr. Mills, of Texas here asked: "What is the finished product?" Mr. Hewitt answered that his own finished product was bar iron; and to a further question whether pig iron is a finished product, he answered: "The labor in pig iron is 90 per cent. of the cost. It actually takes 90 per cent. of the cost of the article for labor, when you include everything from beginning to end." Here is the testimony of an eminent democrat and practical manufacturer, who spoke of things within his own experience. But those "reformers," who are making an effort to get free iron and wool, and yet to hold on to protection for manufactured goods, talk of iron and wool as things that are produced without labor, and take account of the labor only in the final processes in their own establishments.

Of course any inquiry into "the relation of wages to the cost of production," conducted from this starting point, is worthless. In production of the materials there is usually more labor than in turning out the goods after the materials are supplied; and if the labor employed in finishing the goods ought to have protection, then certainly the labor employed in preparing the materials should of right have protection too.

THE PENSION FOLLY.

General Grant gave expression to the sturdy sense of justice which was one of the leading characteristics of his nature when he said, as quoted by General Hawley, in the senate debate on the dependent pension bill recently: "If I were president I would sign any reasonable bill to relieve the distress of an honest soldier or his widow or children, but I would not vote one dollar to the able-bodied men." The principle embodied in this expression is worthy, not only of commendation, but of emulation. An able-bodied man should be ashamed to receive, and doubly ashamed to ask assistance from the government, and the fact that so many erewhile independent, manly men are ready to accept such aid proves the demoralizing spirit of the pension policy that has been pursued by the government. Nothing else so hopelessly undermines the spirit of honest independence, which it should be the pride of every citizen of a republic to cherish and transmit to his posterity as does this plan "of helping" men by granting them a monthly stipend from the national treasury, after lauding them as heroes because they carried a musket for a few weeks or months in defense of their country in time of peril. This hawking of patriotism about as if it were a purchasable quantity, and insisting that the government is under obligations to feed able-bodied men through the term of their natural lives because they bore arms, for a relatively brief period in its defense has grown exceedingly tiresome. It is a wide departure from the principle of justice upon which the pension idea is based, and swells the modest host, that maimed by the mischance of war take gratefully the bounty of the nation, which is as gratefully tendered, to a clamorous throng of able-bodied men rendered bold through the tutelage of mendicancy.

Those who are pushing the pension theory forward so recklessly will do well to remember, as Senator Hawley suggests, that the enormous sum which is sought to be drawn from the treasury under the guise of arrears of pensions must come very largely from the pockets of people as poor as many of the soldiers whom it is proposed thus to endow. The true friends of the soldiers do not want to see them mustered into the ranks of mendicants, much preferring to see them preserve the spirit of individual independence that is the strongest bulwark of responsible citizenship.

The quality of patriotism that constantly boasts itself and babbles of its rights and demands perquisites—whether it exists in the soldier or the statesman, may well be distrusted. Whether championed by men like Ingalls and Mitchell in the senate of the United States, or issuing its mandates under the seal of the Grand Army of the Republic the fact remains that it paralyzes individual thrift, saps the foundations of personal independence and shames true patriotism by its indecent clamor for financial recognition.

RESTITUTION EXTRAORDINARY.

Conscience, as is well known, impels men to wonderful acts in the way of restitution sometimes. Through this fact the "conscience fund" of the government has grown up into the heavy thousands, and there are few weeks in the year in which it does not receive additions to its bulk. The latest instance in which conscience compelled the refunding of money is recorded in an Eastern state, and considering the antipathy to railroads and the general desire of the public to beat them out of fare, is most remarkable. Some fifteen years ago a man and woman journeying between stations on a New York railroad did not pay their fare, which amounted to 60 cents, because the conductor failed to ask them for it. After carrying the burden of this dishonest act a decade and a half the man made careful computation of the interest on the amount at legal rates, and adding it to the principal produced a fund of $1 54, which, together with his confession of fault, he forwarded to the president of the defrauded railroad. The New York Tribune rightly sees in this incident "no food for pessimism and no support for the doctrine of total depravity." The pessimist might respond, however, that there is abundance of food for belief in this doctrine in the infrequency of such incidents and in the one-sidedness shown in the matter of restitution. He who cherishes the belief that honesty is practically extinct finds in the occasional restitution of small sums a check to his theory, but if some of the great operations by which millions have been dishonestly or illegally made would produce instances of proportionate restitution the lesson would be a much more impressive one. Example, it is said, is contagious, but it is expecting too much, considering the quality of the corporate conscience to expect companies that have made millions through watered stocks, conspiracies against competition and other devices known to the profession, to follow the example set by the unsophisticated countryman who, after losing sleep fifteen years over having beaten a railroad company out of 60 cents, returned the money with interest, and let us hope, has since slept the sleep of the just. The most forcible aspect of this restitution business is that the conscience fund always comes from the popular side, and never by any chance from the corporate. The people who get the better of the government and corporations in small sums sometimes make restitution, but the first case of restitution as the result of a wholesale dishonesty is yet to be recorded. Reasonable people have learned not to expect too much from the corporate conscience, but are content to point a moral through the recital of the small contributions to the conscience fund which occasionally come to light.

A MIDDLE COURSE.

Though THE OREGONIAN believes it would be a judicious thing to repeal both the usury law and the mortgage tax law of this state, to discontinue taxation of credits in toto and to allow no deductions whatever for indebtedness, it regards it as very doubtful whether the people could be brought to accept all these things at once. Consequently the better suggestion probably would be that no deductions for debt should be allowed except upon mortgages, and that, with the exception of mortgages, no credits should be taxed.

It seems probable that the people would accept a plan of tax reform based on this middle ground. With proper valuations by assessors, supplemented by the work of a state board of equalization, we should be able, on this system, to get an equitable assessment. The practice of fraudulent deductions would be stopped, there would be a check upon the injudicious taxation that hurts credits and hinders investments, and proper equalization of values would put an end to most of the unequal results of our tax system.

If the mortgage is taxed on the one hand, and the debt of which the mortgage is proof is deducted on the other, and nothing further allowed in the way of taxing credits or deducting debts, the great mass of fraudulent practices so common under the system will be arrested. But so long as indiscriminate deduction of debts, or pretended debts, is allowed, so long as visible property is assessed at one quarter of its value, and there is no board of equalization for the state, we shall have the most unequal, unjust, and worst tax system in the world.

Each phase of the murder of Frederickson and wife near Bay Center, Washington, as disclosed from day to day is more shocking than the last. The finding of the body of the murdered woman buried in the filth of the pig-pen, was a disclosure that added disgust to horror and by comparison robbed the shallow grave of her husband made in the clean, solid earth of the cow path of a portion, at least, of its terrors. No wonder that the cowardly perpetrators of this most diabolical deed quake in their prison cells, fearing the summary vengeance of an outraged community. The law will find in this case opportunity to prove itself a safe instrument for the administration of justice by speedy trial, prompt conviction and the certain execution of these fiendish murderers, who took human life with as little compunction as if the victims had been dangerous beasts of the forest, instead of the peaceful, plodding settlers that they were, and disposed of their bodies with as little human feeling as if they had been those of diseased swine. The man who is opposed to capital punishment will find little toleration shown his theories while this case and that of the murderer of the aged and amiable Mrs. Scott, of Yamhill county, are pending.

After all the fuss, flurry and indignation over the Flack divorce conspiracy, the sheriff of New York got two months in the county jail and a fine of $500, while his son and confederate in the divorce fraud played upon the wife and mother was sentenced to a like fine and imprisonment for four months in the penitentiary. It would have been better to have ignored entirely such a trifling irregularity as that of conspiring to procure a divorce from a faithful wife without her knowledge than to make such a farce of penalty as this. An official who has proved himself an adept in raising money as sheriff of a wealthy county will laugh at a paltry fine, while his imprisonment will amount to little beyond a polite detention in elegant rooms, with obsequious servants to do his bidding and "gentlemen" associates to help him pass away the time. Better have permitted him to pocket the fraudulent divorce in silence and pushed Mrs. Flack aside as a meddlesome old woman than to have disgraced justice by this pretended penalty.

Governor Hill, by vetoing a bill legalizing the Australian ballot system in New York on Monday, has satisfied the corrupt political element whose creature he is, and through whose support he gained office, but he has thereby awakened the opposition of a mighty mass of voters. The sentiment for ballot reform is well nigh universal and the wonder is that a politician possessing Hill's shrewdness, should so array himself against the times and public opinion as to veto a law establishing the Australian system. The great masses of New York were never so thoroughly aroused as now. Flack's conviction and sentence, the abuses in the sheriff's office, the wrongs and abuses that have flourished in the name of legal administration have fired popular wrath, and Tammany, that autocratic organization, that has made and unmade so many political aspirants, is likely to be swept from power. Governor Hill cannot or will not realize this state of affairs, and he too will fall. There may be tears shed at the righteousness of his "taking off," but they will fall from the eyes of the most corrupt set of politicians that ever bartered jobs, and the mourners will be only ward politicians bereft of occupation.

The death of Mrs. Eliza Kinney, widow of the late R. C. Kinney of Salem, removes another pioneer woman of Oregon from the scenes of a long and useful life. Mr. and Mrs. Kinney were among the early settlers of Yamhill county, living for a number of years on their donation land claim in the Chehalem valley. They will be remembered in this early home by many farmers of Yamhill and Polk counties, who in the early days when hauling their crop surplus to Portland found in the Kinney home hospitable entertainment when night overtook them. Kindly remembrances follow beyond this life those who in laying the foundation of statehood in the wilderness dispensed the good cheer of neighborly hospitality to those who were their co-laborers in a lonely but promising field. Later scenes in which these pioneers bore a prominent part are subordinate in memory to the simpler incidents that were a part of the life that, from its isolated conditions made people dependent upon each other.

Good men of all parties in Oregon pay too little attention to the primaries. Nothing will be accomplished by inactivity. When abuses exist, the only remedy lies with the good citizen who will attend caucus and see to it that proper men are placed upon the ticket. It will not do to stay at home and then claim that the primaries are run by the machines of various factions. A dozen intelligent men in any precinct can make it rather uncomfortable for the petty boss, and a little concerted action will remove many barnacles that now cling to the political boat. The man who stays away from the primaries has not done his duty in the cause of clean and decent politics.

The colored brother is rapidly learning the art of "fine writing." In a letter to ex-Senator Bruce upon the proposed deportation of the colored race from the United States Bishop Turner, the distinguished colored churchman, of Georgia, says:

> Senator Butler may fail in getting his bill through congress, but, sooner or later, God will raise up a thousand Butlers, black and white, and hundreds of millions will be appropriated for that purpose, and you, Senator Bruce, great though you be, will be left standing as a harmless speck of writhing negativity.

Can there be too exaggerated an estimate of the possibilities of a race that furnishes a man who can write in this great style?

The bigotry and assumption of those who seek to dictate to others in the matter of conscience was shown a few days ago near Battle Creek, Michigan. R. M. King, a seventh day adventist, who observes Saturday as "the Sabbath," was arrested for plowing on Sunday and fined $75 and costs for the "offense." Action so dogmatic as this has no place in a land that boasts the liberty of its institutions. The ungodliness of creed is well illustrated in this instance and the Sabbatarian who has not the grace to be ashamed of so contemptible an effort to honor God can hardly be expected to have the decency to be ashamed of himself.

The carriages, horses, servants, furniture, heavy baggage and even her favorite little chaise and donkey preceded Queen Victoria to Aix-les-Bains, whither she went last week to take a course of baths for her rheumatism. Of course, an old woman who spends her days swathed in flannel after her baths has no great need for these things, but it might detract from the dignity and splendor of the crown to abate the state in which royalty travels. Hence the same amount of luggage must accompany the rheumatic Queen who goes health-seeking that accompanied the same monarch when in her more youthful days she journeyed for pleasure.

Judge Arnold, of Philadelphia, deserves the gratitude of enlightened men. He recently declared that the custom of compelling witnesses to kiss the Bible was "a relic of barbarism which ought to be abolished." The book that is used in the ordinary courts is generally a very soiled one, and in some instances is filthy from touch with all sorts of people. The man who intends to swear falsely will not be stayed from his purpose by pressing lips upon a book, with the contents of which he may be totally unfamiliar, and taking the oath with uplifted hands will serve every purpose, within the law's intent.

The many friends of General Miles in the Northwest will be pleased to note his prospect of promotion. The only regret in the premises is in the fact that his promotion means his transfer from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. A gallant soldier and a sagacious military commander, General Miles is entitled to the full honors of his profession and well fitted to discharge its responsibilities.

April, mild mannered and bland, comes in smiling, as if to atone for the cold and unbecoming demeanor of her predecessor. If she succeeds in establishing a reputation for amiability for herself the country will overlook the blustering conduct of March, and, content to let by-gones be by-gones, go to making gardens.

PERSONS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT.

King Humbert has given $200,000 to erect a monument to Mazzini. No modern Italian is more worthy.

Editor Smith has apparently done nothing since his appointment as minister to Russia but partake of farewell dinners.

Congressman Scott, the twenty millionare, says he would give all his wealth for good digestion. There are several hundred of the gentleman's employes who would give all their wealth for something to digest.

General Schenck was popularly believed to have published a book on poker playing, but his explanation was that the book was published by a lady whose guest he was while minister to London, and for whom he had written out the rules of the game at her request.

Fred Grant is not often heard of these days. But some New Yorker has a private letter from him in which he says he and Mrs. Grant are perfectly happy in Vienna. Surely all Americans will cheerfully wish them all the happiness they can gather in a foreign land.

Emin Pasha intends to return to Bagomayo shortly, to complete the arrangement of his scientific collections, after which he will proceed to Egypt. His further movements are uncertain. Emin's health is entirely restored, and he has been treated by the sultan and by the Arabs with great attention.

Miss Winnie Davis, "daughter of the Confederacy," is reported to have met her fate while visiting a couple of years ago in Syracuse, N. Y. Her engagement is said to be with Alfred Wilkinson, who has spent the last six weeks in Europe, visiting a part of the time with Miss Davis and her mother.

Mayor Hart, of Boston, has declined to attend the public meeting to be held at Faneuil hall on March 31 to protest against the alleged outrages in Siberia. The mayor says he is authorized to look after Boston and not Russia, and he cannot, without violating his convictions, take part in the proceedings.

The authorized promoters of the approaching publication of Henry W. Grady's speeches and writings are annoyed by the issue of a spurious edition by outside parties. Doubtless, however, this unauthorized issue will find very little favor. The genuine work is being prepared under Mrs. Grady's direction.

Mrs. John Lowrie, who lives near Ravenna, O., has given birth to four healthy children. A few years ago Mrs. Lowrie presented her husband with triplets, and but a year later supplemented these with twins.

The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, of New York, says he knows a man, and offers to give his name, whose life ambition it has been to amass a fortune of many millions. Until he had reached the goal he promised himself neither rest nor enjoyment nor benevolence. Every penny counted towards the grand total. A few days ago he was appealed to on behalf of a most worthy object. He gave just twenty-five cents. And in reply to the expression of astonishment such a contribution from a millionaire could not fail to bring forth he said: "You don't know how it hurts me to give away that twenty-five cents. I've nearly reached my twenty-million-dollar mark."

Local Personal Mention.

George M. Hobart and wife, of Hoquiam, are at the Esmond.

Hon. J. H. Raley, of Pendleton, state senator, was in Portland yesterday.

T. K. Stateler, general agent of the Northern Pacific at San Francisco is in town.

Julius E. Himer, of Minneapolis, was among yesterday's arrivals at the Esmond.

Mr. J. S. Cameron, chief of construction of the Union Pacific, left for the Sound yesterday in his private car.

Jack Dempsey arrived in the city from San Francisco, on the steamer Columbia, and is visiting his family.

H. E. Kidder, formerly with the Texas Panhandle road has gone to work for the Northwestern, under General Agent Meade.

State Senator Platt A. Preston, of Walla Walla, arrived yesterday from Olympia. He will rejoin his family and leave for home.

Manager Richard Koehler went south yesterday with Vice President Crocker of the Southern Pacific. He will return this morning.

Mr. Charles Hanson, of Tacoma, the owner of one of the largest mills on Puget Sound, is at the Esmond. J. B. Libby, manager of his mill accompanies him.

Mr. Thomas H. Boyd, who represented the Tacoma Globe at the recent session of the Washington legislature, is in the city on a visit. Upon his return to Tacoma he will become city editor of the Globe.

J. W. Sawyer, general freight agent of the Great Northern is here on his way home from San Francisco, and is being entertained by E. S. Jackson, the local agent of the line. Mr. Sawyer is thoroughly pleased with Portland's appearance.

S. Selling and wife have gone east over the Union Pacific, en route for a five months European tour. They will be fellow-passengers with Charles Kohn on the Cunard line steamship Umbria which sails from New York the 12th instant.

Passengers to Arrive.

Northern Pacific—Passed Ellison, Mont., on train No. 1: Geo. Brand, E. L. Mernary, Mr. Dorsey, Ed Sidney, Samuel Hainey, J. Bernstein, Paul De Heiney, J. J. Hunter, M. S. James, John Longmaid, Grace Margson, Mr. F. H. Smith and wife, Mr. F. H. Mahone and family, W. H. Taber, Albert Halbert, wife and seven children, and 125 second.

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS.

TARIFF PLATFORM OF THE UNION PARTY.

Pendleton, East Oregonian:—The union party convention at Athena, Saturday resolved that "we favor a thorough revision of the tariff laws in the interest of the agricultural class."

The above declaration is itself of a narrowly selfish sort. Why should laws be passed "in the interest" of any "class"? To revise the tariff "in the interest" of the agricultural class is as vicious in principle as to revise it in the interest of any other class. Practically there is more excuse for legislating in the interests of agriculturists than of any other sort of people, because they are more numerous, and because they have been grossly swindled by unjust laws for these many years. But the new party ought not to start out by declaring for a wrong thing to take the place of other wrongs. Two wrongs do not make a right.

THE MOSSBACK IN TILLAMOOK.

Tillamook Headlight: There are some in Tillamook who have been here for years; some who have but recently arrived, and no doubt others coming. Tillamook probably has no more of this class than the average community, and it does not necessarily follow that a man is a "mossback" because he has resided here for a long time. In fact we are acquainted with some of the oldest residents of this locality who are as generous, enterprising and public-spirited as any men we ever saw, and they deserve great credit for maintaining such virtues in a country that has so long been comparatively isolated from the rest of the world.

FRIENDSHIP MUST BEND TO DUTY.

Spokane Falls Review: Cities, as well as republics, kingdoms and empires, have their epochs of impending peril, during which important duties devolve upon every citizen. At such times the patriotism, the honor and the manhood of all citizens are put to a severe test. Personal friendship is brought directly into conflict with public duty. The welfare of the whole community is weighed in the balance against individual sentiment. It is difficult, at such times, to draw the line in favor of public duty, but citizens who have at heart the welfare of the city in which they dwell are compelled to do so.

THE THIRD PARTY DISSECTED.

The Dalles Times-Mountaineer: The conditions of human nature will remain the same whether the man allies himself with any party or no party. The hunger for office, the hand itching for the public purse, the selfish desire for personal aggrandizement—all these will mark the partisan, call himself by what name he may. A party without leaders is a mob and nothing more. Not that there is any likelihood of any such lack in this particular case. The scarcity in this particular instance bids fair to be among the followers—not the leaders.

MONTANA'S INTEREST IN WYOMING.

Helena Herald: Our chief interest in the admission of Wyoming is not of a political kind, but because from its situation and resources it will be a natural ally for Montana in many of the most important issues that concern our material interests in the immediate future, particularly in the legislation that will be needed to perfect the system of reservoirs and irrigation generally on which the future wealth and settlement of the states in the arid portions of the country depend.

IDAHO CANNOT BE SILENCED.

Boise City Statesman: Wyoming out of the way, the field is cleared for action on the Idaho bill, the passage of which will follow in spite of the feeble and futile efforts of the democratic obstructionists, who, of course, will make a final attempt to keep their promises to the Mormons and earn the favors past and prospective, of which the "saints" have not been sparing in their desire to keep Idaho out of the Union.

NATIONAL FUNDS FOR THE SEA COAST DEFENSES.

Port Townsend Leader: There should be some effective provision for the defense of our sea coast towns and inland towns and inland harbors, no man of foresight and of patriotic impulses will question. We have not reached the millennium of Bellamy yet, when swords shall be beaten into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks, and wars will be no more.

INDISCRIMINATE CHARGES OF DISHONESTY.

Tillamook Headlight: No newspaper has a right to make indiscriminate charges of dishonesty and immorality, unless the charges can be proven beyond a doubt, and not even then except in particularly obnoxious cases.

Turn About With a Horsewhip.

N. Y. Tribune.

One day I stood on the veranda of a hotel in a small town in Georgia waiting for train time. Suddenly a man dashed past me out of the hotel with a cocked revolver in one hand and a cowhide whip in the other, and rushing up to a gentlemanly looking fellow, slowly coming down the street, covered him with the pistol, crying savagely: 'Fold your arms. I am going to thrash you.'

"The young fellow complied, and the other began to rain blows over his face, neck and shoulders. The rough edges of the strips of rawhide cut and tore the flesh and burned like hot irons. But the victim bravely stood his ground, showing only by his pallor and involuntary twitching of the mouth and eyes the awful agony he was suffering. Presently the other began to tire and ceased to strike.

"'Have you finished now?' calmly asked the young man.

"'Yes,' sullenly growled the other.

"'Then put up your gun.'

"No sooner was the revolver restored to its place than, quick as a flash, the young man whipped from his pocket a pistol of large caliber and with a look of fierce determination cried: 'Now give me that whip and fold your arms.'

"And what a thrashing he gave him," exclaimed the drummer. "The fellow cried and begged for mercy, and threw his arms up to protect his face, but all in vain. The avenger cut and cut until he was tired out, then with a swift motion he turned the whip in his hand and struck a heavy blow on the temple with the heavily loaded butt. The man fell senseless to the ground. The other threw the whip down on his prostrate body, and walked into the hotel to wash the blood from his face and neck."

The Pope's Loss by a Bank Failure.

Rome Letter in London Truth.

A very pretty scandal came out here last night in financial circles—nothing less than the failure of the great Clerical bank of Ihrwagner. I say "Clerical" because it was implicitly believed in in the best Catholic circles here and greatly favored by the prelates of the church and Roman grandees of the "black" society. I happen to know that the pope himself is a creditor for 29,000 fr., which he happened to have there. The house wished to cancel this sum from their books, out of respect for his holiness, but the liquidators would not have it, so Leo XIII. must appear in the list of the bank's creditors with his 29,000 fr.

No Law to Prevent.

Detroit Free Press.

"Is this the police station?" queried a female voice through the telephone the other day.

"Yes'm."

"Well, I want you to arrest my husband."

"What for?"

"He's carrying on the awfulest you ever saw."

"How?"

"Why, he's gone and got a crowbar, and he says he is going to dash out my canary bird's brains. He keeps making the awfulest motions you ever saw and I know he intends to commit murder."

"I am afraid we can't do anything."

"Isn't it against the law for a great big man to strike a wee little canary bird with a crowbar or sledge hammer?"

"Hardly, ma'am."

"Well, that's a pretty state of affairs, and shows what kind of a country we live in! Good-bye, and—"

The crowbar probably descended with a "squash" just at that time, as she closed the telephone with a snap.

What Man Is Made Of.

St. Louis Republic.

Dr. Lancaster, a London physician and surgeon, recently analyzed a man and gave the results to his class in chemistry. The body operated upon weighed 154.4 pounds. The lecturer exhibited upon the platform 23.1 pounds of carbon, 2.2 pounds of lime, 22.3 ounces of phosphorus and about one ounce each of sodium, iron, potassium, magnesium and silicon. Besides this solid residue Dr. Lancaster estimated that there were 5595 cubic feet of oxygen, weighing 121 pounds; 105,900 cubic feet of hydrogen, weighing 15.4 pounds, and 52 cubic feet of nitrogen in the man's body. All these elements combined in the following: One hundred and twenty-one pounds of water, 16.5 pounds gelatine, 1.32 pounds fat, 8.8 pounds fibrin and albumen and 7.7 pounds of phosphate of lime and other minerals.

Prototype of the Nickel-in-the-Slot.

Minneapolis Tribune.

The nickel-in-the-slot machine is not by any means a modern invention. In the old Egyptian temples devices of this kind were employed for automatically dispensing the purifying water. A coin of five drachmae dropped into a slot in a vase set a simple piece of mechanism like a well sweep in motion, a valve was opened for an instant and a portion of the water permitted to escape. This apparatus was described by Hero of Alexandria, who lived 200 years before the Christian era. The work, of course is written in Latin, but the description is accurate. The question is, who adopted the ancient Egyptian's idea to the wants of the money-making citizen of the Nineteenth century?

Salisbury's Lack of Veracity.

London Letter to Chicago News.

Mr. Labouchere seems to have "the sympathy of the entire community" in the trouble into which he got himself by saying that he did not believe the Marquis of Salisbury. It appears that another name for a lie in London is "a Salisbury." A subtle way of calling a man a liar is to call him "a Salisbury." The Marquis of Salisbury has a brother-in-law who is quite a wit, and he has not hesitated to have his joke at the expense of the premier. On one occasion he was told that a statement must be true because it came direct from the premier. "Excuse me," he retorted, "but advices from that quarter should always be taken cum grano Salisbury."

His Mother-in-law is Welcomed.

Virginia City Enterprise.

Among the Piutes it is always the father-in-law that makes the trouble. Every married Piute is always glad of a visit from his mother-in-law. He welcomes her with his broadest grin. The arrival of the mother-in-law gives him a double team, where before he had only one animal. He hails her appearance with delight, and, piling a jackass load of wood upon her willing old back, sends her into town with his wife (similarly packed) to peddle out the fuel and bring back to him a supply of money for his favorite game of poker. The Piute father-in-law is of no use as a wood-packer, nor will he gather grass seeds or pine nuts.

The Modern Miss.

Binghamton (New York) Republican.

What are you here for, dear little Miss?
To ape the airs of a social queen?
To punish pianos in sharps and flats?
To keep well posted on baseball bats?
To wear dead singers on ten dollar hats?
To fondle pet poodles or Maltese cats?
Dissect your neighbors in social chats?
Work impossible flowers on crocheted mats
And not to be, but to be seen?
Look out little girl! You are starting the life
Of a worthless maid and a worthless wife.

A Badge of Distinction.

Dry-Goods Chronicle.

"I suppose you think I wear this high collar from dudish motives," inquired Longnecke of his prospective employer.

"It certainly looks that way."

"That is where you do me wrong, sir. Last summer, while promenading in Central park, the menagerie broke loose. A gang of keepers caged me by mistake, while my best girl returned home with the giraffe. No, I am no dude!"

Heavenly.

Munsey's Weekly.

Mrs. Gushing—Oh, I am so charmed with your home, Mrs. Quiverful. Such a beautiful house, and such pleasant surroundings! and then such daughters, too. I hope the young ladies realize that their home is a perfect paradise.

Uncle Joe (a mean old thing)—Oh, they live up to it, Mrs. Gushing. I assure you there is no marrying or giving in marriage here.

"Tell the messenger we don't keep photographic chemicals. Then the family will get scared and hire another doctor."—New York Weekly.

Distanced in the Race.

Why should Dr. Pierce's medicines not distance all competitors in amount of sales, as they are doing, since they are the only medicines sold by druggists possessed of such wonderful curative properties as to warrant their manufacturers in guaranteeing them to cure the diseases for which they are recommended. You get a cure or money paid for them refunded. The doctor's "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all diseases caused by derangement of the liver, as biliousness, indigestion or dyspepsia; also all blood, skin and scalp diseases, tetter, salt rheum, scrofulous sores and swellings and kindred ailments.

THE U. P. REORGANIZED.

Captain J. W. Troup Becomes Superintendent of Water Lines.

HAS A DEPARTMENT OF HIS OWN

An Unknown Man Run Over and Killed on the Northern Pacific Yesterday.

THE BARK KITTY IN THE RIVER

Child Knocked Down and Run Over—A Perilous Midnight Trip—Exciting Runaway—Lumbermen's Exchange—Oregon Press Association.

The following circulars have just been issued from the Union Pacific offices. The first is numbered 17 and is given out over the signatures of W. H. Holcomb, vice president, and C. J. Smith, general manager. It is as follows:

On and after April 1 the Pacific division, for the purposes of operating, will be divided in three divisions, to be known as the Oregon division, the Washington division, and the Water division.

The Oregon division will comprise the railroad line from Portland to Huntington, from Umatilla to Wallula Junction and the Heppner branch.

The Washington division will comprise the railroad line from Pendleton to Riparia, from Wallula Junction to Walla Walla, the Dayton branch, the Pomeroy branch, and all the rail lines north of Snake river.

The water division will comprise the steamboat lines on Snake river, on the Willamette river, on the Columbia river, on Puget sound, the steamer line from Portland to Puget sound and the steamer line from Portland to San Francisco.

C. W. Johnson is appointed superintendent of the Oregon and Washington divisions, with the title of superintendent railroad lines. Office at Portland, Or.

Goodall, Perkins & Co. are appointed superintendents of the ocean line between Portland and San Francisco, with title of superintendents ocean line. Office at San Francisco, Cal.

J. W. Troup is appointed superintendent of the water division with the title of superintendent water lines, with jurisdiction over all lines of the water division except the steamer line between Portland and San Francisco. Office at Portland, Or.

Employes of the steamer line from Portland to San Francisco at Portland and Astoria will report to J. W. Troup for orders.

The second is numbered 224 over the signatures of Manager Smith and Superintendent C. W. Johnson.

Referring to circular No. 17 of even date, issued by the general manager, the undersigned, taking charge of the railroad lines known as the Oregon and Washington divisions, announces the following appointments:

D. W. C. Perry is appointed assistant superintendent of the Oregon division, with office at La Grande, Or. He will have charge of all matters pertaining to operation on the Oregon division, and all employes of that division will report to him for orders.

E. Lyons is appointed assistant superintendent of the Washington division, with office at Tekoa, Washington. He will have charge of all matters pertaining to operation on the Washington division, and all employes of that division will report to him for orders.

Robert Wakefield, having resigned the position of superintendent of track, bridges and buildings, that office is hereby abolished.

Thomas H. Walsh is appointed supervisor of bridges and buildings of the Oregon division, and will report to the assistant superintendent of that division.

H. Vandeborg is appointed roadmaster and supervisor of bridges and buildings of the Washington division, and will report to the assistant superintendent of that division.

The division roadmasters will report direct to the assistant superintendents of their respective divisions, and will receive their orders from him.

The above appointments to take effect on and after April 1, 1890.

The appointment of Captain Troup to the position of superintendent of water lines is a well deserved recognition of his energetic and efficient services in the navigation department of the company.

KILLED BY THE CARS.

An Unknown Man Run Over at Holbrook Station, on the Northern Pacific.

Word was received by the coroner yesterday that a section hand was run over and killed at Holbrook station, on the line of the Northern Pacific. The remains were brought in on the evening train, but nobody appears to know who the man was. He is a well built, muscular man, about thirty years of age, average height, and has dark hair and a smooth shaved face. The coroner does not know his name, and Mr. A. D. Charlton of the Northern Pacific ticket office knew only what the coroner told him. Either the man is some mysterious unknown, or else no one wants to know anything about him. An investigation is in order and an inquest no doubt will be held to-day.

STROLL ALONG THE WHARVES.

Bark Kitty Arrived From Hong Kong After a Stormy Voyage—Other Notes.

The steamer Alliance arrived from Gray's Harbor yesterday noon and docked at the foot of C street. She had aboard about 10,000 feet of lumber.

The steamer Michigan finished loading at Ainsworth dock yesterday afternoon, and at 4 o'clock left for Sound ports with a large cargo of general merchandise.

The British ship River Falloch is still at Greenwich dock. The vessel has been loading with wheat for Europe, and is now almost down to the requisite depth.

The bark Kitty, arrived off the bar yesterday afternoon, and everything looking favorable, she immediately crossed and reached Astoria at 2 P. M. The vessel experienced a rough voyage, heavy head winds being encountered all the way from Hong Kong. The Kitty draws seventeen feet of water and has a cargo of rice and other miscellaneous Chinese merchandise. She will come to Portland to discharge in a few days.

At the southern end of Steamship dock, discharging 1000 tons of general merchandise, is the steamer Columbia. Among the cargo was 100 tons of sugar from California mills, and two boilers for "up country" steam engines. At the lower end of the same wharf is the Alaskan steamship City of Topeka. The Topeka finished discharging her cargo of coal at the Albina coal bunkers, and is now taking on a cargo of general merchandise for northern ports.

IT WAS A WILD HIGH LEAP.

An Exciting Mishap That Befel a Daring Equestrienne Yesterday Afternoon.

Residents in the vicinity of South Third and Grant streets were thrown into a state of wild excitement yesterday by the screams of a young woman of color, mounted on a runaway horse, which came up Third street at the top of its speed, the rider yelling so as to be heard for blocks: "Oh! I'll be killed! I'll be killed! My horse is going to kill me!" As she neared Grant street a gentleman in a light express wagon drove his horse directly in the way of the runaway steed, thinking to check him in his mad career. The frightened animal, as he approached the obstruction, gathered himself for a leap, and, rising like a bird, jumped over the horse, catching his feet in the harness and falling in a heap on the other side. The gentleman in the wagon, when he saw the horse flying through the air, rose to his feet, and, grasping the woman around the waist, pulled her from her horse, and they both alighted (not gracefully) in the street in close proximity to the floundering horse.

The woman was carried into a house near by, where a stiff tot of whisky was poured down her throat, and she was soon restored to life. A moment later another colored young woman dashed up on horseback, carrying the plug hat which her friend had lost in her wild ride, and yelled out: "Is she hurt? Is she hurt?" On being assured that "she" was not seriously injured, the last comer said: "I done clar to gracious, I's nearly frightened to death. I told dat gal she'd oughter let me ride dat hoss. He's a high flyer and too spry for her." The horse eventually got away, and the gentleman who had made such a remarkable "fly catch," led off his horse with his shattered harness and a wagon hitched on to his vehicle and took it away, and the street resumed its usual orderly aspect.

If any one wants to try fox hunting or steeple chasing he should hunt up the horse which ran away with the colored girl yesterday, and if he don't come in at the head of the hunt it will be because he cannot stay on. The gentleman who rescued the young woman is said to be a partner of L. L. Blake, painter.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN MUCH WORSE.

A Little Five-year-old Boy Knocked Down and Run Over by a Passing Team.

Yesterday afternoon a little son of Charles Grant, who, at one time, was constable in North Portland precinct, was run over in front of the Stuart house on Washington street, near Front. A gentleman happened to be driving down Washington toward Front, and was just passing the front entrance of the building. The little boy, who was about five years old, was playing on the sidewalk, and, just as the vehicle was passing, he made a dart forward, and ran under the wagon. He was knocked down, and one wheel passed over the child's back. Fortunately no bones were broken. The little fellow was carried in to the Stuart house at once, and a physician summoned. One side of his face was scratched and bruised in addition to other body injuries. For some time after the accident the boy moaned and cried, and seemed to be suffering considerable pain. It is thought no internal injuries have been sustained, and that the bruises are only superficial. No blame can be attached to anyone, for the driver had no idea that the little fellow would run under the horses' feet. He was driving slowly, and the first thing he knew the child was knocked down and run over.

IT WAS A PERILOUS TRIP.

How Harry Happersett Crossed a Swaying Bridge Over Myrtle Creek at Night.

Mr. J. L. Jones, city passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, has come back from the scene of the big mountain slide in Cow Creek canyon. He relates an experience which Harry Happersett, a bridge superintendent down there passed through.

It seems that during the high water Happersett had occasion to cross the bridge over Myrtle creek at night. He had not been at the bridge that day and did not know that the under works had all been swept away by the fierce waters of the swollen stream. The truss of course was in place, and the rails were bolted together as usual, sustaining it, but in this case with only one bolt at the end of each rail instead of two, as is customary. He was unmindful of the danger and got safely across, though he noticed the swaying of the bridge.

When he reached the other side and was told that the supports of the bridge had gone out, he was almost paralyzed with the sense of his danger, and no money could have tempted him to recross. It was as much as a man's life was worth, apparently to be out on the swaying bridge, in pitchy darkness, and with Myrtle creek's swollen torrent beneath him.

REPAIRING THE CLAN MACKENZIE.

Will Be Ready for the Ocean in Twenty Days—A Very Busy Scene.

An ever busy scene is enacted on board the Clan MacKenzie and the adjacent dock. The force of mechanics engaged on the repairs has been greatly increased, and the improvised machine and blacksmith shop on the wharf, and the scaffolding around the ship's bows are swarming with workmen.

A crowd of spectators have, at all hours of the day and evening since the work commenced, lined the railings of the upper docks in the immediate vicinity, taking notes as the work progresses, but the past two days of exceptionally warm and pleasant weather, have seemingly caused an epidemic of spring fever, for the small crowd, heretofore coming and going, has given place to a small army of idle men, who sit in the sunshine the live long day, when they can view the lively scene of operations between naps.

Six of the big steel plates have been put in position in the bows and are now ready for the revits. Men are at work with hatchets and drills, preparing additional holes in the undamaged plating, preparatory to more new plates being inserted.

Captain Whitelaw, said yesterday that he would have the vessel in a first-class condition, entirely repaired and ready for sea in about twenty days from date. By the middle of next week he will have to discharge a good many men who were hired at the place owing to the already small space in which they have to work becoming smaller as the work is completed toward the wedge-shaped bows. The workmen on the dock, including those engaged at the steam shears and punch, will be among the number to be laid off.

The big hole is expected to be closed up and the patch completed in ten days, when the vessel will be ready to accept a charter, but Captain Whitlaw will still have enough work on hand to keep his regular force rushing, putting to right the forward rigging, adjusting the bowsprit, and effecting numerous other minor, though necessary repairs which will consume another ten days at the least calculation.

While outside men are busy, the ship's crew are likewise steadily at work, in the "fore peak" down in the hold, some painting, more cementing, and others are chipping the rust off the iron sides.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS.

Several of Them Have Gone Over on the Sound on a Trip.

Vice-President W. H. Holcomb of the Union Pacific has gone to take a trip over the Sound region, accompanied by General Manager C. F. Smith, A. L. Maxwell and Isaac N. Perry, of Chicago. To a reporter who inquired of Mr. Holcomb in regard to his future movements, he said he was off to take a look over the Sound. It is nine months since he visited the Northwest and he has been watching with much interest the development of the various localities in this region. New places are springing into notice all the time, and in order to keep posted he must make a visit to the Sound country and see what was going on. He said his attention had been very strongly drawn towards Port Angeles of late, and during his trip to the Sound he would visit that place in company with General Manager Smith and have a look at the harbor and town which are now attracting so much attention. Mr. Holcomb will probably visit all the large towns on the Sound and, if possible, go to Bellingham bay and Anacortes, where the development has been so rapid of late.

THE LATEST FROM CHICAGO.

Dr. Bevan Speaks of the Activity in the "World's Fair" City—Probable Sites and Money Raised.

Dr. A. D. Bevan, who arrived from Chicago last Monday, after an absence from the city of four months, says that Chicago seems to be living a new life since the decision making it the site for the World's Fair. Speaking to an OREGONIAN reporter he said:

Outside real estate, said he, advanced [illegible] per cent. as soon as the news was received by wire and the city is enjoying another wonderful boom. The citizens are jubilant, and no pains will be spared to make the fair a success. The city is growing, and the streets and stores show every evidence of increasing trade.

The exact location of the fair is not yet definitely decided upon, but the probability is that the main buildings will be situated on the water front. This appears to be the only suitable site centrally located. It is not far from the auditorium (opposite it), and the ground is about [illegible] and one-quarter miles long and from [illegible] feet wide. The buildings for the fat stock show and perhaps agricultural exhibits will be in Jackson park. This is only five miles from the city and easily reached by a number of railways. It will be impossible to have all the buildings at one place, and this arrangement will, no doubt, be made. These two sites are the best of the

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS

The Entertainments Now Being Offered at the Local Playhouses.

The California Opera Company made its first appearance last night at the Marquam Grand opera house, in Richard Stahl and Scott Marble's oriental opera, "Said Pasha." Expectation had been so thoroughly worked up by extravagant advance puffery, that the audience was prepared to see a brilliant and striking comic opera, with brilliant and striking costumes, beautifully rendered. In the second only of these particulars were their expectations realized. As for the opera itself, while it probably has not an original number in it, it is made up of happy selections and combinations from "Erminie," "Mikado," "Merry War" and other operas, which, from a musical point of view doubtless gives a better result than had the author attempted to write an original opera entire. The comedy element is furnished by two "tramps" almost exact counterparts of the two similar characters in "Erminie." There are in the opera several pleasing numbers, solos, quintettes and ensembles, which, in the hands of competent and well trained singers, would leave a pleasant memory with the listener.

As performed last night, while there were a number of enjoyable features, such as handsome scenery, rich costumes and some fine solo work, the painful lack of agreement between the orchestra and the singers marred many of the best numbers.

The principal solo work was sustained by Miss Kate Marchi as Serena, and Miss Ada Somers as Alti. Both of these ladies are excellent singers, the latter having a rich, mellifluous soprano and the former being well known here as an honest conscientious artist. Miss Somers's solo, "Its idle to repine," was beautifully sung and earned her an encore. John E. McWade's solo "I would love her so," showed a pleasing baritone, of good range. He was warmly encored.

W H Frillman as the Rajah sang "A Dream of Home" in a bass voice of tremendous power and deep volume, and gained an encore. M Cornell as the Pasha hardly comprehended the humor of the part and his singing was scarcely as true as it might have been. Miss Carol Krouse did the woman in search of a husband rather cleverly. The fun of the opera was admirably sustained by Fred Lennox as Hadad, and Stanley Felch who worked hard all the evening and brought many a laugh over their grotesque absurdities.

The chorus was rather attenuated in numbers, in so far as the female element is concerned, but they sang with spirit in the concerted numbers, the finales to the two acts being especially well sung. "Said Pasha" again to-night.

MONTE CRISTO NEXT WEEK

James O'Neil in his celebrated impersonation of the Count of Monte Cristo, will begin a week's engagement next Monday. Reserved seat sale begins to-day.

New Park Theater.

The New Park, with popular prices and standard dramas produced by an excellent company, is having a run of success. Last night the Caroline Gage Company presented "The Pearl of Savoy" to a most appreciative audience. Much of the effectiveness of this thrilling drama of the old school depends upon proper costuming and in this the Gage Company are by no means deficient. The costumes worn by them are not only rich but historically correct, a fact fully appreciated by the educated play goer. The piece was well presented and the applause throughout was generous. Miss Gage makes a charming Savoyard girl and was twice called before the curtain. Miss Knott as Chouchou and Miss Howe as the Marchioness acquitted themselves with credit. Mr Kent Thomas is a fair comedian and increased the favorable impression which he had already made. His topical songs last night were encored again and again.

The "Pearl of Savoy" again to-night.

Cordray's Theatre

"The Lancashire Lass" received its second representation last night before an interested audience and the work of James Devlin and Miss Essie Tittell especially was warmly applauded.

There will be the usual Wednesday matinee this afternoon when "The Lancashire Lass" will be given.

O & W LUMBERMAN'S EXCHANGE

The Oregon and Washington Lumbermen's Exchange has been organized by the saw-mill men of this section. It includes the eight saw mills here, three at Vancouver, one at Bridal Veil and one at Mooresville and several represented by the Dunway Co. Following is the board of directors: Albert Smith, H. A. Hogue, Geo W Weidler, L Therkelsen, Hugh Dunway, Mr Bradley of Bridal Veil, and Mr Gray of Vancouver. The board organized by the election of the following officers: L. Therkelsen, president; Mr Gray of Vancouver, vice president; H Dunway, secretary; Jas D Young, treasurer. The various lumber manufacturers of this section have been working for some time to effect the organization of this association, the object of which is not to raise the price of lumber but to make Portland a center for the lumber trade of this region and the point from which Eastern dealers can obtain their supplies and information of all kinds in regard to lumber and the lumber business.

OREGON PRESS ASSOCIATION

Circular announcements of the Oregon Press Association have just been issued by Mr E. C Pentland, the secretary. The next annual meeting will be held in Portland on the 14th and 15th of August. Among other things the circular states:

"As it is intended to make this association a benefit to all the fraternity, and as Portland is convenient of access from all parts of Oregon, where other business can be attended to at the same time, we trust publishers will very generally be in attendance on this occasion."

The following is the list of the officers of the association: Charles Nickell, president; E. C. Pentland, secretary; S S Train, treasurer; E. Casey, sergeant at arms; vice presidents, O P Mason, T J. Stites, J R. N Bell, J B Eddy, I L Campbell.

WALLA WALLA MAN ABROAD

He Takes a Look at the Cities on the Lower Sound.

But After Looking all Around He Concludes There Is No Place Like Walla Walla

SEATTLE March 30 1890—I find Seattle full of people from all parts of the United States—some seeking work, others homes and still the greater class following excitement hunting a place where fortunes can be made in the shortest possible time by investments. Multitudes follow on like a flock of sheep after the bell wether to the point where the greatest noise is made and the point where the most advertising is done by some combination of capital, and where the loudest commotion is raised, there they rush pell mell. I will however say this for Seattle—that there is no combination of capital to support her "boom." The great amount of capital is expended in building up the city, and the army of men employed for that purpose, together with the new blood and capital constantly added can but have the effect to produce great activity and progress and the substantial buildings of stone and brick that are taking the place of the wooden hovels of a year ago show to the observer plainer than words could express it that the people of Seattle have faith in the future of this thriving young city.

On Tuesday the 27th, I took passage on the City of Kingston on her first trip down the Sound to Whatcom and intermediate points. The Kingston is a magnificent steamer with accommodations fit for a prince. Her speed is twenty miles an hour. There were four hundred passengers aboard for Whatcom and way points. We left the Seattle wharf at 12 30 P M and arrived at Anacortes at six in the evening. As I did not examine the city except from the deck of the steamer I am not fully qualified to express an opinion as to the merits of the place. However, this much I know that it is on the wave of a boom, and that boom is stimulated by a combination of capital. Fortunes have been made there already in the rise of property. Much improvement has been done. In fact it is quite a town, and there are many good wooden buildings already erected.

Twenty five miles farther down the Sound you arrive at the first town on Bellingham Bay, Fairhaven. I must say that the live men of this city are demonstrating by their works that they have faith. A $100 000 hotel is being built, other very substantial improvements are being made and the place has an appearance as if the people are there to stay. Here we find a strong moneyed combination with Nelson Bennett at the head, building a railroad, etc and doing the booming—and Mr Bennett is building the hotel. The next point reached is Sehome, one and one-half miles above Fairhaven. I will say this for both these places that they have a fine harbor, deep water and when the time comes that the coal mines are reached that may lie back of them, and the country becomes settled, and resources are developed they will become points of importance. The old town of Whatcom a mile or so further up, resembles Olympia standing on the tide flats. Deep water can only be reached by a mile of wharf. Here are situated the county buildings and the greater part of the residences. The three places named on Bellingham bay are situated in a semi circle, all within a three mile line, and will undoubtedly some day be one city of considerable importance although now rivals for supremacy—Sehome and Whatcom versus Fairhaven.

It is quite evident that nearly if not all of the boomed places on the Sound and in fact everywhere east of the mountains as well, are controlled and boosted by syndicates and combinations of capital. Very few if any are receiving a great influx of capital, brains and muscle on their own inherited merits. Permit me to say that Walla Walla in the past has furnished her full quota of these elements to boom every place but Walla Walla. In Spokane Falls you will find some of the most energetic of her wide awake men are from Walla Walla. Many of Seattle's fine buildings were built by Walla Walla men. Walla Walla capital and men are at Anacortes, Fairhaven and Sehome, Grays Harbor and other places. In fact millions of our money have been invested everywhere to boom other towns. Suppose this money had been formed into a syndicate and put into enterprises in our own beautiful city and county, other capital would have been attracted and ours would be the leading city of our state. Walla Walla Valley has natural resources of her own. Her wheat, her beef, pork and mutton go to feed other boomed towns. The other day a boomer with more talk than brains in Seattle remarked that Walla Walla had no resources to support a city. I told him that for his breakfast he ate Walla Walla flour and Walla Walla beef.

While I was in Puyallup waiting for the Seattle train I was informed that a large meat packing establishment was being erected there. Where will the raw material come from to carry on such an enterprise there? A great part of it must come from the Walla Walla valley. Would not such an institution pay better where the raw material is raised in abundance and where stock can be stall fed cheaper than any place in the world? There are many men with small means floating around boomed towns, who could better their condition and make a sure thing by going to the Walla Walla valley and getting homes in that land of plenty—a country that never fails—a country where on a few acres a home of comfort and even opulence can be secured. Men follow after boomers as they do after gold discoverers, and many fall by the wayside and wish when they see nothing but a bubble that they had been content to make an honest living slowly. Some few get rich by sudden rise of property, but more return home disgusted, having spent their hard earnings seeing "the elephant." No man will ever repent who goes to the Walla Walla country with brains and muscle and grit and perseverance —and if he has money he has a fortune in his grasp. It is healthful, it has great agricultural wealth, it is the land of promise. It is where the old Walla Wallians have made their stake. It is a good place to live in and as a writer has said it is, being so healthful a difficult place to die in.

THE LATE MRS ODELL.

A Tribute to Her Life and Worth by Rev. W S Harrington

At the funeral services of Mrs Odell yesterday Rev W S Harrington who, as her former pastor had known her well, gave a sketch of the life of this worthy woman. He said:

Mrs Elizabeth F Odell passed to her rest from the residence of her daughter Mrs. A W Sowell in this city on March 31 1890 in the 71th year of her age. Her maiden name was McClench and she was born near Augusta Maine. She was married in her native state in 1844 to Samuel R Thurston. They moved to Iowa in 1846 and the next year crossed the plains to Oregon. Her husband became the first delegate from the territory of Oregon to the congress of the United States and died at sea April 1851 as he was returning from Washington. His remains were buried in one of the cemeteries in our Capital city.

Mrs Thurston became preceptress in the Willamette university under the presidency of D F S Hoyt and continued in that position until she was united to her now bereaved husband in 1853. They lived in Yamhill county until 1860 were in charge of the Santiam academy for three years were citizens of Eugene City from 1864 to 1877 then moved to Salem which has since been their home. This is only the barest outline of the earth life of one who spent her more than three score and ten years wisely and well. We who knew her and her work can but be assured, now that she has passed to her reward, that it is well with her. Surely whatever there may be of reward and blessedness in the life upon which she has entered must become a part of her experience. I make no doubt could she speak to us now she would testify—all is well. So while not only the relatives but large numbers of others are real mourners, we rejoice in the midst of our sorrow because her severe suffering is over because of the wealth of precious memories which come as a heritage from her life, because we are sure that her works will remain and that we may meet her again in a happier sphere.

To speak of the noble qualities of our departed friends is not a sorrowful task; but being prompted by the love we bear them is delight. So while we mourn the departure of our sainted sister we are glad to say something concerning those qualities which so endeared her to her associates while she was among us. It is too early to form any just estimate of the results of her life work. This cannot be fully measured until the coming of that day when all things shall be revealed. But we may call to mind many admirable qualities which are worthy of our attention and emulation.

It is very evident even to those who have known her only for the few years last past, that she was a woman of much native ability. Although she was of a very quiet and retiring disposition, never putting herself forward nor hastily voicing her own opinions, the fact of her more than common talent would finally become evident to whosoever associated with her.

She made the most of herself and her opportunities so that to use the figure of our Lord her talents had gained other talents. Her mind was well cultured. I do not know concerning her early opportunities (except that she spent some time at the Wesleyan College and Female Seminary, Kent's Hill, Me.) but I do know that she sometimes by a single sentence revealed the fact that she had thought along lines to which comparatively few of either sex give much attention. Neither her native ability nor her culture were of the showy kind but solid, substantial, enduring. When her pastor I was often impressed that no more capable judge of a discourse was to be found in the congregation at Salem, where capable men and women abound.

Her culture was not along mental lines only but also in things spiritual. Her piety, like herself, was unobtrusive, genuine, deep. She was devout; to one accustomed to read indications in the realm of the spiritual it was plain to be seen that she abode under the shadow of the Almighty, that she was accustomed to walk and talk with God, and that she was, as Peter teaches is the privilege of man, a partaker of the Divine nature. Hers were the graces of the spirit, and doubtless she loved the Lord with all her heart. Her pure and gentle soul has already found the way to the throne of the Eternal in response to the invitation, "Come ye blessed."

She not only loved God but she loved her fellows. In various ways she made herself very helpful. Her affection for others was so evident and so pure that to know her was to be drawn to her. Her life seems to have been spent for the service of others.

There are yet many who more than thirty five years ago were under her instruction who have not forgotten her, who have never ceased to regard her with deep respect and who will revere her memory. There is reason to suppose that many lives have been made purer and better because of the faithful work done by her in this department.

As a wife and mother she was a home maker in the best sense of the word. Intelligently and quietly affectionate, careful as to the comforts of her dear ones, seeking their best good for time and eternity, what more could be desired? To have been a member of a home thus presided over is a priceless legacy.

She was a true helper in the Gospel. She sympathized with her pastor in every good word and constantly gave her support in every way. She was present at the preaching service and the social meeting whenever she was able; her prayers and testimonials were simple, direct and in demonstration of the spirit. When financial burdens were borne by the church she was on hand to do her part; in special revival services she was sympathizing and active and she took missionary interests upon her heart. Would that more were like her in these particulars.

Her interest in others continued up to her last conscious—yes up to the end of her conscious existence. I have no doubt but that it continues yet. I emphasize this statement. So far as my observation goes most of people when old age and feebleness come lose somewhat of their interest in the affairs of this life. Not so with Mrs Odell. Even when suffering severely in the later days of her life she would inquire concerning each member of the family of the friend who was calling and send her love. The interests of the church and of the Willamette university, which was so dear to her during all these years she carried on her heart. To those who were nearest her these things need not be said for they had daily evidence thereof. The children and grandchildren will carry to the end of their lives the memories of that affection which was so potent even during her struggle with the last enemy. We can but hope that that which for each of them she so earnestly desired and so fervently prayed may be realized.

I can hardly let this opportunity pass without reference to her indomitable courage and faith. For months she has been face to face with death and during all this time has been a great sufferer. What wonderful poise of character she manifested, what bravery she evinced, how unwavering her trust in her Heavenly Father. I can hardly think of any quality needed at the last day which has not been exemplified in the life of our departed sister.

This body we will tenderly bear to God's Acre, there to await the resurrection day. It will rest in the Lee Mission cemetery, a spot rich with the dust of our sainted dead. Among the first buried there was Anna Maria Lee who died in 1838 in the full enjoyment of that love which constrained her to leave all for Christ and heathen souls. There too sleep Father Waller, the monuments of whose heroic and long continued labors are prominent in church and school at Salem, and Bishop Erastus O Haven, whose pure spirit went to God from the parsonage in that city. Sister Dillon, who like her whom we now mourn was at an early day a teacher in the university and a faithful worker in the church of her choice. William Roberts who was once superintendent of the Oregon and California mission conference and who did more than a half century of heroic work in the ministry of our church. Father and Mother Wilbur who in purity, devotion and usefulness were second to none and whose praise is in all the churches. Time fails to tell of the many others who were as worthy as those whom we have mentioned.

We will lay this precious dust beside these kingly ones until the coming of the Lord. The spot is within reach of the sound of the bells of university and church but she has entered the church of the first born in heaven and worships at the throne of the Eternal. May each of us so address ourselves to the real work of life that we too may bear the divine image and live forever with the holy in heaven.

The Water Was All Right.

New York Herald

Marshall P Wilder in Philadelphia the other day interviewed a colored hotel waiter on the subject of Schuylkill water.

"Sam, I hear the water you give guests to drink soaks through the graveyard. Is that so?"

"That's right, boss, that's right, shu' enough, but de people buried in dat yer graveyard am mighty high toned people, sah, mighty so."

GEN. ROBERT C. SCHENCK.

Stories and Reminiscences of a Noted Man

His Friendship at Washington—How He Got His Title of "Poker Bob"

Frank G Carpenter writes from Washington to the New York World about the late General Schenck. We reproduce the following:

Schenck's career dates back to 1830 when he began to study law with Tom Corwin and he has been in the thick of affairs ever since. During the past two generations there has been scarcely a public man whom he has not known more or less intimately and if his personal reminiscences could have been gathered together they would have filled more space than Blaine's "Twenty Years of Congress." During the past decade General Schenck has lived very quietly at Washington. He owned a big brick house with a brownstone front on Thomas Circle and just next door to where Secretary Rusk now lives and he lived a rather retired life associating with such men as General Sheridan, Chief Justice Waite, James G Blaine and the other famous of his old time friends. He was a man who never forgot a friend and he bound those who knew him to him with hooks of steel. He seldom appeared in public and the last time I remember seeing him at the capitol was on the occasion of the ceremonies celebrating the completion of the Washington monument. At this time he seemed to be in perfect health and I have been repeatedly struck during recent years by his resemblance to General Grant. He has grown much like Grant as he grew older, and he has the same cast of features, the same reddish brown beard and a good deal of the figure of the great commander.

It was Grant who appointed him minister to England, where he remained for five years and in connection with which he got his title of "Poker Bob Schenck." It is generally known that this came from his having written a book on poker playing and General Schenck suffered throughout his life from the injustice of the report in regard to it. The truth is that he wrote no such book for publication, and what was called by this title was a few notes which he scratched off at the request of one of the most noted ladies of England. General Schenck would have been a popular society man anywhere. He was especially so in England and it was the Countess Waldegrave who asked him one night to put down for her upon paper some rules for the famous game of poker. This countess had a private printing press in her house, and she had an edition de luxe of these rules struck off for the use of her friends. A newspaper correspondent who had had some trouble with General Schenck telegraphed the fact to America stating that our minister had published a book on poker and coupling this with other matters in denunciation of him. The opposition editors held up their pens in holy horror and dubbed him "Poker Bob." It was an outrage, but General Schenck was too proud a man to set the matter right and he suffered from it for the rest of his life.

A generation ago General Schenck was one of the most prominent politicians in the country and when President Harrison's grandfather was elected in that famous log cabin, hard cider campaign General Schenck, then a young lawyer, stumped the state of Ohio in his favor. General William Henry Harrison knew Schenck and the story has been told of his engagement of him as one of his speakers. It was at Dayton, just after a notable mass meeting that General Harrison sent for Mr Schenck and said: "Mr Schenck, I want you to travel over this state with me as one of my palaver men." "I'm afraid I can not," replied the young lawyer. "My business is very heavy just now and I don't think my partner will let me off."

"I can't help that—I can't help that," said old Tippecanoe. "Law business or no law business, I want you and must have you. You will help the campaign and you must arrange to make the trip at once."

Mr Schenck then went into the fight and stumped himself into fame. He was elected to the legislature shortly after this and within a year or so was sent to congress. He became a leader during his first session, declined a re-election at the end of it, but was forced to run and continued in congress for eight years. After leaving congress he was made minister to Brazil and during the war he was again in the house.

General Schenck's congressional career was a most exciting one. He stood side by side with Joshua R. Giddings in many of his struggles and at one time he came very near having a duel with Felix McConnell of Alabama. Giddings had risen to speak and the democrats had hissed and yelled out "We object!" Mr Schenck arose and said that no gentleman would object under such circumstances to hearing Mr Giddings. Again came the words "I object," and Schenck reiterated his statement, saying: "I repeat under these circumstances no gentleman would object." It was thought he referred to Mr Slidell of Louisiana, but being asked to state whether he did so he arose in his seat and said: "I did not know that Mr Slidell was in the house. I meant and referred to the drunken member from Alabama, Felix G. McConnell." Upon this McConnell rushed at Schenck and shook his fist in his face. The house was in an uproar in an instant and the two were separated. That night Schenck was asked by one of his friends if he had a pistol and he replied that he had never carried one in his life. "Well, you had better get one," was the reply, "for McConnell swears that he will shoot you on sight. You had better take my pistol," said his friend. Schenck did so and the fact became known that he had one. Shortly after this he met McConnell on the portico of the Capitol. The two looked into one another's eyes but there was no shooting and this was the end of that matter.

There was never any doubt about General Schenck's bravery. When the attack was made on Sumter he wrote at once to Abraham Lincoln offering to serve in any capacity "in helping to sustain the government, the Union and our flag," and he also offered his services to Governor Dennison of Ohio, in the same way. When he called upon Lincoln at the White House the latter said as he entered: "We are having a devil of a time just now, Schenck, can you fight?"

"I don't know, but I can try," replied Mr Schenck.

"All right, and I am sure that you will succeed," said President Lincoln. "You have it in your blood and you shall be a brigadier general."

The president then made out a commission for him, and General Schenck showed himself an able officer. He received a major general's commission for gallant conduct at the battle of Cross Keys, but he was wounded at the second battle of Bull Run, and he felt the effects of his wound to his death. He was in the first battle of Bull Run and at the close of it was on the retreat when through the darkness he heard the voice of a man riding rapidly by him: "Is that you Schenck?"

"Yes. Sherman, is that you?" replied Schenck, and the man stopped and the two for a moment hurriedly discussed the situation. "What has become of your troops Sherman?" said Schenck. "Heaven only knows," said William Tecumseh. "They've gone with the crowd." General Schenck held two of his regiments in hand and brought them into Washington. Most of the other generals during this engagement lost all control of their troops.

A number of other good stories are told regarding General Schenck's war record, and Howard Carroll in his book called "Twelve Americans," from which some of the above matter is taken, describes how the general prevented the Southern ladies of Baltimore from wearing the stars and bars as dresses or aprons during the war. It was much in the same way that General Butler did at New Orleans and the result was practically the same. Dresses of the same colors were put on questionable female characters and they were paid to promenade the streets. The result was that reputable women did not dare wear them.

CALL FOR A REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican Convention for the State of Oregon is called to meet at the city of Portland on Wednesday the 16th day of April 1890 at 11 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of Congressman, Governor, Supreme Judge, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, State Printer and Dairy Officers, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. The convention will consist of 218 delegates apportioned among the several counties as follows:

Baker 6, Benton 8, Clackamas 9, Clatsop 7, Columbia 4, Coos 6, Crook 3, Curry 3, Douglas 9, Gilliam, Grant 5, Harney 4, Jackson 7, Josephine 4, Klamath 3, Lake 3, Lane 10, Linn 10, Malheur 3, Marion, Morrow 4, Multnomah 35, Polk 6, Tillamook, Umatilla 10, Union 8, Wallowa 4, Wasco 8, and 8, Washington 8, Yamhill 8.

The same being one delegate at large from each county and one delegate for every 175 votes, and one for every fraction over one half thereof, cast for congressmen at the June election of 1888. The committee recommend that the Primaries be held on April 5th and the county conventions on April 8th unless otherwise ordered by the proper county committee. All voters who favor the Republican policy of American markets for the products of American labor, liberal support of our common schools and the protection of every voter in the nation, in his right to cast a free ballot and have it fairly counted are cordially invited to unite in the selection of delegates to the Republican State Convention.

L. T BARIN, Chairman.

March 5th 1890. Republican papers please copy.

WATER COMMITTEE'S WORK.

A Regular Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon—Full Attendance.

Various Important Matters Connected With the Water Supply for the City Taken Under Consideration.

A regular meeting of the water committee was held at the parlors of Ladd & Tilton's bank yesterday afternoon; present Messrs Henry Failing, S. G. Reed, C. H. Lewis, H. W. Corbett, Frank Dekum, L. Therkelsen, C. A. Dolph, T. M. Richardson, A. H. Johnson, Charles E. Sitton and J. Loewenberg.

WANTS WATER FROM THE MAINS.

Mr. Failing stated that on account of the well at the Gambrinus brewery having given out, Mr. Feurer had applied for water from the city mains. It being necessary that he should be supplied as soon as possible, Mr. Failing agreed that 900 feet of pipe should be laid, to connect with the brewery. Mr. Feurer to take water at meter rates, the minimum rate per month being fixed at $50, Mr. Feurer to advance the cost of putting in the pipe, his water rates to be credited to him against this sum till it was paid, as the committee had no money to purchase and lay pipe. This agreement was made subject to the approval of the committee. On motion the committee approved the action of the chairman.

WATER FOR THE CITY PARK.

A committee from the city council, consisting of Mayor DeLashmutt and Councilmen Fliedner and Scoggin, waited upon the water committee to ask that a supply of water be furnished for the city park.

They stated that if the committee would lay a main as near to the park as possible, the city would put in a pump and force the water to a tank in the park.

After some discussion as to the best way of furnishing this water, it was agreed that a pipe should be extended from the brewery to or near the entrance of the park and water furnished on the same terms as Mr. Feurer had agreed to.

Mr. Loewenberg said it seemed hardly right to ask a deposit from the city.

Mr. Failing said it was necessary to do so, as the committee had no money to lay the pipe with, and this was understood by the committee.

THE "OLD ROUNDHOUSE."

Superintendent Smith reported in regard to the advisability of selling the old roundhouse pumping station, that the building had been considerably damaged, and the main leading from it broken by the late flood. To put the establishment in order for work would necessitate a considerable outlay. As the new pump and main would soon be completed, he did not deem it advisable any longer to maintain the roundhouse station.

As the committee has had propositions for the purchase of the roundhouse property and one of the pumps, the matter of selling them or any part of the plant was refered to the construction committee, with power to act.

INSTRUCTED TO INSURE.

Superintendent Smith reported favorably on the proposition of Jas. Laidlaw to insure the boilers at the Palatine hill pumping station. On motion of Mr. Therkelsen the superintendent was instructed to insure the boilers for not over $20,000 for three years at 1¼ per cent.

THE MATTER WAS REFERRED.

A petition was presented by residents of William street, who are inadequately supplied with water, asking that a new main be laid along two blocks. The matter was referred to the superintendent, the objection that the committee had no money to lay mains being made to this action.

INDEFINITELY POSTPONED.

An application was made by the Metropolitan Street Railway Company for a supply of water for their power house at Fulton park. It being stated that it would be impossible to furnish such supply until after the new pump and main were completed, and objection being made on the ground that a number of applications from parties in that vicinity, which is outside the city limits, had been refused, it was ordered that the matter be indefinitely postponed, and the company informed that they could not be supplied at present.

RIGHT OF WAY DISCUSSED.

The matter of the route for the new main came up for discussion. The right of way has not been secured the whole distance from Palatine hill into the city. It was intended to lay the main along the old Macadamized road, but trouble has arisen on account of property owners along the road claiming that as the road has been abandoned it has reverted to them, and some of them have put up buildings in the road and made it very difficult to lay the main, and some ask to be paid for the right of way for the main. In view of the fact that if one were paid all would want to be, it was deemed advisable to buy the right of way for the main through a piece of private property, and turn from the macadamized road up to Hood street and lay the new main parallel with the old one. The committee decided in favor of this plan by a unanimous vote.

REPORT OF EARNINGS.

The sub-committee submitted their report of the earnings and disbursements of the operating department for the month of March as follows:

Earnings $13,574.10, disbursements $8,996.71. During the month there was pumped at Palatine Hill station 288,300,000 gallons. The average per day was 9,000,000 and the maximum 9,600,000. At the High service station 24,862,000 gallons were pumped during the month, a daily average of 802,000 gallons. The report was ordered filed.

THE DELAY UNAVOIDABLE.

Superintendent Smith reported that Wolfe & Zwicker had laid 20,370 feet of wrought iron main up to March 31st. They presented a claim of $400 for "standing time" for their laborers employed in putting down the pipe as they were delayed by the trench not being ready, and the men demanded to be paid or they would return to San Francisco.

Superintendent Smith states that the delay had been unavoidable, as a streak of rock had been encountered which made the excavation of the trench very difficult.

After some discussion the bill was ordered paid.

On account of the change in the route of the pipe and the building of the trestles, Superintendent Smith said that he must have three week's delay in the work of laying pipe. Messrs. Wolfe & Zwicker had agreed that if the committee would pay them 50 per cent. on the pipe laid along the line they would make no claim on account of the delay. After some discussion it was agreed that the amount required be paid.

ABOUT PIPE LAYING.

Mr. Failing brought up the subject of laying a cast iron main down Front street. The committee had no money to buy pipe, but the Oregon Iron and Steel Works were willing to furnish the pipe and take warrants and wait for their money.

The amount of pipe required would be 1524 tons, and the cost of the main completed in round figures would be $100,000.

Superintendent Smith, being called in, stated that there was need of a large main down Front or First street. There were now forty-five elevators being supplied and applications for several more. They are all supplied from the cast iron main on Front street. It was not practicable to keep the hydraulic service and the elevator service separate any longer, as it costs a great deal to run pipes from the main to the different elevators. There is needed a large pipe to run elevators and carry a supply for the north end of the city.

A LONG DISCUSSION.

A long desultory discussion followed as to the best manner of paying for the new pump and the new mains needed. It was suggested that the committee might get along without selling long-time bonds by issuing warrants bearing interest, which could be paid out of the earnings before long. There are lots of bills to be paid, and the income for May and June is already "provided for." The evil day being some distance off, there is still time to settle this matter and without coming to any definite arrangement the committee adjourned.

SHINDLER'S FACTORY BURNED.

Loss Estimated at $25,000 to $30,000—Supposed to Be Covered by Insurance.

At a late hour last night fire was discovered issuing from the varnishing-room of G. Shindler's furniture factory at Willsburg, five miles southeast of town. Alarm was promptly given, and a telephone message sent to the city for aid. It being impossible to reach there, Chief Morgan was unable to comply with the request. In a short time the flames communicated to the factory and soon enveloped the whole—that is, the varnishing-room, the factory proper, the engine-room and dryhouse. In an hour these buildings were practically burned to the ground, and the fire was advancing over a pile of boards to the warehouse where the furniture was stored. Mr. Shindler has carried a big insurance upon the factory, on which he has been paying a high rate of premium. The cause of the fire is most likely spontaneous combustion, originating in the dry and oily debris in the varnishing room. There is no indication, so far as known, of incendiarism.

At 1 o'clock the fire was under control, having done no further damage. Mr. Shindler states that a careful estimate of the loss will place the figures at about $25,000, fully insured.

THE GRIZZLY WAS OUT FOR A TIME.

He Tore Up the Floor of the Bear Pen—Gentle Spring Time at the City Park.

The balmy spring weather so invigorated the grizzly bear in the city park that he has actually pawed a hole through the thick cement floor of the bear pen. He performed this little feat while exercising one afternoon to improve his wind. Old grizzly is in the best of condition, and ready to meet any comer (heavy weight preferred) in a rough and tumble fight. This ought to be an opportunity for some pugilist who is desirous of spreading his fame until it even outshines the halo which glows around the big John L.'s name. Parkkeeper Myers yesterday had all the bears penned up in the "sleeping rooms," while he patched up the holes in the floor of the main pen. It will take several days to dry yet, and even then, if the grizzly absorbs any more rejuvenating properties from the gentle spring winds, Mr. Myers will have to use splints and sticking plaster to make the breaks more secure.

A number of workmen are busy preparing the flower beds. Already two beds of hyacinths, in full bloom, ornament one corner of that little plat, and soon a large collection of beautiful foliage plants will be added. The grass is green, trees are pushing out their foliage and a feeling of spring time pervades the atmosphere. Improvements are under way at the refreshment stand and the park keeper's lodge is nearing completion. Quite a number of the imported German singing birds are seen from time to time and their sweet carols add a new charm to the park.

There is now a very strong probability that the park will be supplied with water during the coming summer. Should these expectations be realized, the advantages arising therefrom will be appreciated by the thousands who will visit this picturesque retreat during the summer months.

THE BOOM GOES RIGHT AHEAD.

A Number of Building Permits Issued During the Past Few Days.

Building permits have been issued by the commissioner of streets, W. S. Chapman, within the past day or two as follows:

To E. Kapen for the construction of a two-story frame house on Second and Grant streets, to cost $3000.

To East Portland bank for the construction of a three-story frame house on Third and D streets, to cost $12,000.

To Ferrera for the construction of a two-story frame house on Tenth and N streets, to cost $2363.

To J. Brown for the construction of a two-story frame house on J, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets, to cost $700.

To W. M. Ladd for the construction of five one-story cottages on Tenth and I streets, to cost $5000.

To S. Seed for the construction of a two-story frame house on Fourth and Grant streets, to cost $3500.

To G. Ainsley for the construction of a two-story warehouse on Fifteenth, between P and Q streets, to cost $2200.

To J. T. Concannon for the construction of a one-story frame house on Twentieth, between K and L streets, to cost $500.

To Andrew Creftney for repairing of house on Eleventh and I streets, to cost $2000.

To Benjamin Smith for repairing of house on First, between Taylor and Yamhill streets, to cost $2500.

To Mary Easter for repairing of house on Ninth, between Madison and Jefferson streets, to cost $500.

To R. H. Schwab for repairing of house on Yamhill, between Pacific and Thirteenth streets, to cost $200.

To Mrs. C. Levi for repairing of house on Fourth, between A and B streets, to cost $300.

To George Ainsley for repairing of house on Harrison and East Park streets, to cost $1400.

THERE'S A FORTUNE IN IT.

$12,000, part cash, will buy the choicest tract on Mount Tabor. Five minutes from motor. Slopes to the west. Abundance of pure, sparkling water, which at certain seasons flows from the ground, and is at no time but a few feet from the surface. It is conceded that at Mount Tabor will be the future magnificent suburban homes of Portland. Many beautiful residences have recently been built, costing from $10,000 to $25,000. In what other suburb of Portland can you find such homes? There is but "One Mount Tabor," and that the choicest spot in Oregon for a quiet suburban home. Pure water is as necessary as pure air, and this tract commands its share of the latter, and as far as known has a "corner" on the water, at least it has the only supply which has as yet been discovered. The supply is practically inexhaustible, and with a moderate power could be carried to any part of the mountain. Water privileges often sell for large sums of money, and it is but a few years when this one will be worth more than the land. Investigate at once. Address R. V. C., P. O. box 62.

POLITICS FIRST, THEN LAW.

Embezzler Roberts's Trial Deferred Until After the Primaries.

Faulkner May Give Exhibitions at the Pavilion—A Restaurant and Store Closed—A Young Thief Held for Trial.

The trial of W. C. Roberts for embezzlement has been postponed on account of the necessities of the political campaign. All the lawyers are interested in the outcome of the primaries and are more or less mixed up in the fight. Business at the courthouse is correspondingly at a low ebb in almost all departments.

TROUBLE IN THE TREGASKIS FAMILY.

Alice D. Tregaskis has begun an action for divorce against Harry Tregaskis, to whom she was married June 17, 1869, in Dane county, Wisconsin. The grounds upon which this complaint is based are cruel treatment and desertion. The defendant frequently, while in a state of drunkenness, maltreated her and on two occasions drew a loaded pistol on her. Mrs. Tregaskis asks for a divorce and the restoration of her maiden name, Kern.

SLOPER AGAINST SLOPER.

Eliza Sloper has instituted divorce proceedings against Harry C. Sloper, to whom she was married at Salem, March 19, 1885. The main charges are frequent brutal assaults and threatening to kill. The defendant is is also accused of having a violent temper, being addicted to drink, and charging his wife with unchastity. The plaintiff desires to resume her maiden name, Ohlinger.

THE MECHANICS' PAVILION.

The order hitherto made by Judge Stearns in the matter of the Mechanics' Pavilion, ordering it closed, was modified yesterday by him, so as to allow Faulkner to go on giving sparring exhibitions there. He will issue tickets and report to the receiver in the case, M. M. Dee. The exhibition desired to be given is the Riordan-Fracar contest. It transpires that the closing of the pavilion was only ordered by the court upon the mutual agreement of Morgan and Faulkner. Morgan says he will not file any objections to Receiver Dee's report. It is not yet known whether Faulkner will or not. It is understood that Dee will pay bills presented out of the gate receipts.

READY FOR THE PRIMARIES.

Judge Stearns yesterday admitted to citizenship Pietro Parigi and Giovanni Parigi, of Italy, T. P. Hansell, of Great Britain, and Joseph Tehekolsky, of Russia.

CLOSED UP.

The Vienna chop house at Yamhill and Second, run by John Belisis, was closed up by the sheriff yesterday morning at 8:30. The attachment was taken out by the Oregon Bakery Company in the sum of $391.

D. Reghitto's cigar store in East Portland was locked up by Sheriff Kelly yesterday afternoon on an attachment issued by Fleckenstein & Mayer for $391 69.

The Municipal Courts.

A young man named O. J. Jefferson had an examination in the police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of robbing his friend, E. Abbott of $17. Abbott alleged that the money was taken out of his pocket while he was asleep in his room and he knew that Jefferson was the guilty party, because the latter was to awake him at 11 o'clock and never showed up until arrested by the police. Jefferson made a rather lame defense and the court held him to answer before the grand jury under bonds in the sum of $500.

Ed Glinton was sent up for fifteen days for failing to explain a mutton episode in which he was one of the dramatis personæ. He knew that a sheep was stolen from in front of Stone's restaurant several nights ago, and he even remembered that he was near it—awfully near it—after it left the hook, but he had no recollection of what was done with it or who ate the chops.

The case of Dan Hogan, charged with stealing a diamond ring, was continued another day, and Pat Doyle and P. H. Boghams were fined $10 each for being drunk. There is also a charge of attempting to rob against Doyle, on which he will have a hearing to-day.

C. McKinnon and Ratto Michele, two ordinary drunks, were fined $5 each.

BOTH CASES DISMISSED.

Patrick Douglas was brought before Justice Biles yesterday afternoon to show cause why he should threaten to kill John H. Walsh. Walsh had caused his arrest because he threatened to exterminate him, but when they appeared in court they made up and the court dismissed the charge. Walsh was no longer afraid of Douglas.

A. Collins, a saloon-keeper in business on Second and E streets, was arraigned in the same court on a charge of assault and battery on Captain Owen Cox. As there was no testimony to this effect Justice Biles also dismissed this case.

Spring Medicine

Is a necessity with nearly everybody. The run down, tired condition at this season is due to impurities in the blood which have accumulated during the winter, and which must be expelled if you wish to feel well. Hood's Sarsaparilla thoroughly purifies and vitalizes the blood, creates a good appetite, cures biliousness and headache, gives healthy action to the kidneys and liver, and imparts to the whole body a feeling of health and strength. Try it this spring.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla purified my blood, gave me strength, and overcame the headache and dizziness, so that I am able to work again. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to others whose blood is thin or impure, and who feel worn out or run down." LUTHER NASON, Lowell, Mass.

N. B. Be sure to get

The chief reason for the marvelous success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has made it the medicine first in the confidence of our countrymen, and given to Hood's Sarsaparilla a popularity and sale greater than that of any other blood purifier.

From the Oldest Druggist in Oregon.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla is a standard remedy in this 'Wild West,' and sells well from the source of the Willamette to the mouth of the Columbia. My boys say, 'Papa, why don't you buy more of Hood's Sarsaparilla at a time, we are always short.' It sells on its own merits." F. BEAL, Portland, Oregon, the oldest druggist in Oregon.

PROPOSALS FOR CITY HALL BONDS,

OFFICE OF THE AUDITOR AND CLERK OF THE CITY OF PORTLAND.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned committee on ways and means of the common council of the city of Portland, Oregon, at the office of the auditor and clerk of said city, until Thursday, May 1, 1890, at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of said day, for the purchase of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars ($175,000) of the bonds of said city, known as "City Hall bonds," in denominations of five hundred dollars ($500) each, bearing date January 1, 1890, payable thirty (30) years from date, with interest coupons bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per centum per annum, payable on the 1st days of January and July of each year. Principal and interest payable in United States gold coin at the office of the treasurer of said city.

These bonds are issued by authority of an act of the legislative assembly of the state of Oregon, passed at its session of 1889, authorizing the city of Portland to incur an indebtedness of $175,000 for constructing and furnishing a city hall. Bonds will be delivered with coupons attached for interest from January 1, 1890, and interest will be paid to the successful bidder from such date. Proposals must be accompanied by a good and sufficient undertaking, to be approved by some member of the said committee on ways and means in a sum not less than ten per centum of the amount of such bonds bid, conditioned that in case a sale of the bonds bid upon or any portion thereof be ordered by the council, the bidder or bidders shall, within fifteen days from the date of such order, pay over to the city treasurer of such city, the amount so bid for such bonds, so ordered to be sold; provided that in lieu of such undertaking such proposal may be accompanied by a certified check in favor of said city of Portland on some responsible bank in the same amount as required in such undertaking, together with a written agreement signed by the person or persons making such proposal, to the effect that in case said bonds, or any of them, be ordered to be sold by the council such person or persons will, within fifteen days from the date of such order, pay to the city treasurer of said city the amount bid for such bonds so ordered sold, or forfeit and pay to the said city, as fixed and liquidated damages, the full amount of such certified check.

Proposals will be endorsed on the outside of the sealed envelope containing the same "Proposals for purchase of city hall bonds" and directed to the undersigned committee, in care of W. F. Matthews, auditor and clerk, Portland, Oregon.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved by the common council of said city.

Dated at Portland, Oregon, March 29, 1890.

THE FIGHT TO WIN.

Olympia Confident That It Will Capture the Capital.

AND SUBSTANTIAL GROWTH

Just Completed—Railroad Lines to Built Into the City—New Banks to Be Started.

Olympia, April 1.—[Special Correspondence.]—Olympia has donned her armor and [illegible] capital fight to win. Last November [illegible] left her and Ellensburgh and Yakima in the arena to fight it out [illegible] legislature which recently adjourned [illegible] limiting the capital choice of [illegible] next November to one of the [illegible].

Olympia is confident of winning in a gallop. The returns of the election [illegible] that the city had within 4193 votes [illegible] majority of all the votes cast. There [illegible] for it 25,490 votes, for North Yakima [illegible] votes and for Ellensburgh 12,300 [illegible] scattering, 2139; total, 55,173. For a [illegible] thought the full returns would [illegible] that this beautiful little city had captured the coveted prize, but such was not [illegible] good fortune. This disappointment, [illegible] did not have a deleterious effect. Immediately the people planted their [illegible] the band wagon and re-entered [illegible] with renewed vigor. "We do [illegible] to lose the capital now after [illegible] close to getting away with it at [illegible] effort," they said.

The election returns inspired the people with confidence, stimulated business and [illegible] property values an upward tendency. [illegible] the state house, which could have [illegible] for $200 five months ago, are now [illegible] $2000, and the owners are not in a [illegible] to sell them at that figure. All over [illegible] values have risen fully 25 per cent.

A GARDEN SPOT.

Olympia has the prettiest location of any [illegible] the sound. It is situated at the bend [illegible] inlet, on ground which [illegible] by easy gradations, as [illegible] moves southward from the [illegible]. On either side of the bay there [illegible] ground. The view from the state [illegible] is enchanting. Away to the north, [illegible] the rippling waters of the sound, the [illegible] Olympics stretch their snow-capped [illegible] along the coast. These mountains [illegible] said to be rich in gold and silver, [illegible] will be organized in the summer [illegible] explore them. An interesting story runs [illegible] the coast side of the range a tribe of [illegible] of gigantic stature live. [illegible] tellers say that these Indians [illegible] law requiring all males of [illegible] to attain the standard of measure [illegible] at the age of maturity and if they [illegible] are put to death. It is a typical [illegible] story but one cannot fail to be interested, [illegible] so little is actually known of the [illegible] the mythical redmen, who are said [illegible] it. To the southeast proud [illegible] Rainier's three peaks pierce the [illegible]. The city is regularly laid out and, [illegible] which has begun to grow only [illegible] recently, the streets are in good condition. They are wide enough for all purposes [illegible] will be improved according to requirements.

[illegible] capitals are proverbial for the refinement of their society, and are generally supposed to be quiet, unassuming places. Olympia is a little more than a capital. It [illegible] of the oldest towns in the state, and [illegible] many years was a prominent distributing [illegible] on Puget sound. It is still a trade [illegible]. It has several large stores which [illegible] be a credit to any of the large cities [illegible] Northwest. The volume of business [illegible] large.

[illegible] whirligig of business the social side [illegible] not overlooked. The social lines [illegible] closely drawn as in Portland, Tacoma [illegible] and the receptions given here rival [illegible] either of the three cities named. The inauguration ball, given in honor of the new [illegible] the incoming state officers last [illegible], and the reception tendered state [illegible] and members of the legislature a [illegible] ago, were notable events. They [illegible] all the beauty and grace of the [illegible].

GROWING STEADILY AND SURELY.

Olympia is enjoying a steady, substantial growth. Many new residences are being [illegible] all parts of the city and on the high [illegible] on both sides of the bay. A notable [illegible] is the Hotel Olympia which [illegible] to be opened to the public. It is an [illegible] building and cost about $75,000. [illegible] elegantly furnished and will be [illegible] plan. It is situated on [illegible], just where the ground begins [illegible] and overlooks the bay and the [illegible]. As the hotel was built by home [illegible] the people take great pride in it. [illegible] First National bank of Olympia has [illegible] completed a very neat bank building on [illegible] between Fourth and Fifth. It [illegible] of brick, with stone facings, and [illegible] $10,000. State School Superintendent Bryan and Surveyor-General Cavanaugh will occupy the upper portion of the building. Other new building are projected [illegible] will probably be started in a few weeks, [illegible] the needs of the capital [illegible] postoffice building. Postmaster Miller [illegible] greatly cramped for room in the little [illegible] shanty on Fourth street, which he [illegible]. The business of the Olympia [illegible] is increasing rapidly, and more [illegible] is needed to facilitate work. As the [illegible] of the state have made big demands for federal buildings, Olympia will [illegible] have to fall in line and await its [illegible].

RAILWAY LINES TO BE BUILT.

[illegible] railway companies will not slight Olympia. It was stated authentically [illegible] that the Northern Pacific would [illegible] orders for the extension of its [illegible] Lake View to the city. The news [illegible] good effect upon values on the east [illegible]. A few days ago the Portland & Port [illegible] Railway Company filed articles of [illegible] to build a line from a point on [illegible] Chehalis river to Olympia. Union Pacific [illegible] are identified with the enterprise. [illegible] Olympia & Chehalis Valley Railroad, [illegible] to Tenino, will be transformed [illegible] summer into a standard gauge road [illegible] probably extended to connect with the [illegible] running from Kamilche to Gray's Harbor. It is said that the Main street horse [illegible] will be turned into an electric motor [illegible] summer and extended southward [illegible] and northward along the [illegible] on the east side. The line was [illegible] last December and further work on [illegible] hindered by inclement weather and [illegible] material.

General William T. Sherman is among the [illegible] who realized what the future had [illegible] for Olympia. Away back in the [illegible] before he acquired name and fame he [illegible] twenty-four lots on the tide [illegible] $100. The recent decision of the [illegible] of the interior in the case of the [illegible] scrip filers in which the state's [illegible] assertion of ownership of the [illegible] was sustained, knocks General [illegible] out of $100. His title was good for [illegible] when compared to the state's. [illegible] General Sherman built improvements [illegible] he would have the prior preference right of purchase under the tide [illegible] recently passed. Had the decision [illegible] the state the general would [illegible] several thousand dollars on [illegible] investment in the early days.

[illegible] has one bank and another is be[illegible] by citizens and will soon be ready for business. A private bank will also be started by Eastern capitalists.

A SITE FOR THE NEW STATE HOUSE.

The people of the city are so sure of getting the capital that they are discussing the merits of the available sites. The place where the little wooden state house stands is very sightly. The state owns a large tract here. If the capitol is built where the old building stands it is probable that the state will purchase the land lying northward to the water so as to give an unobstructed view of the mountains and the bay. In time when buildings are put on this property the view will be shut off. Many favor the east or west side as a site. It is the general impression of the people of Olympia that the capitol to be erected will cost between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. The addition of such a magnificent building to Olympia would indeed be an ornament. Either, Olympia, North Yakima or Ellensburgh will get it and if we do not know which this year the election returns of 1892 will tell the tale.

Governor Ferry lives in West Olympia, a charming suburb of the city. He occupies the Percival house which commands an excellent view of the bay, the city and the mountains.

The mayor of Olympia is John F. Gowey, who was register of the United States land office before it was moved to Seattle. He is now president of the First National bank. He is a wiry little man, full of enterprise and vigor and is watchful of the city's welfare and interests. His home, which is not far from the state house, is one of the coziest in the capital. Mrs. Gowey is a leader in society. Mayor Gowey is chairman of the republican state central committee, and would have been a candidate for United States senator last winter if Mr. Squire's election had not been assured. Mayor Gowey will be in the senatorial field next January.

COLONEL OWINGS'S PROPHECY.

Colonel N. H. Owings predicts that Olympia will run away with the capital. When any one asks him what will be the outcome of the fight, he says:

> Olympia will win and have at least 5000 votes to spare. I have a high regard for the enterprise and ambition of North Yakima and Ellensburgh, but I do not think they are in the fight this year. Olympia is the place for the lawmakers, and I will tell you why. The Eastern Washington men want to be near salt water when they make laws, while the Western Washington men, as a rule, do not care to wander away from their salt water illaheas. They want to be near home. As the Eastern Washingtonians trade principally with Portland and the Sound cities, it is a comparatively easy matter for them, when in Olympia, to take a run to those towns and settle up with the merchants from whom they buy.

Colonel Owings has lived in Washington many years and knows every foot of the state from the Pacific ocean to the Idaho line. He was secretary of the territory for a number of years. His knowledge of the people and of the affairs of the commonwealth led him to oppose the taxation of credits when the Hughes revenue bill was in the senate a few weeks since. Colonel Owings has also been named for United States senator, to succeed Senator Squire. The expected difficulty to select a winner owing to the fight that will be made on Squire and the possibility of a half dozen candidates from Pierce county, makes Senator Owings's friends feel confident.

WESTERN WASHINGTON'S VOTE.

The principal thing which fills the Olympia people with hope of success in the capital struggle is the fact that Western Washington contains four-sevenths of the population of the state and the assumption that Olympia is the choice of the people of Western Washington. Last year the fifteen counties east of the mountains had a population of 40,258; and the nineteen western counties a population of 142,286. The excess of 45,028 in favor of the western counties represents about 9000 votes. The contest has narrowed down to a question of whether the capital will be located east or west of the mountains. Olympia representing the western forces as against the eastern forces headed by North Yakima and Ellensburgh. If Western Washington stands by Olympia this city will win the capital.

Olympia's population is nearly 4000. It is predicted that it will have 5000 before the end of the year.

NEWS FROM CENTRALIA.

Soon to Have Street Railroads, Telephones and Electric Lights.

Centralia, March 31.—[Special Correspondence.]—With the advent of summer much activity prevails here in building. New houses and stores are going up on all sides. All the hotels are crowded with parties looking up the country and seeking a location. The city has been definitely fixed upon as the location of the headquarters of the Hunt railroad to Gray's harbor. G. W. Hunt himself is at present in Philadelphia, but the work on the railroad is to be begun immediately on his return from the East.

The road projected and surveyed to the coal fields will be begun at the same time, and Centralia will consequently feel the greatest activity it has yet known. The farm lands round the city are being rapidly taken up and cleared and a large number of fruit trees have been planted.

Companies have been organized for the building of street railroads and the putting up of telephone and electric light systems.

A water company is also organized, and all these companies will begin work before sixty days.

A street car system is the most pressing of wants, for the mills are at both ends of the town, with the depot in the center, and great inconvenience arises from the lack of rapid transit.

The town is now being organized under the recent act passed by the legislature, and a strong republican ticket is being put in the field. Colonel L. H. Northey is being urged to accept the nomination for mayor, and some of the most active and energetic young men are being chosen for the council.

Notes From Jackson County.

Ashland, April 1.—[Special Correspondence.]—Mr. Horace Root, an old and respected pioneer of this county is lying dangerously ill at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. B. F. Reeser.

S. A. Carlton, the ex-county commissioner who met with the misfortune some time since of losing his right hand by the premature explosure of giant powder, was in the city during the week.

H. F. Chitwood has been appointed to institute the new lodge of Knights of Pythias at Medford on Wednesday evening, April 2. A large crowd of Knights will be in attendance from this place.

G. M. Grainger, lately of Tacoma, has purchased the J. D. Fountain property on Granite street and will soon erect a fine residence thereon, having had the old house moved back. He intends otherwise to beautify the premises.

H. J. Clark has combleted the brick work on O. Ganiard's three-story brick opera house, and the carpenters are busy at work. This is an elegant building and an ornament to the town. It is expected that it will be finished by the 1st of May.

The delayed freight trains brought several carloads of water pipe, and it is expected that work will be commenced shortly on our $50,000 water system, or as soon as the weather will permit. This new undertaking will benefit the town very materially, and it is to be hoped that it will be pushed to an early completion. Ashland, with her electric lights and fine system of water-works, is destined to be recognized by the homeseeker and capitalist.

Our public schools are in a most prosperous condition. Professor Getz, assisted by an able corps of teachers, is bringing he schools up to a standard not usually enjoyed by places larger than Ashland.

S. F. Morine intends erecting a two-story brick this spring, on his lot near the Bank of Ashland. The lower part will be used as blacksmith shop, and the second story will be rented for offices, etc.

Circuit court meets in Jacksonville on the 8th inst.

FRIENDS OF CHINESE.

Census Bill Badly Amended by the Senate Committee.

NATIVES OF AMERICA PRIVILEGED

Yellow Inhabitants of New York Demand the Right to Vote and Hit the Opium-Pipe Without Molestation.

Washington, April 1.—At a meeting of the senate committee on the census the house bill providing for furnishing certificates to Chinese residents on June 1, 1890, by enumerators of the census, with a view to prohibiting further immigration of Chinese to the United States, was amended. As reported to the senate, the bill, in addition to the provisions heretofore given, provides that Chinese children born in the United States subsequent to June 1, 1890, shall not be held to be Chinese within the meaning of the act.

Another amendment makes the provisions of the act apply only to Chinese who refuse to give the information required by census enumerators, and who shall fail or refuse to obtain the certificate of identification provided for by another amendment. Chinese merchants, tourists and students are exempted from the operations of the act, provided that they have the certificates required by the act of July 5, 1881.

An additional section enables a Chinese resident who fails to obtain the required certificate of identification to prove by competent testimony his right to one, which is his sole evidence of being lawfully in the United States. It is made a misdemeanor for a census enumerator to wilfully neglect or refuse to give the required certificate.

In its present shape the bill is wholly unacceptable to the Pacific coast.

A CHANCE FOR TAMMANY.

Chinese Want to Take a Hand in New York Politics.

New York, April 1.—A big poster on a billboard in front of No. 16 Mott street contains the following in Chinese characters:

> We, the undersigned committee, respectfully inform you that the principal cause of our continued prosecution by races who differ from us in civilization and language is from the fact that we have no voting power, that power having been unjustly denied us by reason of partisan legislation, through political rascalities. This unjust legislation against us has been discovered by us recently to be unconstitutional, and it is our sincere belief also that such unjust dealings with the Chinese do not represent the true sentiments of blue blooded Americans. We now desire our fellow-countrymen to unite with us and present our many grievances in a proper manner before the American people. This important movement, is a movement that needs not only good words but good money to back it. Let all those who wish to enter this matter with heart and money, report to 9 Doyer street.

Wong Gong the head of the committee who sign the document, said to a reporter:

> I have been living here as an American citizen sixteen years, and have lived like an alderman, too. When I went to get my full naturalization papers the other day, the officials of court laughed at me, and told me that had I been born over again right here in New York, if my parents were Chinese I could not become a citizen. I got mad and have been working hard ever since to get vengeance. If all the Chinese whose rights are denied them will join me, we can obtain what we want.

SEND $1 FOR INSTRUCTIONS.

A Tacoma Firm Ropes in Hundreds of Eastern People.

Tacoma, April 1.—The following advertisement appeared in the Toledo, Ohio, Blade, February 6:

> EIGHT HUNDRED MEN WANTED AT $85 PER month in advance. If you wish to engage with us, we will send you $85 cash and guarantee expenses. Send $1 for complete instructions. Address J. C. Wall & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

This is probably only one of many of the same kind of advertisements which have been circulating through the East. Inquiries here to-day showed that Wall & Co. have been receiving a large amount of mail matter, it being deposited in lockbox No. 98, which they rented some time ago. A few days ago the firm decamped, however, and the senior partner, who is supposed to be Wall, left instructions to have his mail forwarded to Spokane Falls, which is now being done. His partner gave the name of Vernon, but left no instructions regarding his mail. Postmaster Hogue received several clippings containing the firm's advertisement, with requests for information concerning their reliability. He answered a number to the effect that the firm was probably conducting a swindling game. Wall & Co. got their mail in the evening, never in the day time.

It is believed that Wall & Co. are now conducting operations in Spokane Falls. For several weeks the firm received a box full of mail every day. Nearly every letter is supposed to have contained a dollar in answer to the advertisement, indicating that the firm was getting in filthy lucre at a rapid rate.

Funeral of Archbishop Heiss.

Milwaukee, April 1.—Funeral services over the remains of Archbishop Heiss were held at St. John's cathedral to-day with an impressiveness of ceremony rarely witnessed in this country. They were participated in by Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishops Elder, Feehan and Ireland, a dozen bishops and 150 priests. Mass was intoned by the cardinal. Sermons were preached by Bishop Hennessy, of Dubuque, in English, and Bishop Katzer, of Green Bay, in German. This afternoon the priests and dignitaries assembled again and took part in the funeral pageant, which was also participated in by all the Catholic societies in the city. The parade disbanded on Mitchell street, the remains, with the clergy, continuing on to St. Francis church. The remains will lie in state at St. Francis until to-morrow afternoon, when they will be laid to rest forever.

Punished for Defrauding Swindlers.

Pesth, April 1.—Some time ago a conspiracy to defraud the lottery company at Temesvar, Hungary, was entered into by several persons, including two officers of the company. The conspirators succeeded in drawing a prize of 1,000,000 florins, but were detected and arrested. The trial has just taken place, and resulted in the conviction of Farkas, holder of the ticket which drew the prize, and Szobovits and Puespersky, officers of the company. All were sentenced to eight years' penal servitude. Frau Felkesy, whose daughter, disguised as a boy, drew a winning number, was sentenced to two years, and Collector Hergott to three years' imprisonment.

Dividend Day in San Francisco.

San Francisco, April 1.—A large amount of money has been paid out to-day as dividends on shares of incorporated companies and interest on bonds. Perhaps the largest amount has gone out of the United States treasury in payment of the quarterly interest on 4 per cent. bonds. This interest amounts to over $6,000,000. There is a large amount of interest on other bonds now payable. In this market there was disbursed to-day the semi-annual interest of bonds of the Northern railway of California, amounting to $2 50 on every $100 of outstanding bonds, of which the total is $450,000: semi-annual interest on $33,332,500 of the Southern Pacific of California, or $3 on every $100, $2 50 on every $100 of $7,258,000 of the same company, and $3 on every $100 of $3,145,000 of Southern Pacific branch railways of California. There were also disbursed to-day quarterly dividends of $1 per share, or $10,000 on the stock of the Capital-Gas Company; $1 per share, or $25,000, on the stock of the Oceanic Steamship Company; 30 cents per share, or $30,000, on the stock of the Hawaiian Commercial Company, and 20 cents per share, or $5000, on the stock of the Safety Nitro Company.

News From Olympia.

Olympia, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—The following notaries public were appointed to-day: J. M. Moore, D. J. Crowley, Walla Walla; J. A. Parker, J. H. Baird, R. J. Davis, George D. Homor, S. C. Milligan, G. W. H. Davis, B. W. Corner, Louis Foss, Charles E. Peterson, Tacoma; Henry McBridge, R. O. Wells, L. L. Andrews, La Conner; Charles H. Motesano, M. Z. Goodell, James R. Cowden, Aberdeen; W. B. Lottmann, James R. Copp, Sprague; F. C. Backus, Spokane Falls; Charles H. Ayer, Olympia.

The officials of the supreme court will be given offices in the capitol building, and the sessions of that court hereafter will be held in the senate chamber.

Judge Mason Irwin adjourned the superior court yesterday and left this morning for Chehalis.

Chief Justice T. J. Anders has purchased a lot and will erect an elegant residence in the capital during the summer.

Speaker J. W. Feighan and Judge Thompson, of Walla Walla, are about the only members of the legislature remaining in the city.

Defacing of Oregon City Bridge Stopped.

Oregon City, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Some time since A. G. White and C. U. Barlow obtained from the county court a license to erect signs on the suspension bridge. To counterbalance this the city council recently passed an ordinance making it unlawful to erect or maintain any sign on the bridge within the city limits. A large sign was being erected between the towers, and last night Mayor Stratton ordered the city marshal to tear it down. This afternoon the sign was removed. White offered some resistance and was arrested by the marshal. The case was postponed till next Tuesday for hearing. There is general rejoicing among all citizens to see the sign down.

The City of Paris Little Injured.

London, April 1.—The agents of the Inman line telegraph from Queenstown as follows:

> The flooded compartments of the City of Paris are all pumped dry. Close examination shows that the bottom of the vessel is uninjured and all bulkheads are sound except those in the engine room, which were somewhat damaged from the pounding of the broken machinery. The port engines are in working condition, and the steamer will leave Queenstown for Liverpool to-night under her own steam. In our judgment the vessel was throughout perfectly safe, and everything shows that she would have continued to float indefinitely, as she was without further submersion or risk after the original disaster occurred.

Queenstown, April 1.—The City of Paris has sailed for Liverpool.

Was Insane When He Left Seattle.

Minneapolis, April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—Homer Brown, whose disappearance from Seattle has excited so much interest, is with his brother, H. D. Brown, at Albert Lea, Minn., where he arrived last week of his own accord. He is under no restraint, and says he was glad to get away from Seattle and John Fourchild, a lawyer who had interested himself in the case. Homer Brown has been insane for years, and was at one time confined in a lunatic asylum in New York.

Great Southern Railroad Consolidation.

New York, April 1.—The official announcement is made that the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railroad had contracted for the purchase of the Erlanger system, comprising about 1200 miles of road, at a cost of $5,500,000. The main object of the East Tennessee company in the purchase is to make their line a leading north and south line, starting from Cincinnati and reaching Jacksonville, Fla., Mobile and the Gulf, Shreveport, New Orleans and Memphis.

Strikes in the Building Trades.

Chicago, April 1.—Plumbers to the number of 1000 struck to-day for an advance in wages from $3 15 per day as a minimum to $3 75. Nearly every shop in the city is affected.

New York, April 1.—Bricklayers and employers have compromised on the eight-hour demand by the bricklayers working nine hours a day, but getting 5 cents an hour more, making the wages $1 05.

Going to Finish Stanford University.

Mayfield, Cala., April 1.—[Special Telegram.]—At last the good news has come that work will be resumed on Stanford university. The workmen have been idle for months and hotels and merchants have been greatly embarrassed. Several car-loads of material arrived to-day. It is said there are nearly enough workmen here for the present, as they do not expect to use a very large force for a month or so.

Rich Oroville Man Dies in a Cabin.

Oroville, Cal., April 1.—Samuel Haston, an old citizen of this town, was found dead in bed in his cabin last night. He was unmarried, aged 64 and was for many years superintendent of the waterworks here. Heart disease was the cause of death. He has no relatives on the coast, but a sister in New York. Vouchers have been found representing a wealth of $104,000.

Jay Gould's Conquest of Mexico.

City of Mexico (via Galveston), April 1.—It is reported that a deal will be made with Jay Gould for the Chamlia railroad. The report is doubted, as a railroad concession is now in the hands of a European syndicate. Another rumor has it that Jay Gould will establish a steamship line from the United States to Mexico and Central and South American points.

General Middleton a Confessed Thief.

Ottawa, April 1.—Before the parliamentary committee to day Sir Frederick Middleton admitted that he had ordered furs confiscated and that a share be put up in bales and forwarded to Bedson, Mr. Reid, Indian commission and himself. The committee will probably ask the house to vote $4500 compensation.

English Cattle Growers Against American.

London, April 1.—At a meeting of the associated chambers of agriculture a resolution was adopted declaring the relaxation of the regulations prohibiting the importation of American stock cattle to be extremely dangerous.

Bank-Wrecker Classen.

New York, April 1.—The grand jury this morning returned an indictment against P. J. Classen for the embezzlement of funds of the Sixth National bank and making false entries.

R. G. Ingersoll to New York Press Club.

"I like all men who can create something. In fact, I like men who are not tied down to the dull earth by ordinary facts. Stupidity can tell a thing exactly as it is, but it requires brain to tell it as it ought to have been. That is why I like the press."

UMPQUA RIVER ROAD.

It Will Tap the Resources of the Coos Bay Country.

A VERY IMPORTANT ENTERPRISE

The Large Lumber and Coal Trade Heretofore Controlled by San Francisco Will Be Diverted to Portland.

W. G. Steel, one of the projectors of the Umpqua River railway, speaking of the object of the enterprise, yesterday stated to an Oregonian reporter:

The object of the road is to divert the large trade of the Coos bay country to Portland, where it rightly belongs. Heretofore California has been reaping all the benefits of that trade, and yet Coos bay is in Oregon. The trade belongs to Portland, and by means of the road which is to be built we propose to see that she gets it. It is surprising to see the large quantities of coal shipped to San Francisco. When I was at the bay last eight vessels were loading coal at Empire City, while four more had just arrived, making twelve in all at that place alone. Several more boats were seen between the docks and Marshfield and at the latter place another large schooner was taking on a cargo of coal. The largest sawmill in the state is located at Empire City. It has a daily capacity of 150,000 feet. Besides this mill there are several more smaller ones in the vicinity and all are running at their fullest capacity. This lumber trade is also controlled by San Francisco.

Portland has, as yet, made no effort to obtain a foothold there. The people of Coos Bay county are friendly towards Portland, but as the city has done nothing to secure their trade, they naturally deal with San Francisco. One hardly ever hears Portland mentioned there. When they speak of going to the city they mean San Francisco. Portland papers are a rarity, for a great many take the Chronicle and Examiner. The business of that locality is growing wonderfully, and it is high time Portland was getting at least a share of it. No large appropriation has ever been made for improving the Umpqua river, yet it makes one of the best harbors on the coast. There is fifteen feet of water on the bar at low tide, and by a small appropriation the depth could be greatly increased, while if a few jetties were built further up the river there would be good navigation some distance and the natural advantages of the port, as compared with other shipping points, would become apparent. The trade of this section, can be largely controlled by railway communication with Portland, while a few steamers no doubt, would render material assistance.

The Umpqua river road will give direct rail access to this country. The road starts at Drain on the line of the O. & C. and follows the river. The terminus is located three miles south of Gardiner, on the opposite side of the river at a point known as Reed. The road has one and a half miles of harbor rights with 1,000 feet of water front in which the depot and other terminal facilities will be built. The water there is twenty feet deep at low tide, fifteen feet from shore, and a ship can effect a landing by throwing out a gang plank.

The surveys are nearly completed, and the rights are deeded from Drain to Reed. The work will be pushed as soon as we let the contract. Work on the division between Reed and Marshfield, known as the Umpqua and Coos Bay road, will be commenced by the middle of April. There is not a heavy grade on the line. The heaviest is fifty-two feet to the mile, and there will be one tunnel, 1000 feet long. The road will be a standard gauge, the rails steel, and everything will be first-class throughout. The cost of constructing and equipping the road will be about $1 500,000.

Mr. Steel says that the country is comparatively new and undeveloped, but with a line of railway penetrating its interior, it will soon feel the magic touch of a new life. The country will become a part of the great state of Oregon, and Portland, as the commercial metropolis, will manipulate the trade. The country is possessed of lumber and coal resources that are unequaled anywhere in the state. The people of that section are jubilant over the prospects, and are doing everything in their power to aid the undertaking. Drain will naturally become a rival of Roseburg, and real estate has already taken quite an upward jump in consequence.

SOUTHERN OREGON IN A NUTSHELL.

A Pamphlet Descriptive of Its Wonderful Resources Soon to Be Issued.

State Printer Baker has now in the press and will soon issue a neat pamphlet entitled "The Resources of Southern Oregon." The last legislature created the Southern Oregon state board of agriculture and appropriated $1500 for a district fair for the counties of Lake, Klamath, Jackson, Josephine, Douglas, Coos and Curry. It was made the duty of the board to collect and collate information relative to the resources of the district mentioned. The pamphlet was compiled by Colonel Robert A. Miller, of Jacksonville, secretary of the board. The issue will be 21,000 copies, which will be distributed all over the East to call attention to the wonderful resources of Southern Oregon.

The pamphlet contains the latest authenticated map of Oregon, a general description of the entire state, the history, development and description of Southern Oregon, together with the names of the district board and the law creating it. The counties in the district are also treated separately.

Among the special papers contributed are the following: "Grape Culture," by Secretary Miller; "Fruit Culture," by F. L. Whitman; "Mines and Mining," by Herbert Lang; "Forest and Forest Trees of Southern Oregon," by E. W. Hammond; "Economic Botany," by Scott Morris; "Geology of Southern Oregon," by Thomas Condon; "A Description of Crater Lake and the Josephine County Caves," by W. G. Steel; "Land Laws of Oregon," by W. H. Parker; "Land Statistics," by Douglas W. Taylor; "Climatic Data," by B. S. Pague. In addition there is a directory of Southern Oregon, interesting tables and statistics and a list of the newspapers of Oregon.

NEW YORK'S WEATHER CHANGING.

Interesting Interview With Mr. James S. Fleming—Chicago's Prospects for the Fair.

Mr. J. S. Fleming, of New York, manager of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, is at the Esmond. It is Mr. Fleming's first visit to Portland, and he is both surprised and pleased at the metropolitan appearance of the city's business and residence districts.

Speaking about the weather in New York, Mr. Fleming said that it has rained there nearly all winter. The reports of the weather bureau showed for December only six hours of sunshine, and January was not much better. The first snow fell on the 19th of March, and was nine inches on the ground when he left New York, two weeks ago to-day. It has been a remarkably open winter in New York. The Hudson river boats have not ceased running the whole winter, and the Troy and Albany boats commenced March 15, an earlier date for them than has been known within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

Machinery for the manufacture of ice has been contracted for, to be completed within ninety days from December 1. From Poughkeepsie to Albany there are usually put up every season from 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 tons of ice in the Hudson. This immense supply is in default this year, and the ice machinery under construction is intended for a capacity of 1,500,000 tons for the spring trade. The supply of natural ice is now limited to the scant production of the upper part of Maine and Lower Canada. Even there it is only twelve inches thick, and the loss when shipped from Canada to New York in sailing vessels is very great, probably 30 per cent.

It seems to be the universal opinion of the wiseacres there, Mr. Fleming says, that the winter season in that section has undergone an entire change. The cause is said by many scientific men to be, that the warm Gulf stream is coming closer to the coast than formerly.

The prospects for the World's fair at Chicago was broached. Speaking of this matter Mr. Fleming said:

> "It is the general opinion among New York business men," said Mr. Fleming, "that Chicago has undertaken more than she can handle successfully. That is, that she can't raise the money. New York raised $10,000,000 in state bonds, and $5,000,000 in individual subscriptions. She also offered to erect government buildings to cost $1,500,000. We think experience has shown that World's fairs should be located at the metropolis of the country in which they are held. Where this has not been done, a failure has always resulted, as at the Liverpool exposition, which succeeded two years later when held at London under the same auspices.
>
> "Chicago has to put the fair on state grounds. She will fill up in the lake a space 7000 feet long and 200 feet wide, with the tracks below, on the level of the street. To do this will require fully $2,000,000. Their idea was to invest the $5,000,000 subscription as far as it will go, and mortgage the property for the balance. But the land thus created by filling in will be state property and not susceptible to mortgage. They acknowledged to me when I came through there, that unless they could get an extension of time until 1893, they would not be able to get ready in time. New York had 162 acres of ground for the fair, all in readiness to begin up on the buildings in forty-eight hours after the bill became a law."

COLONEL MILLER IN THE FIELD.

He Says He Would Not Decline the Democratic Nomination for Congress.

Though the democratic state convention will meet in about three weeks, the crop of congressional aspirants is not large. The only ones prominently mentioned to date are Col. Robert A. Miller, of Jackson county, Hon. R. M. Veatch, of Lane county, and Hon. J. P. Wager, of Umatilla county. All were members of the last legislature. Veatch and Wager were in the senate, and Col. Miller in the house. The candidacy of the Jackson man has attained more prominence than that of the others, because of his ardent indorsement in the house of the course of Governor Pennoyer, who, it is generally admitted, will be renominated. Col. Miller fought the governor's battle in the house, and Mr. Veatch in the senate. Col. Miller is in the city, and in answer to an inquiry of an Oregonian reporter as to his candidacy, he said:

> "My candidacy grew out of an article published in the Ashland Record three months ago, which has been taken up and commented upon by the press throughout the state. I suppose my course in the last legislature upholding Governor Pennoyer's administration, has been the means of bringing this matter about. If the nomination is tendered me I shall not refuse it."

SCARCITY OF BRICK

Keeps Back Building Operations at Anacortes—Contracts Let.

Anacortes, March 30.—[Special Correspondence.]—Outside of Seattle, Anacortes is one of the liveliest shipping ports on the Sound. Upwards of twelve steamers are now landing here daily, making it pretty lively for the wharfinger and his assistants.

Messrs. Morrison and Roberts, connected with the management of the Oregon Improvement Company returned on the steamer City of Kingston to-day from up the Sound.

Several contracts have been let for brick buildings and the contractors are making rapid progress with the excavations. The great trouble is that brick in sufficient quantities is not obtainable.

Those who reside in the state of Washington are proud of the state, with her natural advantages, second to none in the Union. With her 70,000 square miles of territory, her 1500 miles of shore line on Puget Sound alone; with her mines, her lakes, her rivers, her ports, her vast and fertile valleys, her climate, her railways, her thriving and prosperous cities, her fisheries, her forests, practically inexhaustible, she contains within her boundaries resources ample for the up-building of a grand and mighty commonwealth. The commerce of Puget Sound is increasing daily, yet it is only still in its infancy. When the wealth now untouched is dug from the mountains of Washington and her plains and valleys are yielding rich stores of fruit and grain, those rills of commerce will swell to mighty rivers which will rival in volume the streams which flow from the older commercial cities of the world.

Although other cities and towns are growing and thriving all over the state, the citizens of Anacortes look with pride on their city, which from its position and vast resources tributary to it, is destined ere long to rank amongst the first on the Sound.

The nerve and energy displayed by the citizens of Anacortes, is worthy of imitation, for seldom has so much enterprise been shown and in so short a period, as that displayed by the citizens of this wonderful city.

THE SALMON SEASON.

Although There Are Fish in the River Few Are Caught.

The close season on the Columbia river ended at midnight last night. Never before was it more strictly observed than it was this season.

There are salmon in the river, says the Astorian, but it is not at all likely that much will be done during the month. The gill net men do not care to risk their gear in the snags that are yet floating down; the seine and trap men have no thought of beginning operations for several weeks yet, and but three or four canners are ready to begin operations, even if fish are freely offered.

The price for the season is yet a matter of considerable doubt. It is agreed on all sides that the best solution of the problem is to restrict the number of boats, though it is by no means certain that even that would be entirely satisfactory.

The canners need little figuring to show, conclusively, that they can not pack and pay $1 25 for fish, while the net fishermen, if on the river in their usual numbers, can not make big wages at that price. As usual, the matter must work itself out.

A private telegram received here yesterday states that the English salmon brokers held a meeting in Liverpool last Saturday and agreed to buy Pacific coast salmon till one year from July 1, 1890.

Whether this is an actual agreement or just a flyer at this season of the year can not be determined. Existing facts go far to justify belief in its truth.

The Great Brain Rejuvenator.

Rochester (N. Y.) Union.

The increasing need of absolute and entire rest at frequent intervals for the hard brainworkers in all professions receives more and more general acknowledgment among us, and the Forest and Stream well says: "There was a time when, if a lawyer wanted to go fishing, he took good care to keep his angling proclivities from coming to the notice of his clients. A better day is coming, when under a more worthy popular appreciation of the brain-clearing effects of a wildwoods outing, clients will flock to attorneys who are known as anglers, and when a lawyer sets out for a play-day in the woods he will boldly post on his office outer wall the notice 'Gone fishing. Back in a month.'"

EAST SUBURB NOTES.

He Fell Out of a Car and Was Painfully Injured.

THE ENTERTAINMENT POSTPONED

Road to Be Extended—Another Brick Building—Big Deal in Dirt—She Was Intoxicated—Other Items.

Monday Mr. Marshall, a gentleman living in McMillen's addition, met with a very painful accident. He was on the electric car, and the accident happened while he was getting off. The car started too quickly, or he was too slow about getting off. At any rate, he was thrown on his face on some gravel, and he must have struck with some force. His face was lacerated in a shocking manner. In fact his face was covered with gashes and bruises, while his wrists were also scarified. He was not knocked senseless, but managed to pick himself up and reach his home, which is a short distance from the railway. His face will carry the marks of his mishap for some time.

INTOXICATED WOMAN.

Last night an unknown woman got on the street car at the intersection of Fifth and U streets, who was in a state of intoxication. The fumes of bad whiskey filled the car as soon as she got aboard, much to the digust of the others in the car, among whom were several ladies. She kept up a continuous incoherent prattle. When she paid her fare it was noticed she had considerable money with her. She went on over to Portland. Her name was not ascertained. It was stated she was seen drinking in a saloon in Stephens addition a short time before she got on the car. A saloonkeeper who sells liquor to an intoxicated woman should have his license revoked.

BIG REAL ESTATE SALE.

The enterprising real estate firm of Raymond & Wagner have just finished a large and important land sale. They effected the sale of 160 acres of land at Kelly's Butte. The purchase was made by a syndicate of Vancouver men, and the price paid was $32,000. This is one of the largest, if not the largest real estate sales made so far this year. The Waverly, Kenilworth & Woodstock electric is to be extended in the neighborhood of this tract. Raymond & Wagner have also about consummated other important sales in the same locality.

POSTPONED ONE DAY.

At the meeting of the Baby Home managers on Monday night the date for the public entertainment and meeting was set for Monday evening next, at the Presbyterian church. Owing to counter attractions for that occasion, the president of the association has decided to announce a postponement of one evening. Therefore, the meeting will take place on Tuesday evening, the 8th inst., at the church formerly designated, First Presbyterian, at the corner of Ninth and J streets.

STOLE AN AX.

Yesterday E. C. Magee was arraigned before Recorder Mayo on charge of having stolen an ax from the store formerly kept by John Foran. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25, in default of which he was sent to the county jail for thirty days. His case was a peculiar one. He stole the ax from the store and then sold it to the proprietor's son.

ANOTHER BRICK.

Excavations are being made for the foundation of a brick building on the northeast corner of Fifth and D streets. It will be two-story, and be quite an innovation in that part of the city. It is the second brick on which work has been commenced on Fifth street, and it begins to look as if Fifth is to be the business street in East Portland.

COMMENCED GRADING.

A large force of men and teams are at work on Ninth street, grading for the East Portland, Milwaukie & Sellwood railroad. The company very evidently mean business and will push the work through with all possible energy. The contractor intends to complete the work of construction within the time specified.

WILL BE EXTENDED.

The Waverly, Kenilworth & Woodstock Electric railway is to be extended much further in the country than was at first intended. Yesterday the line was surveyed to a point known as the "Cross Roads," half a mile beyond Woodstock.

MISCELLANEOUS EVENTS.

School was begun at Woodlawn Monday with Miss Llewellyn as teacher.

Fifth street bridge is now open to the public and the street cars have resumed trips to Holladay avenue.

A load of machinery was taken out to the shoe factory at Sunnyside yesterday. The factory is nearly completed.

The fine redwood lumber received by Duniway Lumber Company from Humboldt bay is just the thing for finishing.

There will be the regular monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. board this evening in the rooms, Fourth and L streets.

James Olsen will soon commence construction on two new cottages on his grounds in Stephens addition, on Fifth street.

Mr. Thos. Parrott, who is confined to his room in the Brayman block, is mending. However, it will be some time before he will be around.

Contractor Davison has secured the contract for building a three-story warehouse and side track for Boden & Spicer on First street, between L and K streets. Work will be commenced at once.

Lambert & Sargent, the popular real estate agents, have removed to their elegant new quarters, corner of Fourth and L. Buyers in search of bargains should call and investigate their list of choice properties.

There seems be a determination among East Side republicans to keep clear of the Simon-Lotan fight and send delegates to the county convention who will look out for the interests of the East Side exclusively.

Nelson Bros., who have the contract for the grading for the Oregon Real Estate Company in Holladay's addition, have put up headquarters for their extensive plant in that addition. Their outfit is an extensive one.

A Ghastly Find.

Saturday while Nelson Bros., contractors, were excavating in Holladay's addition, East Portland, they discovered a number of human bones and a revolver buried together some distance below the surface. The revolver was an old-fashioned five-shooter, muzzle loading. From the condition of the revolver and the bones, they had evidently been buried for years. There were no means of identification and how they came there will probably always remain a mystery.

Notes From Wallula.

Wallula, March 28.—[Special Correspondence.]—The Hunt surveyors are now at Wallula and began surveys Monday for the Hunt railroad from this place to Portland.

The weather at Wallula is delightful and prospects are good for abundant crops.

Business is opening well here and the prospects are that Wallula will have a busy season.

The long unused Union Pacific shop at Wallula is being rapidly taken down and carried to Tekoa.

Diluting the Cream of Society.

From Life.

She—I have always supposed the fashionables endeavored to keep their numbers down as low as possible, but now I see the "400" have been increased to 1,500.

He—The Wall street men made 'em. As soon as they got control they proceeded to run society according to business principles, and, of course, the first move was to "water the stock."

Northern Pacific Railroad.

Tourist sleeping cars daily between Portland and Chicago. Twenty-five miles the shortest route and seven hours and thirty-six minutes in advance of competing lines. Call at 121 First street, corner Washington.

DUELING DAYS IN AMERICA.

Reminiscences of General Wm Henry Harrison—Cases of Moral Courage.

An Officer Who Refused to Fight, But Showed His Bravery in the Field—Dies Forgiving His Slayer.

In a letter written to a friend many years ago, says the Washington Critic, General William Henry Harrison, the ninth president of the United States, gave, as follows, his opinion regarding dueling

"I believe that there were more duels in the Northwestern army between the years 1791 and 1795, inclusive, than ever took place in the same length of time, and among so small a body of men as composed the commissioned officers of the army, either in America or any other country, at least in modern times.

"I became an officer in the first mentioned year, at so early an age that it is not wonderful that I implicitly adopted the opinions of the older officers, most of whom were veterans of the revolution, upon this as well as upon other subjects connected with my conduct and duty in the profession I had chosen. I believed, therefore, in common with the larger portion of the officers, that no brave man would decline a challenge, nor refrain from giving one whenever he considered that his rights or feelings had been trespassed upon. I must confess, too, that I was not altogether free from the opinion that even honor might be acquired by a well fought duel

"Fortunately, however, before I was engaged in a duel, either as principal or second, which terminated fatally to anyone, I became convinced that all my opinions on the subject were founded on error, and none of them more so than that which depicted the situation of the successful duelist as either honorable or desirable. A short experience in the army convinced me also that fighting a duel was not an undoubted test of true courage. I know instances of duels, and desperate duels, being fought by men who would not have been selected by officers who knew them to lead a forlorn hope On the contrary, I possessed the most positive testimony to prove that some of the bravest men would not be engaged in an affair of the kind under any circumstances"

LIEUTENANT DRAKE'S BRAVERY

"I present you with a reminiscence of my early military life I introduce it not only to sustain my position, but from the respect I entertain for the memory of a gallant brother officer, long since called to receive in another world his reward for having preferred the praise of God to the praise of men. In the summer of the year 1793, Lieutenant Drake, of the infantry of the Second sub-legion, received a marked insult from another officer. As he manifested no disposition to call him to an account, some of those who wished him well, among whom I was one, spoke to him on the subject, expressing our fears that his reputation as an officer would greatly suffer if he permitted such an insult to pass unnoticed

"The answer that he gave me was that he cared not what opinion the officers might form of him, he was determined to pursue his own course. That course was so novel in the army that it lost him, as I supposed it would, the respect of nearly all the officers The ensuing summer, however, gave Mr. Drake an opportunity of vindicating, most triumphantly, his conduct and principles

"He had been stationed in a small fortress, which had been erected by General Wayne, and had been rendered remarkable by the defeat of General St Clair's army three days before. The garrison consisted of a single rifle company and thirty infantry, and of the latter Drake was the immediate commander. In the beginning of July, 1794, a detachment of the army, consisting of several hundred men, under the command of Major McMahon, were attacked early in the morning by upward of 3000 Indians. The troops made a gallant resistance, but being turned on both flanks, and in danger of being surrounded, they retreated to the open ground around the fort.

"From this, too, they were soon dislodged by the overpowering force of the enemy In the retreat, many wounded men were in danger of being left, which fact being observed from the fort, the commandant, Captain Gibson, directed his own lieutenant to take the infantry (Drake's particular command) and a portion of the riflemen and sally out to their relief.

DRAKE IN THE FIELD.

"To this Drake objected, and claimed the right to command his own men, and, as a senior to the other lieutenant, his right also to the whole command 'Oh, very well, sir,' said the captain, 'if such is your wish, take it' 'It is my wish, sir, to do my duty, and I will endeavor to do it now and at all times,' was the modest reply of Drake He accordingly sailed out skillfully interposed his detachment between the retreating troops and the enemy, opened upon them a hot fire, arrested their advance, and gave an opportunity to the wounded to effect their escape, and to the broken and retreating companies to re form and again to face the enemy

"Throughout the whole affair Drake's activity, skill and extraordinary self-possession were conspicuous The enemy, of course, observed it as well as his friends The numerous shots directed at him, however, like the arrows of Teucer aimed at the heart of Hector, were turned aside by Providential interference, until he had accomplished all that he had been sent to perform He then received a ball through his body and fell. A faithful corporal came to his assistance, and with his aid he reached the fort, and those two were the last of the retreating party that entered it

"Drake made it a point of honor that it should be so Mr Drake was rendered unfit for duty for a long time by his wound He had not, indeed, recovered from it in the summer of 1796, when he was my guest at Fort Washington (Cincinnati), where I was command, on his way, on furlough, to visit his native state, Connecticut. His friends, however enjoyed his presence but a short time, having, as I understood, taken the yellow fever in passing through Philadelphia he died in a few days after he reached home.

A DUEL TO DEATH.

"I have another instance to relate: An officer of the army had so often and so unnecessarily wounded the feelings of another of the same corps, the duties of which made their association indispensable, that he considered himself bound to demand satisfaction in the usual way They met, and the injured man fell, receiving a mortal wound, as it was anticipated he would from the superior skill of his antagonist in the use of the weapon which they used Being possessed of a high grade of talent and an amiable character, he had the sympathy of all the officers

"With others, I visited him after he had been removed to his quarters He expressed a desire to see the officer with whom he had fought, and I was present at the interview I wish I could describe, as it merits, this interesting scene The circumstances attending it were so deeply impressed upon my mind that they can never be effaced as long as memory holds its seat

"In the tent were some half dozen officers, the friends of the dying man (for he had, from his amiable qualities, many and warm ones), exhibiting unequivocal evidences of their sorrow Conspicuous above the rest, and near the head of the rude couch, was the manly form of the commandant of the corps to which both of the duelists belonged (the beau ideal of chivalrous valor, and the Chevalier Bayard of the army), endeavoring to stifle, as best he could, the feelings which agitated his bosom At a little distance, and in full view of the victim of his passions, sat insensible ——, but I must restrain the indignation which I still feel

"He was my brother officer, we shared together the perils of a difficult war, and in battle I know that he did his duty, and, whatever might have been his conduct to others, I never had personally any reason to complain of him. But there he sat, apparently, at least, unaffected by the mischief he had done in burying in an untimely grave a man who had never injured him, whose arm might be needed in the pending decisive battle with the hitherto triumphant enemies of his country, and whose intellect might at some future time have been usefully employed in its councils

"The severe bodily pain which the dying officer had for some time suffered had ceased, and that calm and ease succeeded, which is the unequivocal harbinger of approaching death, and which a gracious Providence has provided for the mortally wounded soldier, to enable him to offer a last prayer for his distant family, if he has one, or for the pardon of his own sins Turning his intelligent eye upon his late antagonist, he mildly said 'He had desired to see him for the purpose of assuring him of his sincere forgiveness—that he wished him happiness in this world—and that as the means of securing it, he recommended to him, with the sincerity of a dying man, to endeavor to restrain the violence of his passions, the indulgence of which had deprived one of life who had never injured him in thought or deed'"

ANOTHER FISH STORY.

A Pig Fish and a Sea Bass United by Hooks for a Year.

Nearly a year ago Fisherman W. T Van Dyke, while pursuing his occupation off shore, invitingly threw out a fishing line with two well baited hooks, says the Long Branch News Presently there was a jerk —the bait had "took" Van Dyke was hauling in hand over hand, when suddenly the tension ceased and the line was gracefully and adroitly whisked into the boat minus both hooks

Last fall Mr Van Dyke, in emptying one of his "pounds" of its over night catch, discovered among his captives a "pig" fish and a sea bass united by a bit of fishing cord, which he readily identified as his own A hook had penetrated the jaw of each fish, and, becoming imbedded there, the flesh had grown around their barbs and thus securely fastened them in position. Thus held together for nearly a twelvemonth they had coursed the briny in double team, held by a single twine, till death cut their thread of life in twain.

The skeletons of this curious pair of accidental Siamese twins, together with the hooks and line which constituted their sole domestic tie, now adorn the walls of the fish house of Mr Van Dyke, on Ocean avenue, opposite North Bath avenue.

Caterpillars in India.

In most countries caterpillars are regarded as a pest. In British India, however, different ideas upon the subject appear to prevail, for the entomological committee of the Bombay Natural History Society has actually gone to the length of establishing a great "caterpillar farm" at Poonah for the deliberate propagation of those destructive insects Caterpillar rearing, according to the official report which the society has recently issued to the public, is not so easy as might be inferred from the astounding faculty shown by these creatures in rearing themselves Being new to their work the caterpillar farmers made mistakes They unwisely kept all their insects in the same inclosure The result, in the words of the report, was "that they got completely mixed, so that in many instances nobody was able to say with certainty which 'imago' resulted from which 'pupa,' or to identify the 'pupa' with its 'larva'"

Fees of Doctors

New York Star

"What was the largest fee ever paid to a physician?" a friend asks Doctors, as a rule, are very reticent about their fees, but there is a story, probably authentic, that Dr Willard Parker was paid $100,000 for the successful removal of an excrescence from the face and neck of the son and heir of one of the wealthiest families in the vicinity of New York Commodore Vanderbilt bequeathed $20,000 to one of his doctors, but millionaires seldom remember the physician in their wills, they leave that to be settled by the executors Dr Parker's fee, in the case alluded to, is probably the largest ever paid, in this country at least

THE LAUGHING JACKASS.

Remarkable Bird That Ushers in Day in the Australian Brush.

A Traveler's Interesting Account of Its Habits and Peculiarities—An Ornithological Curiosity.

After a two days' stay in Sidney, fresh from the long sea voyage, I started, in company with an uncle, for a 200 mile night journey up country, says a correspondent of the Newcastle Chronicle I shall never forget that journey Our way lay over the Blue mountains, through heavily timbered country most of the time, and amongst wildly grand scenery. My fellow passengers were old hands at traveling, and, of course, were quickly snoring in their blankets I do it now Left alone with the night—homesick a bit, and lonely —I watched the weird white trunks of the gum tree flitting past like long rows of ghosts, as the light from the fire and lamps of the engine danced and twisted serpent-like amongst them in the darkness And here it may be remarked that to realize the utter loneliness and weirdness of the Australian bush, moonlit or firelit, it must be seen and felt Later on in the journey an almost full moon came out, and there from the tops of the mountains, softened and still, could be seen on either hand, bathed in the silvery light, wild crags and deep gorges, with the mystery of the dark bush, pall like, shrouding the far stretching country, fading away into mist For hours I watched the scene, wondering and spell bound Towards morning I drowsed and dreamed of my ghostly surroundings Half asleep and half awake, I was suddenly roused with a start by a long, loud, and to me an unearthly peal of laughter, that was dying away in a chuckle as I pulled myself together Where the sound came from I knew not, but I verily believed that one of the tree phantoms through which I had all night been traveling was mocking me Some of my companions were by this time awake, so I told them of my experience, and asked them if they had heard the laugh They treated my inquiry with an all round hearty side shaking, and then followed with a good humored chaffing on my 'new chumminess" I at last "tumbled" to the situation It was no ghostly laughter I had heard, I had quite forgotten the laughing jackass, and here he was welcoming the day, which was just breaking and at the same time giving me a jolly welcome to the Land of the Golden Fleece

Since that first handshake Jack and I have become much better acquainted, and I have had many opportunities of proving that he is of substantial flesh and blood, and no more spirit of laughter It is no scientific or exhaustive description I can give of my bird friend, but only a few fugitive notes jotted down whilst he and I rubbed shoulders, working or holidaying on a bush section back in the orange district of New South Wales "Dacelo gigas" has had enough of scientific describers, but not so many describers of his home life, so that a gossip in a homely line may not, perhaps, be altogether unacceptable to your readers

True to his nativity, Jack, like many other birds, plants, animals and things Australian in general, is, in the Old World point of view, a sinister (left handed) arrangement He is a true kingfisher, yet lives, breeds and laughs in trees, and seems to care not a cent for the water and its inhabitants. A fine, manly fellow he looks as he is seen sitting on a gum tree or fence, or winging his way through the bush or across the open in that undeviating wedge like manner so characteristic of our English kingfisher There is, however, this difference, that, whereas the kingfisher always skims low and travels with darting motion, Jack takes a good middle course and flies with a strong, leisurely action, reminding one of a cushat hieing home at its laziest from some pea field or corn patch on an autumn evening Solid and sturdy withal is he, a massive head being set on by a short neck to a wide, athletic pair of shoulders and well knit body, supported by legs more remarkable for strength than length, which terminate in flattened and somewhat hollow claws, nicely adapted for walking on the larger limbs of trees, where the most of Jack's time is spent Next to the voice, the most distinguished feature of the bird is his beak It is of tremendous dimensions—the thickness of a sizable whip handle at the base and tapering to a fine sharp point, whilst the powers of striking and nipping that appertain to it are something phenomenal A great dreamy brown eye gives proportionate finish to the head Jack's head is adorned with a movable crest, which, when laughing, when angry, or after having bolted his food, is raised, making its wearer look quite tall and fierce, at other times it lies flattened. As to dress Jack can by no means vie with his English cousin, who, darting past in the sunshine, might be taken for a winged prism, yet he wears a very trim and serviceable suit The head, and about one fourth of the back, the breast, and under parts, are white—none too white—prettily mottled, especially the breasts, with a light shade of brown Up the middle of the forehead to near the top, and from the base of the bill on each side to just beyond the ear, run broad bands of dark greyish brown These patches give a most pleasing effect, making Jack appear as if he wore a broad white hood with the skirts of it hanging over his shoulders, dark strings being attached at each side, and a dark band running over the top to relieve the monotony The wings and back are a deep grey brown, with a few white feathers scattered about on the wing shoulders The wings are short, reaching little beyond the base of the tail The tail itself is long, broad and stiff, mottled red and black like that of the windhover, and terminating with a band of white tips

Nothing in the shape of mice and such like small animals, snakes and lizards beetles and insects with the larvae of the latter, comes wrong to the bird as food in its wild state, and when domesticated Jack considers strips of raw meat providing the meat be quite fresh, a good substitute It is in the destruction of petty animals, reptiles and shell protected beetles that the necessity for the strength of the bodkin shaped, vise like bill and strong head and neck is seen With the bill a mouse, snake or lizard will be speared through, seized between the mandibles and thwacked on the ground or on a tree limb till not only is every vestige of life beaten out, but the captive battered into an easily swallowed, stomach accommodating pulp. Big as Jack's head is, he seems to be below the throstle in reasoning powers The English song thrush (God bless him!) reserves his thwacking powers for the shell snail only, whereas Jack treats all alike, thwacking a section of bullock's flesh in about the same degree he would a tough lived lizard or an armor coated beetle The battering process having, with the help of a running fire of chuckles, brought the morsel to a state considered satisfactory to his lordship, it is shallowed on the same lines that a duck employes to make away with a worm or an eel, the head of the jackass being thrown back and the food sent to its long home by a repetition of gulps Jack always says grace after taking a meal—a kind of gurgled titter

Sizable as he is, as big as a rook, and tame and sluggish as his habits, it might be thought that the laughing jackass would become an easy mark for the gun loving Australian, yet in many of even the settled districts he is quite a common bird The chief reason of this immunity from harm lies in the recognition of the good he renders to the community by waging war against the snakes It is said, though I have not definite proof of the assertion, that a fine of £3 attaches the killing of a jackass Certainly Jack is carnivorous, and, therefore, not good eating, and he also preserves himself to some extent by building his nest in not easily ransacked holes in gum trees Anyhow, he manages to laugh and grow numerous in the land

To look at him, you would never think Jack was the merry soul he is His looks are as solid as his build, and he has a slow, solemn way of taking life, excepting when he is on the laugh Most of his time is spent among the timbers that clothe sides and bottoms of the gullies and the creeks which everywhere intersect and encircle the rounded hills. Here, at almost any time of the day, from an hour or two after sunrise till when Sol begins to get his rays mixed up with the trees topping the far-distant swells as he backs down for the night, Jack may be found holding Quaker meetings—for he is gregarious—in some big gum tree, or doing his best to keep his stomach full Never does he hurry himself, and would as soon think of leaving his perch because a stranger happened to appear as he would—of groaning Very seldom is Jack stirred to mirth during the middle of the portion of the day, indeed, it would appear as if some untoward event were necessary to stir him up properly other than at the two extremes In the heat of the day it is no unusual thing to be startled by the noise of the limb of a gum tree going thundering down (the severe heat is the cause, I think), and then before the oppressive silence of the bush has been fairly restored, for a laugh to ring out as an echo Again, it sometimes happens that the firing of a gun is the signal for an outburst of wild cachinnations Jack is gifted with considerable curiosity, and I've had him lay around in some adjacent tree watching me fell timber, and getting quite an amount of chuckling fun out of the crash of the toppling trees Almost anything out of the common run is incentive enough to raise Jack's temper to the laughing point But morning and night are the seasons to hear him to perfection, he then laughs spontaneously, irresistibly and contagiously

A DEADLY RING

No Thief Would Touch the Precious Ornament on a Statue in Madrid.

Exchange.

A costly ring, unguarded by police or special watchman, hangs suspended by a silken cord around the neck of a statue of the Maid of Almodena, the patron saint of Madrid, in one of the beautiful parks in the Spanish capital It is set with diamonds and pearls, notwithstanding which there is no danger of its being stolen

The greatest thief in Madrid would not touch it any quicker than he would the plate on his own mother's coffin Its history is curious and interesting and equal to anything found in mediæval folk lore The ring was made for King Alfonso XII, who gave it to his cousin, the pretty Mercedes, on the day of their bethrothal She wore it during her short married life On her death the king presented it to his grandmother, Queen Christina She died soon, and the king passed the deadly little circle to his sister, infanta del Pilar, who died within the month.

Again is started on its deadly rounds, next finding a place on the finger of Christina, the youngest daughter of the Duke of Montpensier, but in less than three months she also was dead Alphonso next put the ring in his own casket and lived less than a year after so doing No wonder it safely hangs on a statute in an unguarded square.

Man

Exchange.

Professor Huxley asserts that the proper weight of man is 154 pounds, made up as follows Muscles and their appurtenances, 68 pounds, skeleton, 24 pounds, skin, 10½ pounds, fat, 28 pounds, brain, 3 pounds, abdominal viscera, 11 pounds, blood which would drain from the body, 7 pounds The heart of such a man should beat 75 times in a minute, and he should breathe 15 times in a minute In twenty four hours he should vitiate 1750 cubic feet of pure air to the extent of 1 per cent. —a man, therefore, of the weight mentioned should have 800 cubic feet of well ventilated space. He should throw off through the skin 18 ounces of water, 300 grains of solid matter, and 400 grains of carbonic acid every twenty four hours, and his total loss during that period should be 6 pounds of water and about 2 pounds of other matter

Clara Huntington's Husband Said to Have Lost 140,000 Francs in One Night.

Dunlap's Cable News Company

PARIS, March 20—The Prince and Princess Hatzfeldt, until recently Miss Clara Huntington, have left the Hotel Holland, where they lived since their marriage, and have taken apartments at the Hotel Mirabeau.

It is rumored that the prince has been gambling heavily and has sustained big losses at baccarat at the Washington Club, 4 Place de l'Opera. He is there nightly, and is said to have lost 140,000 francs one evening last week This club is nothing else than a gambling hell, and is said to be owned by a number of prominent men Frank Ford, well known in New York, is one of the largest shareholders

Prince Hatzfeldt is very attentive to his wife, and they are frequently seen together

STOVES & RANGES.

There is not a Cooking Apparatus made using the Solid Oven Door but that the loss in weight of meat is from twenty five to forty per cent. of the meat roasted. In other words, a rib of beef, weighing ten pounds if roasted medium to well-done will lose three pounds. The same roasted in the CHARTER OAK RANGE using the WIRE GAUZE OVEN DOOR, loses about one pound. To allow meat to shrink is to lose a large portion of its juices and flavor. The fibres do not separate, and it becomes tough, tasteless and unpalatable.

Produce receipts, past 24 hours, 8193 ctls wheat, [illegible] bbls flour, 910 ctls oats, 240 ctls bran, 450 ctls [illegible], 259 sx potatoes, 8425 lbs hides, 7 pkgs [illegible], 151 bxs eggs, 16 pkgs dried fruit, 1½ tons [illegible], 54 hd cattle, 150 hd sheep, 80 hd hogs.

THE MARKETS.

In the produce market the only important change is the drop in potatoes, owing to heavy receipts and sympathy with the San Francisco markets. Other commodities have been subject to [illegible] slight, if any fluctuations in the past six days.

WHEAT—Receipts the past week were 28,006 centals; 26,071 centals were valley and 1935 centals were Walla Walla. The market remains the same. Quotations: $1 20@1 21¼.

The fluctuations of the New York markets are as follows:

NEW YORK.

	Closed. 31st.	Opened. 1st.	Noon. 1st.	Closed. 1st.
April	86¾	86½	..	86⅝
May	89½	87	87	86⅞
June	86¾	86¼	86⅞	86⅛
July	85¼	85	85	84⅞
August	84	84	...	83⅞

FLOUR—Receipts the past week were 5775 barrels; 3174 barrels were valley and 2601 barrels were Walla Walla. The market rules about the same. Quotations: Standards, $3 75; outside brands, $3 50.

OATS—Receipts the past week were 7201 centals. The market is firm. Quotations: 40@42c.

MILLSTUFFS—Receipts the past week were 892 centals; 276 centals were bran and 616 centals were mixed. The market is steady. Quotations: Bran, $16@18; shorts, $18@20; ground barley, $22@25; chop feed, $19 50@20; middlings, $23@25 per ton.

HAY—The market is weak. Quotations: $16@18 per ton. Receipts the past week were 28 tons.

POTATOES—By reason of large receipts of inferior stock from the East a glut in all the coast markets has resulted and prices have not held up. The Portland market has sympathized with this condition, and prices have dropped somewhat since the last weekly quotations. The only variety holding its own is the Eastern Early Rose for seed purposes, which have arrived in good shape. Quotations: Burbanks, $1 75@2; Early Rose, $2 50 per cental. Receipts for the last week, 1729 sacks.

ONIONS—Stocks are light, but the market is easy. Quotations: 3½@4c.

EGGS—While the receipts have been large prices have held up and the market is steady. Prospects are good for a continuance of ruling prices, which range at 15@16c per dozen. Receipts for the last week, 725 cases.

BUTTER—California stock is the prevailing commodity and is in good demand. Fancy Oregon dairy and creamery stock is sold principally at contract. Store butter and mixed lots are a glut in the market at nominal prices. Quotations: Choice Oregon dairy, 25c per pound, 50c per roll; good to fair, 15@20c; common, 12½@15c; fancy creamery, 30c per pound, 60c per roll; choice California, 18@20c per pound. Receipts for the past week were 45 packages.

ASSORTED VEGETABLES—Supplies are large and disposed of readily. Quotations: Cabbage, 1½c per pound, celery, 90c per dozen bunches; cauliflower, $1 10@1 25 per dozen; asparagus, 10@12c; green peas, 11c; artichokes, 60c per dozen.

FRUITS—The only fruits in the market in any quantity are oranges and lemons. Quotations: Oranges, Riverside seedlings, $3@3 25 per box; Riverside navels, $4 50 per box; Malta bloods, $5 per box; lemons, California, $3 50@4 per box; fancy Sicily, $5 50@6 per box; bananas, $3 50@4 50 per bunch. Receipts the past week were 553 boxes.

POULTRY—The demand during the past week has exceeded the receipts and prices have therefore ruled high. Quotations: Chickens, $6@7; ducks, $8@9; geese, $10@11; turkeys 16c per pound; fancy lots a trifle more.

HOPS—The market shows no change. Quotations: 10c per pound. Receipts the past week were 2991 pounds.

HIDES—The market is inanimate. Quotations: Dry hides, selected prime, 8@9c; ⅔ less for culls; green, selected, over 55 pounds, 4c, under 55 pounds, 3c; sheep pelts, short wool, 30@50c; medium, 60@80c; long, 90c@$1 25; shearlings, 10@20c; tallow, good to choice, 3@3½c. Receipts for the past week were 87,290 pounds.

WOOL—The market is still weak and dull. Quotations: Eastern Oregon 10@16c; valley, 16@18c;

The Merchandise Market.

The jobbing trade has been active in the extreme for the past week and all dealers have been kept busy. Commodities in general have not fluctuated greatly, the exception being dried fruits which have advanced from ½c to 1½c per pound. Honolulu rice is firm at 5¾c and pickles in kegs are a shade higher. Following are quotations of a few staples:

SUGARS—The market remains steady. Quotations: Golden C, 5⅝c; extra C, 6c; dry granulated, 7c; cube crushed, 7⅜c; powdered, 7⅜c.

BEANS—The market is firm. Quotations: Small whites, $3 25; pink, $4; bayos, $4 25; butter, $3; limas, $5 50 per cental.

COFFEE—The market is unchanged. Quotations: Arbuckle's roasted, 26⅞c; Java, 24@25c; Costa Rica, 23½c; Rio, 23½c; Salvador, 22½c.

DRIED FRUITS—Apples are firm. Sundried apples, 6@7c; bleached, 10½@11c; Oregon prunes, Italian, 8½@9½c; silver prunes, 9c; petite, 7@8c; German, 6½c; pears, Plummer dried, 9@9½c; sundried and factory plums, 6@7c; peaches, unpeeled, 10½c; evaporated, 15@16c; raisins, $2 25@$2 50 per box; Smyrna figs, 14@16c; California figs, 10c per pound. Receipts the past week were 25 packages.

California & Virginia, $4 90; Savage, $2 15; Chollar, $5 12; Potosi, $5 50, Hale & Norcross, $4; Crown Point, $2 65; Yellow Jacket, $2 60; Belcher, $2 60; Sierra Nevada, $2 70, Utah, 85c; Bullion, $1 80; Segregated Belcher, $1 65; Justice, $1 70; Union, $2 70; North Belle Isle, $1 10; Peer, 20c; Peerless, 20c; Overman, $1 40; Alpha, $1 30; Imperial, 45c; Delmonte, $1 10; Commonwealth, $2 70.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1—Produce receipts, past 24 hours: Included 7500 ctls wheat, 23,500 qr sks flour, 2900 ctls barley, 4800 ctls oats, 3200 sks potatoes.

Freights and charters—Grain freights quiet; no new spot business reported. The German bark H. Hackfeld arrived in under charter for Liverpool at 35 shillings. Coal freights firm with a good demand. The bark Carrollton proceeds to Nanaimo for coal for this port.

Wheat—Samples on change this morning attracted but little attention and holders find difficulty in finding buyers at top quotations. Cables continue of dull tenor, California cargoes in light demand. No. 1 shipping, $1 25@1 27½ per cental. No. 2, $1 20@1 22½. Milling, $1 30@1 32½. Futures—Slightly higher, but very quiet. 200 tons buyer year sold this forenoon at $1 26½; other options neglected. Afternoon session—Buyer season, $1 29⅛. Buyer year, $1 26¾.

Barley—The barley market is very active with some excitement on the part of short sellers. Light receipts, reduced stocks and an oversold market are the principal causes for the strength displayed by this product both for consumptive and speculative demand. Choice feed descriptions, 85@86¼c. No. 1 feed, 82½@85c; No. 2, 80c per cental. Brewing, 85c@$1 05. Futures, active and higher. On morning call buyer year sold at 91½c; buyer season, 87½c. Afternoon session—Buyer year, 90¼c. Buyer season, 86½c.

Oats—Custom is fairly active. Local stocks are being reduced quite rapidly, and the strength displayed by barley is of material advantage to holders of oats. Choice feed, $1 32½@1 35, No. 1 feed, $1 25@1 30; No. 2 feed, $1 20@1 25, milling, $1 35@1 40.

Millstuffs—Firmly held; receipts show a falling off; demand active. Bran, $13@14 50 per ton; middlings, $16 50@20.

Hops—Dull—High asking prices check business. Quote 7@13½c nominal.

Potatoes—Offerings to-day were larger and there was more disposition to sell and close out consignments. Choice Burbanks, $2 50@2 65 per 100 pounds; Eastern product selling at 1¼@2½c per pound.

Wool—Quiet and easy at nominal quotations.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, April 1.—Cattle—Receipts, 5500; slow and lower; beeves, $4 90@5 20; steers, $3 30@4 80; stockers and feeders, $2 50@3 90; Texas corn-fed steers, $3 20@3 90.

Hogs—Receipts, 16,000; weak; mixed, $4 10@4 40; heavy, $4 15@4 45, light, $4 15@4 40.

Sheep—Receipts, 6000; strong; natives, $4@6; Texas, $3 95@4 15, corn-fed Texans, $5@5 75.

GRAYS HARBOR

[illegible]

The Future Terminus of the Hunt System of Railroads and the Future Point for Shipping the Coal and Wheat of Washington.

—D. C. JOHNSON & CO. HAVE—

Placed on the Market the First Syndicate Addition to Grays Harbor.

This addition comprises 40 acres joining the Grays Harbor Company's Holdings on the west. It is distant from Broadway and Summit avenue, the principal streets of Grays Harbor and from the Postoffice, less than one-quarter mile. It lies comparatively level and is considered by far the choicest property near the new city, and is sure to bring large profits to the investor Lots will be sold without reserve on the following terms: One-third cash, balance six and 12 months. All lots in this addition are cleared of timber and at a slight expense are ready for building. The recent contract with G. W. Hunt of Walla Walla, which is now recorded, is an assurance to the outside public that Grays Harbor will be the coal and wheat shipping point of Washington. Plats can be seen at our office at Grays Harbor. For further information address

Grays Harbor Company Now Offers for Sale Its Second Addition to the Original Townsite.

Lots 50x140 and 25x140. Terms, one-third cash, balance one and two years at 8 per cent interest.

Only a portion of the addition will be sold, the company reserving absolutely one-half of the lots.

This addition adjoins the original plat on the east and north and is all very desirable property.

RAIL CONNECTION

The Grays Harbor Company is now in position to positively assure the public of rail connection with the outside world in the near future, a contract having recently been entered into with Mr. G. W. Hunt, one of the most prominent railroad builders in the West to build from Grays Harbor to some point on the Northern Pacific.

Lots will be sold and plats can be seen only at the company's office in Grays Harbor.

HOW TO GET THERE—Take steamer Multnomah, leaving Tacoma at 7 A. M. daily, making close connections at Kamilche and Montesano, by rail and steamer, for Hoquiam and Grays Harbor, arriving at 5 P. M. From Portland take steamer Alliance, leaving weekly. No staging. Less than a day's journey.

MADISON STREET BRIDGE.

On the completion of the Madison Street Bridge, property will advance more rapidly on Hawthorne avenue than any other section of the city. Hawthorne avenue is the only street on the East Side connecting the city of Portland straight through to Mount Tabor without a break, and will be the greatest boulevard and driveway in Multnomah county. We have a few choice lots on this avenue, all cleared, good drainage, choice fruit trees, and every lot a lawn, at the low price of $450 each; 100 down, balance in one and two years, with privilege of paying all or a portion at any time, or by installments. This is the best opportunity offered this year to obtain a home in a desirable locality or for speculation; 5-cent fare from the property into the city of Portland.

H. D. McGUIRE & CO., 123 Fourth St., East Portland.

LOTS $200 EACH. [illegible] A portion of this beautiful tract has been subdivided into full sized lots, 50x100 feet. LOTS $200 EACH.

Parties not wishing to buy acre tracts can now get any number of lots they want at a price as cheap as acre property is selling for in less desirable localities.

This property is on the direct line between Portland, Oswego and Oregon City, the direction in which the most valuable and permanent improvements will be made in the next few years. The location is high, commanding a magnificent view, and pure water can be had anywhere at a depth of about thirty feet.

The proposed extension of the Second Street Electric Motor Line will go through the property and the P. & W. V. R. R. passes through it now.

At the price these lots are being offered they are likely to double in value within six months. The price for the next sixty days is $200 and upwards each, on easy terms, to suit all. Lithographic plats will be ready in a few days. Meantime investors had better call and make selections.

[illegible] OREGON

—HOME OF THE—

Fig Tree and Vine

GRANT'S PASS is located on the Oregon & California Railroad, 300 miles south of Portland and in the heart of the famous Rogue River Valley—the Santa Clara of Oregon.

GRANT'S PASS contained but a single dwelling prior to the extension of the Oregon & California Railroad in 1883. Present population exceeds 2500.

GRANT'S PASS erected 212 buildings, including a $30,000 brick opera house, during the last seven months of 1889.

GRANT'S PASS property quadrupled in value between May and December, 1889, and bids fair to do the same during the first six months of 1890.

GRANT'S PASS is the county seat of Josephine county, one of the extreme southern counties of Oregon, and is known throughout the state as the home of the fig and vine.

GRANT'S PASS has ten general merchandise stores, doing an aggregate cash business of over $3000 per day, and plenty room for more.

GRANT'S PASS is the sole distributing point for 1800 square miles of the most prolific territory on the Pacific Coast, embracing the whole of Josephine county.

GRANT'S PASS has shipped $2,320,000 worth of gold dust since 1883, being the output of a few partially developed placer mines in Josephine county.

GRANT'S PASS has one sash and door factory, with a paid up capital of $125,000, affording employment to over 200 men all the year round.

GRANT'S PASS has twenty saw mills in operation in the Sugar Pine Forests, within a radius of 28 miles, and ships more lumber and manufactured woodwork than any town in Oregon, except Portland.

GRANT'S PASS is situated on the north bank of the beautiful Rogue River, which, in addition to its charming scenic features, affords a 50,000-horsepower for manufacturing purposes.

GRANT'S PASS is surrounded by the forest wealth of Michigan, the precious metals of Montana, the marble quarries of Vermont, and the semi-tropic fruit fields of Southern California.

GRANT'S PASS, by reason of its wonderfully diversified resources, affords an inviting field for the speculator, the manufacturer, the miner, the dairyman, the fruit grower, the lumberman, the stock-raiser, and last, but not least, the inactive healthseeker.

GRANT'S PASS is a new pushing town, has drawn its support from the progressive sections, has no "winged insects on it," and offers no special inducements to the "mossback."

GRANT'S PASS has a daily stage line and mail service to Crescent City, California, and a telephone line to the same point, 87 miles distant, is now being built.

GRANT'S PASS has a national bank with a paid up capital of $50,000, and its deposits for the first two weeks of its existence, from January 1 to January 13, 1890, footed up over $50,000.

GRANT'S PASS is going to be the great midland city of Oregon and California.

GRANT'S PASS is a division point on the Southern Pacific system, has a round house, machine shops, and will sooner or later be made the chief car manufacturing center of the state, on account of the superiority of its timber.

GRANT'S PASS laid 17,000 feet of ten-foot sidewalk, and expended $196,000 for improvements in 1889.

GRANT'S PASS will be the inland terminus of the Grant's Pass and Coast Railroad, thus affording a short and inexpensive ocean outlet for its products.

GRANT'S PASS has made greater progress, and enlisted more capital than any town in Oregon of equal size during the past year.

GRANT'S PASS has a modern water and electric light system in course of construction, and work upon an improved sewerage system will be commenced early in the spring.

GRANT'S PASS has a $20,000 brick hotel under way, and another to cost $25,000 is to be erected before the close of the present year.

GRANT'S PASS is not a paper town based upon a bubble, but a solid commercial city, and there is nothing of an "untamed feline nature in its composition.

GRANT'S PASS has already earned more money for investors in proportion to the amount invested than any town in Oregon or Washington.

GRANT'S PASS will soon be reached by the great Union Pacific Railway system on its westward march from Boise City to San Francisco via the Donahue road, the two roads now being separated by a distance of less than 600 miles.

GRANT'S PASS will soon be the greatest pork-packing center on the North Pacific Coast. Arrangements are now being made by Portland parties for the establishment of a packery with a daily capacity of 300 hogs.

GRANT'S PASS shipped during the year 1889, 110 carloads of choice watermelons, 73 carloads of canteloupes, 82 carloads of sweet potatoes. 87 carloads of peaches, 380 carloads of apples, 11 carloads of nectarines, 19 carloads of grapes, 18,000 pounds of almond nuts, 32,000 pounds of prunes, 48 carloads of hops, 36 carloads of broom corn; 113 carloads of gold-bearing quartz, worth $65 per ton, and 1878 carloads of lumber and manufactured woodwork. Shipments extended north to Seattle and south to Los Angeles.

GOVERNMENT LAND. Josephine County, of which Grant's Pass is the County Seat, contains 145,000 acres of good unoccupied government land, besides 460,000 acres of railroad lands, now on the market, at prices ranging from $2 50 to $20 per acre.

BUSINESS PROPERTY on the principal streets all level cleared and sidewalked, and within 300 feet of a $30,000 brick opera house, can be had for a short time only at TEN DOLLARS PER FRONT FOOT.

RESIDENCE LOTS, 50x100 feet each, all level, cleared, and surrounded by modern dwellings, can be had at prices ranging from $49 to $125 each; terms, one-half cash, balance in one year at 10 per cent.

ACRE TRACTS overlooking the beautiful Rogue River, in city limits, clear and level, at prices ranging from $75 to $300 each, one-half cash.

LAW FOR THE DOCTORS.

Text of the Washington Medical Bill Recently Passed.

THE HOMEOPATHS SATISFIED

Unprofessional Conduct Defined in Specific Terms—Examination for Licenses—Sufficient Provision Made for Appeals to the Courts.

OLYMPIA Wash April 1.—[Special Telegram.—The new medical bill, drafted by Colonel T V Eddy of Seattle which will go into effect thirty days after its approval by Governor Ferry, seems to be satisfactory to all schools of medicine So far as known no serious objection has been made to it. The homeopaths are satisfied, as it places them on an equal footing with the allopaths, their old rivals. Following is a full text of the measure

Be it Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Washington

SECTION 1.—The governor of this state shall appoint a board of examiners to be known as the state medical examining board consisting of nine members who shall be learned and skilled in the practice and theory of medicine and surgery and who shall hold their office for a period of three years and until their successors are appointed and qualified provided that the members thereof first appointed under this act shall be divided into three classes each class to consist of three The first class shall hold office under said appointment for the period of one year the second class for two years and the third class for three years from the date of their appointment It is further provided that no member thereof shall be appointed to serve for more than two terms in succession

SEC. 2 The members of said examining board shall, before entering upon their duties as such members, take and subscribe an oath to support the constitution and laws of the state of Washington and of the United States, and to well and faithfully and without partiality perform the duties of such office according to the best of their knowledge and ability which oaths shall be filed and preserved of record in the office of the secretary of said board Said medical examining board shall elect a president secretary and treasurer and shall have a common seal The president and secretary shall have the power to administer oaths said medical examining board shall hold meetings for examination on the first Tuesday of January and July of each year said meetings shall be held alternately in western and eastern Washington at such places as the board may designate provided that the first meeting be held at Olympia within thirty days after the appointment and qualification of said board and provided that the board may call special meetings when in the opinion of a majority of said board such special meetings are necessary said board shall keep a record of all the proceedings thereof and also a record or register of all applicants for a license together with his or her age the time such applicants shall have spent in the study and practice of medicine and surgery if they shall have so practiced at all and the name and location of all institutions granting to such applicants degrees or certificates of lectures in medicine or surgery Said record or register shall also show whether such applicant was rejected or licensed under this act Said books and register shall be prima facie evidence of all matters therein recorded.

SEC. 3.—Hereafter every person desiring to commence the practice of medicine and surgery or either of them, in any of their or its branches in this state shall make a written application to said board for a license so to do, which application shall be supported and accompanied by an affidavit of such applicant, setting forth the actual time spent by the applicant in the study of medicine and surgery and when whether such study was in an institution of learning, and if so the name and location thereof and if not in such an institution where, and under whose tutorship such study was prosecuted the time said applicant shall have been engaged in the actual practice if at all, of medicine and surgery, or either of them and where the applicant was located during the time of such practice and the age of the applicant at the time of making such application, such application and affidavit to be filed and preserved for record in the office of the secretary of said board. Such applicant at the time and place designated by said board, or at the regular meeting of said board, shall submit to an examination in the following branches to wit Anatomy, physiology chemistry, histology, materia medica therapeutics preventive medicines practice of medicine, surgery obstetrics diseases of women and children, diseases of the nervous system, diseases of the eye and ear medical jurisprudence and such other branches as the board shall deem advisable. Such board shall cause such examination to be both scientific and practical, and of sufficient severity to test the candidate's fitness to practice medicine and surgery which examination shall be by written or printed or partly written or partly printed questions and answers, and the same shall be filed and preserved of record in the office of the secretary of said board. After examination, if the same be satisfactory, said board shall grant a license to such applicant to practice medicine and surgery in the state of Washington which said license can only be granted by the consent of not less than five members of the said board except as hereinafter provided, and which said license shall be signed by the president and secretary of said board and attested by the seal thereof. The fee for such examination shall be $10, and shall be paid by the applicant to the treasurer of said board toward defraying the expenses thereof, and such board may refuse or revoke a license for unprofessional or dishonorable conduct, subject, however, to the right of such applicant to appeal from the decision of said board refusing or revoking such license as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 4.—The words 'unprofessional or dishonorable conduct' as used in section three of this act, are hereby declared to mean—

First—The procuring or aiding or abetting in procuring a criminal abortion.

Second—The employing of what are popularly known as cappers or steerers

Third—The obtaining of any fee on the assurance that a manifestly incurable disease can be permanently cured

Fourth—The willfully betraying of a professional secret.

Fifth—All advertising of medical business in which untruthful and improbable statements are made.

Sixth—All advertising of any medicines or of any means whereby the monthly periods of women can be regulated, or the menses re-established if suppressed

Seventh—Conviction of any offense involving moral turpitude

Eighth—Habitual intemperance

SEC. 5. In any case of the refusal or revocation of a license of said board under the provisions of this act said board shall file a brief and concise statement of the grounds and reasons for such refusal or revocation in the office of the secretary of said board which said statement together with the decision of said board in writing shall remain of record in said office. Before a license can be revoked by said board for unprofessional or dishonorable conduct under the provisions of this act a complaint of some person under oath must be filed in the office of the secretary of said board, charging the acts of unprofessional or dishonorable conduct and facts complained of against the licentiate accused in ordinary and concise language, and thereupon said board shall cause to be served upon such accused licentiate a written notice and copy of such complaint which said notice shall contain a statement of the time and place of hearing of the matters and things set forth and charged in such complaint, and said notice shall be so served at least ten days prior to the time of such hearing Such accused licentiate may appear at such hearing and defend against the accusations of such complaint personally and by counsel and may have the sworn testimony of witnesses taken and present other evidence in his behalf at such hearing, and said board may receive the arguments of counsel at such hearing

SEC. 6.—In any case of the refusal or revocation of a license by said board under the provisions of this act the applicant whose application shall be so refused and the licentiate whose license shall be so revoked by said board shall have the right to appeal from the decision so refusing or revoking such license within thirty days after the filing of such decision in the office of the secretary of said board as hereinbefore in this act provided Such appeal shall lie to the superior court in and for the county in which was held the last general meeting of said board prior to the refusal of such license, in the case of such refusal and to the superior court in and for the county in which the hearing was had upon which such license was revoked in case of such revocation In any case, a person desiring to take such appeal shall serve or cause to be served upon the secretary of said board a written notice of such appeal which shall contain a statement of the grounds of such appeal and shall file in the office of such secretary an appeal bond with good and sufficient surety to be approved by said secretary to the state of Washington conditioned for the speedy prosecution of such appeal and the payment of such costs may be adjudged against him upon such appeal Said secretary shall within ten days after the service of said notice of appeal and the filing and approval of said appeal bond transmit to the clerk of the superior court to which such appeal is taken a certified copy under the seal of said board, of the decision of said board and the grounds thereof in the case of the refusal of a license, and in addition thereto, a certified copy under such seal of the complaint in the case of the revocation of a license together with the bond and notice of appeal The clerk of such court shall thereupon docket such appeal cause and the said cause shall stand for trial in a [illegible] and thereupon proceedings shall be had therein [illegible] Upon such appeal said [illegible] either party may appeal [illegible] of said superior court [illegible] in like manner [illegible] after the rendition and entry [illegible] judgment in said [illegible] If such [illegible] shall be upon appeal [illegible] the decision of said board and in case said [illegible] board does not appeal [illegible] within sixty days [illegible] then and in that case said board shall at the end of said sixty days and [illegible] upon the expiration thereof, issue to such successful party the usual license to practice medicine and surgery in this state and in addition thereto shall reinstate upon the records of said board the name of such successful applicant in case of the revocation of his license by such board. In case of such appeal to the supreme court by said board no such license shall be issued nor reinstatement be required until the final determination of said cause and as hereinafter provided: In case the final decision of the supreme court be against said examining board, then and in that case said court shall make such order in the premises as may be necessary and said board shall act accordingly provided that in no case shall an appeal be had or required of said board nor shall any costs be adjudged or taxed against the same

SEC 7.—The person receiving said license shall file the same or a copy thereof with the county clerk in and for the county where he or she resides and said county clerk shall file said certificate or copy thereof and enter a memorandum thereof giving the date of said license and name of the person to whom the same is issued and the date of such filing In a book to be provided and kept for that purpose and said county clerk shall each year furnish to the secretary of said board a list of all certificates on file in his office and upon notice to him of the change of location or death of a person so licensed or of revocation of the license granted to such person said county clerk shall enter at the appropriate place in the record so kept by him a memorandum of said fact so that the records kept by said county clerk shall correspond with the records of the board as kept by the secretary thereof In case a person so licensed shall move into another county of this state he or she shall procure from the county clerk a certified copy of said license and file the same with the county clerk in the county to which he or she shall remove Said county clerk shall file and enter the same with like effect as if the same was the original license.

SEC 8.—Any person practicing medicine or surgery within this state without first having obtained the license herein provided for or contrary to the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than ten nor more than ninety days or by both such fine and imprisonment All such fines shall be paid into the state treasury for the use and benefit of the common schools Any person shall be regarded as practicing within the meaning of this act who shall append the letters "M D" or "M B" to his or her name or for a fee prescribe direct or recommend for the use of any person any drug or medicine or agency for the treatment care or relief of any wound fracture or bodily injury infirmity or disease provided however the act shall not apply to dentists. Justices of the peace and the respective municipal courts shall have jurisdiction of violations of the provisions of this act It shall be the duty of the respective county or district attorneys to prosecute all violations of this act In cases of appeals to the superior courts as hereinbefore provided, it shall be the duty of the district attorney of the county wherein such appeal shall be tried, to represent said board upon said appeal And in all cases of appeal to the supreme court under the provisions of this act the attorney general shall represent said board upon such appeal

SEC 9.—Said board shall have authority to prescribe and establish all needful rules and regulations to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

SEC. 10.—Section 2289 of the general laws of Washington territory of 1881, and section 1 to amend section 2289 of the code of Washington territory are hereby repealed It is however provided that all persons licensed under said act, or having complied with the provisions thereof, shall be taken and considered as licensed under this act, and the secretary of the board herein provided for shall enter the names of such persons upon the register so kept by him as licensed physicians and surgeons, upon the written application of such persons

SEC 11.—Whereas great embarrassment and inconvenience in relation to the practice of medicine and surgery in this state will arise from delay of time when this act shall take effect it is therefore declared that an emergency exists and this act shall take effect and be in force in thirty days from and after the date of approval by the governor

Ballooning as a Sport

Forest and Stream

Ballooning should be encouraged as a recreation As there is little ballooning done in this country very few know anything of this charming experience, and nearly all have an exaggerated idea of its danger. In Europe, and especially in Paris free balloon ascents are quite often made, and as a natural result the Frenchmen make good balloons Ballooning is not more expensive than yachting and to my mind is much more interesting A good silk balloon with a capacity for two people—say one holding 4 000 cubic feet of gas—costs in France $400 or $500 Here it would cost rather more The gas is cheaper there also, but if one has a good balloon and does his own work the whole expense of ballooning here ought not to average over $100 for each ascent With a little previous study and the practical experience of a few trips one can manage his own balloon Under ordinary circumstances two persons make the best number for an ascent A balloon club having a fleet of well constructed balloons could have excursions and races on the same plan as that of yachting and canoeing It is an art or recreation that has been neglected At all events it has been left mostly to professionals who indulge in its most risky features and give it the name of being a very dangerous sport which it need not have. My experience has shown me that there is more fun to be had up in a balloon boys than can be discovered down in a coal mine underneath the ground

The Family Names of Women

New York Mail

There is a lawyer who does a great deal of real estate conveyancing one of the chief of whose grievances in life is the scant respect that women show toward their names The fact that a certain alteration takes place in the name at marriage destroys so he claims whatever regard a woman might be expected to pay to an exact rendering and the fact that any legal significance can in any case attach to the form seems to be quite beyond the grasp of the average feminine brain If a girl baby is christened Elizabeth she will sign herself when called on to put her name to a deed after she is grown Lizzie Lisa Elise Lisbet or Lisbeth according to which diminutive happens to be her favorite for the year and will omit her middle name, give it in full or by initial or a guess instead of her own her husband's name according to her sweet liking The task of the lawyer, who has to trace up half a dozen of these signatures to make sure that they all refer to the same person, is not calculated to make easy the task of his wife who has to sooth his ruffled temper with a good dinner That the married woman should in all cases retain her own family name preceding it by her given name and following it with her husband's family name is the lawyer's plea if he is to be saved from insanity Frances Folsom Cleveland Julia Dent Grant, Louise Chandler Moulton Julia Ward Howe Ella Wheeler Wilcox and others set in this respect a good example

The Penalty of Fame

The Sheffield Telegraph tells this story of Professor Jowett of Oxford. A boredom to which that famous town is subjected is the constant crowds of tourists which infest the place day and night, and every day and every night of the year For these individuals numerous guides have been appointed but one imaginative man hit upon the following plan by which he could at least always be sure of showing to the crowd one of the live lions of the place It so happened that Dr Jowett was very busily engaged on his famous translation of Plato at the time and unfortunately for him the guide we are speaking of learnt that the learned professor's study window looked into the broad street Coming with his menagerie under these windows the guide would begin 'This ladies and gentlemen is Balliol college, one of the very holdest in the hunniversity, and famous for the herudition of its scholars. The 'ead of Balliol college is called the master the present master of Balliol is the celebrated Professor Benjamin Jowett, regius professor of Greek. Those are Professor Benjamin Jowett's study windows and there —here the ruffian would stoop down take up a handful of gravel and throw it up against the panes bringing poor Jowett livid with fury, to the window ladies and gentlemen is Professor Benjamin Jowett himself!

A Southern Tribute to Lincoln

Louisville Times

Abraham Lincoln was the most conspicuous figure this hemisphere has ever known save Christopher Columbus and George Washington As every French soldier has hidden in his knapsack the marshal's baton so Lincoln typified the possibilities to which the poverty stricken child of the humblest may attain He was beyond cavil a great man large brained and large hearted Though he dominated at an epoch when sectional jealousy merged into sectional war no sentence can be attributed to him that was not full of charity and tolerance His death was a loss to the North but a disaster to the South. A broad and liberal man he would have been animated by magnanimity in dealing with questions of reconstruction He knew men even better than he knew principles and he alone of his party was able to have bound up speedily the wounds of four years of war Thus it is with feelings of poignant regret that the country learns of the death of his grandson yesterday who represented the hopes of a line that stands side by side with Washington at one section and which grows day by day in the estimation of the other section

Individual Effort.

Epoch

The following shows what a single individual can do for a charitable institution by dint of hard work A director of one of the largest hospitals of New York City secured during the past five years 567 new members which added $56 0 to the annual income He also induced 133 members who were paying $10 a year to become patrons at $20 a year thus increasing the yearly income $1,295 and he furthermore procured fifty new patrons at $50 per annum, equal to $[illegible] The grand total of increase of revenue was thus $11 795—truly a good showing for one man's energy the more so as the field was not a fresh one it having been gone over [illegible] for some time for a good many years before he began to put in his work

THE BLACK CASE.

Quite Without Parallel in the Annals of Depravity.

Review of the Case and Comments of a New paper of New York.

A gentleman says the New York [illegible] of March 21 who read the verdict 'Guilty' yesterday morning experienced with many [illegible] emphasis [illegible] to make [illegible] believe that there is a God in heaven

The public conscience is roused The people have come to the front with strong and irresistible surge Rogues are consequently making a hasty retreat and if opportunity offers may seek safety in the wilds of Canada Exile rather than our deserts is their motto

The Black case is a warning to scoundrels The immunity they have so long enjoyed is at an end They have run riot grabbing all and keeping what they could No fear of justice has restrained them the omnipotent pull of politics has been their dependence Defying law order and decency they have at last overreached themselves and are now on the full run for cover

There are some phases of this trial worthy of careful study

We have taught three knaves that fraudulent divorce and Sing Sing are nearer neighbors than they thought That is a lesson much needed in these diseased times The welfare of the community makes it imperative that such grave and radical changes in family relations shall be effected in the blaze of public scrutiny and the court which fails to guard the people's rights in this respect is thereby unfitted to perform its functions

No jury ever represented the popular verdict more accurately or emphasized the general horror of such a crime more boldly They possessed in a marked degree the two elements upon which the efficiency of the jury system depends—common sense and backbone

A briny flood fell from the eyes of Ex Judge Russell as he depicted the miseries of Black who however found refuge from his sorrows in the dalliance of a mistress His eulogy on the character of a client who banished his wife from his own dry chamber and sent her to the cold hospitality of a hall bedroom was as unavailing as it was declamatory

The histrionic poses of Ex Judge Fullerton as he pictured Black a martyr to his yearning for home life and his dramatic description of that generous creature whose only object in procuring a divorce was to reform the woman whose evil habits were contracted through his cruel and brutal neglect fell upon the jury as moonshine

They saw only the damning facts as cold as an iceberg as hard as adamant and as conspicuous as Gibraltar Like a sleuth hound they followed the clew of the offense until they unearthed the offenders And when they found him he was known under the alias of Mr Raymond" Not daring to act openly he took refuge in the artifice of a coward It was the good Dr Jekyll in the sheriff's office but after sundown when plotting to entrap his wife it was Mr Hyde

As for the strange monstrosity to which the mother gave birth and which with unexampled flattery she called her son addressing him in the pinch of her dire extremity with the words — Well, this is all right If I can't trust my own flesh and blood whom can I trust?" we are powerless to express the contempt of the public

He scorned her though she bore him he lied to her though she nursed him, he betrayed his own mother with a kiss Even brutes would repudiate such brutality He must be an embossed carbuncle' and mis-called a man who could thus treat the woman who gave him birth and who in ignorance of the future rejoiced that a man child had been given to her Now as full of grief as age wretched in both her greatest sorrow is that her womb was not sterile

Judge Barrett's charge was all that the dignity of the bench and the cause of justice could demand He held the even road of impartial statement and explained the points at issue with calm deliberation No pity for that poor forsaken wife no shade of indignation at the facts disclosed during the trial colored his utterance He held the balance firmly delivered the sharpened sword into the hands of the twelve good men and true with the injunction to sheathe it if they found no culprit but to behead him with their verdict if they found him guilty

It is a victory to boast of that even the sheriff's office is powerless to protect a criminal that neither politics nor money can stem the rising tide of popular indignation,

Let the people remain in their present mood for ninety days and New York will be purged of the licentious wickedness which has of late outdared itself We need but to brand the rogues of to-day and to morrow we shall have honesty in high places

JULIET AND THE CANDLE BOX

An Experience in the Early Career of Joseph Jefferson

Joseph Jefferson says in the Century A part of my early theatrical education was drawn from hard work in the paint and property room in a theater so that when I became a manager I delighted in the get up as it was technically called of plays so far as our slender means would permit To fashion and paint a rustic bridge, with a wide board behind it set upon two shaky trestles for Rob Roy to cross was a special privilege A profile boat for the Lady of the Lake was another delight This perfectly unsafe looking skiff was set on a truck mounted upon four little wooden wheels that no amount of black lead could induce to keep from squeaking The rope must be steadily pulled—the slightest jerk and over goes her ladyship into the gauze waters But let us return to the story Romeo and Juliet being announced I felt that the balcony scene should have some attention and I conceived a simple economic idea that would enable me at a day's notice to produce the effect in a manner hitherto unparalleled in the annals of the stage Searching about the wharves and the ship chandlers I chanced to light upon a job lot of empty candle boxes By taking a quantity the cardboards were thrown in, and nothing makes a finer or more imposing but unsubstantial balustrade than card board These boxes placed one by one on top of each other and painted a neat stone color formed a pleasing architectural pile Before the play began I had cautioned Juliet that when she leaned her cheek upon her hand she should let her elbow rest gracefully but lightly, on the frail structure that was to support it Romeo also had to be cautioned for as the house of Capulet was already about his ears it was necessary that at least his shins should escape any contact with the foundation The scene opened with a backing of something supposed to represent the distant city of Verona with my new balcony in the foreground Romeo and Juliet were warm and energetic in their love passages but acted with becoming care and gentle consideration for the balcony about which they fluttered All seemed to be going well till presently there came the sound of half suppressed laughter from the audience Crocker said I from the wing are you shaking the balcony? No he whispered, I haven't touched it What are you laughing at then? Can't imagine' said he The laughter increased and it was quite evident that something not announced in the bills had gradually attracted the attention of the audience till at last the whole house had discovered the mishap Juliet retreated in amazement and Romeo rushed off [illegible] and down came the curtain I rushed on the stage to find out what had occurred when to my horror I discovered that one of the boxes had been placed with the unpainted side out on which was emblazoned a semi-circular trade mark setting forth that the very corner stone of Juliet's balcony contained twenty pounds of short sixes

Sobriety Among Jews.

London Daily News.

Dr Richardson cites the Jews as a living example of the advantages of sobriety. The remarkable vitality of their race strikes him as something astounding Oppressed by cruel laws in the past, and living in abodes where [illegible] they yet [illegible] according to [illegible] the explanation according to [illegible] the principle of Hygeia [illegible] that [illegible] by Hiller a leading German [illegible] of the last century It is that [illegible] simply [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] Dr Hermann Adler has pointed out [illegible] though Jud[illegible] does not [illegible] wine in moderation there runs through out the Hebrew literature the strongest condemnation of intemperance It is however worth noting that during Passover Jews are forbidden to take fermented wine What is forbidden [illegible] fermented grain for which reason strict Jews at such a time are restrained from the use of such liquor as whisky

A Great Editor

Pittsburg Dispatch

One would hardly look for enterprise in a Hungarian newspaper but it is the editor of a Pesth contemporary who announces that notices of betrothals marriages and births will be inserted free if the parties interested will agree to buy the garments etc required in each case of tradesmen advertising in his columns This is a liberal offer and though to increase the circulation and advertising patronage of our esteemed Hungarian contemporary We cannot help thinking that the editor who is now molding public opinion and aiding the store keepers to reach his readers in Pesth, graduated from some American newspaper office If his training and talent are local he ought to transfer himself to this country at once where he will be highly appreciated The business office of the Pesthian paper must present a romantic spectacle at times When the blushing maiden and her bashful lover for instance sidle up to the counter and register their betrothal and their intention to buy the engagement ring at some unpronounceable jeweler's and the new bonnet for Sunday at another store and a pair of bright spring trousers at What's his name's splendid clothing emporium —at such a juncture we should say the advertising clerk's position would be truly enviable Then as the story went on and the wedding notice with the consequent purchase of gowns and veils and silk hats and gloves and the golden ring came under consideration and at a suitably later date the proud father acknowledged the arrival of a little visitor, and the need for things too numerous to mention how delightful the familiar footing of reader and newspaper publisher! The editor doubtless included the sympathy thus set up between the paper and the public in his calculations

It is noticeable that the editor does not extend the privilege of free notice to readers who have the ill grace to die not even if they promise to deal with the undertakers who advertise This is a shrewd distinction

He Carried Both

New York Sun

In one of the passenger coaches was a man who got on at Red Bank and he was no sooner seated that he took a Bible from his valise and began reading aloud He had a thin and piping voice and as all the hard words stuck him he made a bad mess of it Quite a number of the passengers gathered around to hear him and his mistakes were overlooked by all except the passenger in the seat directly behind him who was reading a book He finally laid it down and said.

See here my friend no one has asked you to read aloud "

I know it but I never wait to be asked, was the reply

In the first place, you have a disagreeable voice " continued the other

Some folks tell me exactly to the contrary '

And in the next place you didn't go to school long enough to learn how to get away with words of three syllables '

It's the first time I ever heard that Do you know what book I'm reading?

The Bible '

And you don't like to hear it?

Not just here and now

That shows what sort of a man you are' I have no doubt that a search of your baggage would bring to light a pack of cards

What's that sir? demanded the other as he half rose

While I carry mine in my coat tail pocket' continued the reader as he laid away the Bible and reached after them and if I can't beat you best three in five at euchre with the joker left out I'll agree to keep shet for the next forty miles '
